

BILLION FOR RAILROAD WORK

HUTCHINS TAKES CHAIR, HIS EYES ON U. C. FUTURE

Tells Plans as He Is Inducted.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

The twelve hours of speeches and song, of feasting, of marching and of stately academic ceremony that got Robert Maynard Hutchins safely and auspiciously inducted into office as fifth president of the University of Chicago came to a close last night with a banquet at the Palmer house in which a thousand men and women representatives of the capital and the learning of Chicago bade the young man from Yale goodspeed on behalf of the whole city.

Dr. Vincent Is Speaker.

"He is more, much more than that," said Dr. Vincent, and he then told why.

"Think," he implored, "of the multitude of souls who will never grow up."

Then came his disclosure that the thirty-year-old president of the vastest university plant in America, who in the morning had conferred from an shaken throne chair the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws upon his own father, is to be explained "not by chronology but by endocrinology."

Many a banqueter at the glittering tables peered anxiously at the speaker, for it was the morning of the induction of the untutored "endocrinology" is only a new word for the new science dealing with the secretions of the ductless glands and their physiological and pathological relations.

The assemblage then breathed more easily.

Dr. Vincent continued:

"My exposure to experience is no guarantee of wisdom. The vast majority register foggy outlines. Many require a long time exposure. Others, like the new president, have quick lenses."

A Pioneering Spirit.

"He has been promptly tested on both sides and has won early recognition for alert intelligence, resourceful imagination, a pioneering spirit and a delightful personality."

"The university and the city hail him. Under his leadership the institution will make steady advance as a vital, stimulating, productive servant of the community, the nation and mankind."

Prolonged applause.

Such was the spirit of the illustrious day—appreciative words heartily applauded in the austere chapel of the university in the morning, in the historic Hutchinson commons in the afternoon, and in the Palmer house in the evening.

Toward midnight the president and his wife, who with him had unflinchingly faced the long bombardment of about thirty thousand kind words, were released for rest.

Frances Mrs. Hutchins.

Early in the day President James R. Angell of Yale sounded the note of induction of Mrs. Hutchins when, in the chapel, he gave her husband greetings from "the college and universities of the North Atlantic seaboard," and acclaimed his qualifications for the great post.

"Not the least of these qualifications," said Dr. Angell, "is Mrs. Hutchins, a gift of fortune which he probably did not deserve, but which, having won it, he is to be credited with."

At this President Hutchins laughed delightedly and looked more than ever boyish.

But he was not boyish in his inaugural address.

Hutchins Tells Policies.

Speaking from the chapel pulpit, in a very subdued tone at first, and always without gesticulation, he named the policies as those which he and his colleagues of the administration would emphasize in mapping the university's future:

1. Increase of professorial salaries.

2. Radical reforms in the methods of the school's undergraduate colleges to the end that the specially gifted student shall not be held back by the mediocrities.

3. Increase of student fees in some departments of the university, so that

Indict Rep. Denison on Rum Charge

THE TAXI DRIVER AND HIS LADY FRIEND

Gilbert, Claire Use Modified Trial Divorce

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

John Gilbert and Ina Claire have separated, Miss Claire moving out of the Gilbert home on a knoll above Beverly Hills and renting a house of her own on Linden drive.

The couple discussed their domestic plans in a joint interview, and stated that "we are not separating permanently; we are still in love, and after several weeks or a month we probably will be living together again."

A Case of Temperament.

According to Gilbert "there were too many carpenters around the house, and too many of Miss Claire's trunks, and too many servants." The well-known Gilbert temperament and the equally well-known Claire temperament both gave way under the strain at about the same time.

The actor explained that after he and Ina had flown to Las Vegas, Nev., and been married last May 9, they returned to find that the Gilbert establishment in the hills, with its bachelor arrangements and one bedroom, was not sufficient to accommodate Miss Claire's forty trunks, and the combined staff of servants.

Lost in Wall Street.

Gilbert let a contract to enlarge his house and add more rooms, but in the meantime the stock market crashed, and he lost a lot of money, and the hammering of the carpenter shift interfered, John said, with "the story sequences that each of us has to concentrate on."

Gilbert had been married twice previously to his matrimonial venture with Miss Claire, having been Leatrice Joy's husband from November, 1921 to May, 23, 1925, when Leatrice won a divorce. His first wife was Olivia Burwell, Miss Claire, the former Ines Fagan of New York, was married once previously, to James Whittaker, dramatic critic.

FRANCE STARTS ELECTRIFICATION OF ITS RAILWAYS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 19.—An enormous program for electrification of France's railway system from Paris to Lyons, including the sector south from Lyons to the Mediterranean and east to Switzerland and Italy, has begun with the laying of 70 miles of track on the main line from Paris to Rome between Culoz and Modane. The third rail was chosen as preferable to trolley.

SNOW ARRIVES IN CITY; COLD TO CONTINUE TODAY

Snow, which the weather bureau predicted for yesterday, began falling last night, moderately in Chicago and more heavily out in the country, according to reports. The light flakes were insufficient to coat Chicago streets, but covered automobile tops and house roofs. Country roads and fields were blanketed with white, however, and motorists found driving difficult, according to the highway police. The skies will continue overcast today, but tomorrow will be fair, according to the weather forecaster, J. R. Lloyd. The temperature will remain around the freezing point, he said.

Lynch a Bank Bandit Waiting Death in Chair

Eastland, Tex., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Marshall Ratliff, under death sentence for the Cisco bank robbery in 1927, tonight was taken from the Eastland county jail here and lynched. Ratliff, who robbed the bank while in the regalia of a Santa Claus, last night shot and seriously wounded Deputy Sheriff T. A. Jones in an attempt to escape from the county jail.

Ratliff was hanged from a telephone pole cable after the mob captured the jailer and took his keys.

First Rope Breaks.

On the first attempt to hang Ratliff, who was in jail here pending a sanity hearing which temporarily had delayed his death in the electric chair, the rope broke. The mob waited for 15 minutes while a new rope was obtained. The rope then was put around his neck, and a score or more men hauled against it.

Some one yelled: "Maybe he wants to talk." The hangmen eased their pressure and Ratliff was lowered.

"Do you want to talk?" they asked him.

"Yes," the doomed man gasped, pulling the rope free. "I've got something I want to say."

Again they waited, while Ratliff stood looking into the faces about him. He mumbled something unintelligible.

"Hell!" some one shouted. "He doesn't want to talk! String him up, and make a good job of it this time!"

The words "String him up" echoed from a hundred men, and again the hangmen bent their weight to the stout rope.

1,000 Gather at Jail.

About a thousand persons gathered around the jail, but the lynching party consisted of only about 200. The leaders slipped into a side door of the jail and demanded the bandit. When Jailer Gilbert refused to surrender Ratliff, he was overpowered and his keys taken.

It was not ascertained whether Ratliff had removed his clothes or whether they were torn from him, but he was nude when dragged down the stairs and into the street to the business district.

Baby Kidnaped from Store; 100 Policemen Hunt It

New York, Nov. 19.—(Special).—The three-month-old son of Mrs. Marguerite Larny of Brooklyn was kidnaped from the lobby of a department store in that borough today. A few moments after he had received the report Inspector John J. Sullivan had dispatched 100 policemen and detectives to search for the child, Donald Larny. The mother left the child in his carriage while she shopped.

JUDGE RIPS OUT AT SWANSON IN CARROLL TRIAL

Demands Inquiry by Grand Jury.

Phone Tapping

Charges that the telephone of city officials have been tapped and that there is an organized system of eavesdropping on police and other officials were made yesterday in a report by William J. Balmer, commissioner of public service. At the same time Judge David called State's Attorney Swanson before him and told him that courtroom telephones were being tapped. Attorneys appearing before Judge David made the same charges. Details of Balmer's charges on page 10.

State's Attorney Swanson was twice summarily called before the bench by Judge David yesterday during the trial of Police Lieut. Philip Carroll and eight others charged with the murder of Octavius C. Granady.

Once the judge told Mr. Swanson and Special Prosecutors C. M. Lounsbury and William Haynes of Frank J. Loesch's staff that their case against Carroll and his codefendants was weak and that unless they produced better evidence they had up to the moment he would throw the entire prosecution out of court.

Judge David also suggested grand jury action against Sheridan A. Bruseaux, colored, formerly chief investigator for Swanson and Loesch.

As he did so the judge shouted and glared at Swanson, standing before the bench, and indicated it might be well if both Loesch and Swanson were to shape the object of the proposed grand jury investigation.

Judge David's first outburst against Swanson came early in the day when he sent word to the state's attorney that he wanted him in court and then demanded what he knew about the tapping of telephone wires in and around the Criminal Courts building.

Witness Turns on Prosecution.

The second explosion came when Joseph McMillan, a colored preacher, testifying for the prosecution, told the court and jury that Bruseaux had offered him $1,000 if he would say from the witness stand that John Armando, Harry Hochstein, or Sam Kaplan—any one of them—was among the murderers of Granady, and that Chief Prosecutor Frank J. Loesch in connection with the same matter had told him, Mr. McMillan, that he would "throw" him "in the county jail" if he did not testify as Loesch wanted him to testify.

McMillan, a prosecution witness, did other things to the prosecution's case. On direct examination he refused to identify John Armando as the man shooting at Granady's car at 19th street and Blue Island avenue. On cross-examination he said he knew John Armando well and that Armando was not the man who was shooting; that he saw Armando on the corner after the auto load of slayers had started on the chase after Granady's death.

Judge Summons Swanson.

"Dismiss the jury!" ordered Judge David suddenly during the morning session, and then it was noticed that State's Attorney Swanson, accompanied by Judge David's bailiff, was walking up to the bench.

The jury was ushered out. Then Judge David turned to the state's attorney, standing before him, and said: "I have sent for you, Mr. Swanson, said Judge David, "to tell you that it has been intimated to me that the wires around this building are being tapped. That the wires are being used by the jurors."

Mr. Swanson stood looking at the court, and the judge went on:

"I hope that it is not true. It is infamous that the judge of a court be under espionage by any one. I regret that I cannot give you the source of my information, but—did I say it was intimated?—it is stronger than that, and a very serious thing."

Prosecutor Makes Denial.

Mr. Swanson then spoke up and told Judge David that the state was not engaged in any wire tapping.

"There certainly is no wire tapping by my office, so far as I know," Swanson said. "If it is being done it must be from the northeast at 7:45 p. m."

Liquor Trunk Traced to Dry Illinois Man

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(Special).—Edward E. Denison, bone dry Republican member of the house from the 25th Illinois district since 1915, and John Layne, his former secretary, were indicted by the district grand jury today on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

The indictment was returned eleven months to the day after a "leaking" suitcase addressed in Denison's care to Layne was discovered by federal agents in the Union station here on last Jan. 19. Denison, who lives at Marion, in southern Illinois, is the third dry congressman, endorsed by the Anti-Saloon league, to be accused of Volstead violations within the last year.

Representative M. A. Michaelson (R-Ill.) was acquitted by a Florida federal jury a few months ago of illegally importing liquor from Haiti under a "freedom of the port" order. Another Anti-Saloon league protégé, Representative W. M. Morgan (Rep.-O.), was absolved early in the year by New York customs authorities after subordinate officers declared they had seen liquor in his baggage.

One of the Driest Dry Voters.

The Denison indictment, creating no end of a sensation on Capitol hill, came as a complete surprise to Denison's friends, who pointed to his long and consistent record as a supporter of prohibition dating from before the war measures prohibiting the shipment of liquor by mail into dry states, through the 18th amendment and Volstead act, down to the so-called "Jones 5 and 10" law drastically increasing the penalties for violation.

According to the information on which the grand jury acted, federal agents discovered the leaking suitcase addressed to "John Layne, care of E. E. Denison, 411 House Office Building," in the American Railway Express office in the Union station. Checking the waybill covering the suitcase, the agents found that a trunk had been shipped at the same time from New York and had been delivered to Denison's office the day before.

Claimed Trunk, Agents Report.

The agents, it is reported, told the grand jury they found Denison in the office and saw the trunk, as yet unopened, near by. Denison, they said, declared the trunk was his. Requested to open it, Denison, the agents are said to have testified, fumbled for keys and finally said he would go to his apartment, get the right keys and expect the agents in the office in the evening. He met them later but at that time denied ownership of the trunk or knowledge of its contents. He gave his permission to have the trunk opened and the agents found eighteen bottles of Scotch whisky and six bottles of gin.

Denison, who is chairman of the subcommittee of the house commerce committee in charge of Panama canal legislation, had returned to the United States from an inspection of the Canal Zone only a few days before the seizure, it was pointed out. Denison was accompanied on the trip, according to his present secretary, Miss Lucille Lee, by his nephew, Charles Lane of St. Louis.

Ex-Secretary Offers Alibi.

John Layne, the former secretary, declared this afternoon he has not been employed by Denison for nearly eleven years, asserted that the room he occupied was not in Denison's office.

PRESIDENT WINS PROMISES TO BOOST BUSINESS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(Special).—Confidence in a continuation of business progress was the keynote of conferences held by President Hoover today with financial and railway authorities.

Financial Chiefs Lay Future Plans.

Assurances of the soundness of the business structure and the probability of cheaper money were given by those in charge of the federal reserve system. Promises were made for the railroads that there would be no letup in construction and betterment programs, and that there would be expansion where possible.

The railroad executives, in their conference with the President, outlined their industry's expansion plans only generally, but it was learned unofficially that the nation's railroads have projects in mind that would require an aggregate budget of more than one billion dollars in the next year.

Financial Leaders Meet.

Participating in the financial conference were the twelve members of the advisory council of the federal reserve system, the members of the federal reserve board, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Commerce La Follette, and Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Roy A. Young, governor of the federal reserve board, epitomized the discussions in the following statement: "At a meeting of the federal advisory council, the members of which represent the twelve federal reserve banking districts, with the President, the general business situation was reviewed and each member reported that business and banking throughout his district are in a sound condition, and the prospects were that money will be available at lower rates."

Twelve Railway Men Join.

Twelve railway executives were at the conference with the President earlier in the day. Also participating were William Butterworth, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States; Mr. Barnes, Secretary Mellon and La Follette, and Ernest I. Lewis, chairman of the Interstate commerce commission.

President Hoover acted as spokesman for this conference with the following statement:

"The railway presidents were unanimous in their determination to cooperate in the maintenance of employment and business progress. It was stated that the railways which they represented would proceed with full programs of construction and betterments without any reference to recent stock exchange fluctuations; that they would canvass the possibilities of further expansion, and that amongst these particular railways it appeared that the total volume of such construction work already indicated an increase during the next six months over the similar period of last year."

Chicago Meeting Friday.

of expending $100,000,000 in 1930 and that there would be no reduction in the number of employees in any section.

"The Pennsylvania railroad intends carrying forward the largest expenditures for capital improvements in years," he said. "It will expend over $100,000,000 next year, assured that the expanding condition of commerce in our territory needs these improvements. Nothing has happened or appears on the horizon to discourage us from going ahead."

Among other things, the railways furnish work and a means of livelihood to 1,750,000 employees; pay out nearly $2,000,000,000 in wages annually which find their way almost at once into the channels of trade and commerce; give indirect employment to many hundred thousand additional men who manufacture and distribute the products bought and used by railroads in construction, maintenance, and operation; expend more than $1,125,000,000 a year for the capital and supplies used in their operation; and spend an average of more than $750,000,000 for capital improvements.

The Philadelphia and Reading railroad plans to spend about $20,000,000 on electrification of its line leading out of Philadelphia and also to spend a considerable sum on the elimination of grade crossings.

Mr. Sargent said that the earnings of the North Western are running about normal and are substantially the same as last year. He said he did not believe the present was the time for long time bond issues for capital expenditures, but that before long he anticipated that money would be plentiful at cheaper rates.

Mr. Crowley saw nothing alarming about the present situation.

Plan Other Conferences.

Plans for further conferences on Thursday and Friday to maintain business progress, to offset the stock market collapse, went forward. Among those who will attend a conference of industrial leaders on Thursday are Owen D. Young, Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel company, and Clarence M. Woolley, president of the American Radiator company.

What the administration wishes to check by the conference is the natural tendency of industrial and business leaders to sit back to see "what is going to happen"—such cautious checking of business undertakings that otherwise would develop.

Prevention of any situation in employment is especially desired.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem., Mont.), in a statement today, recalled that President Coolidge, at a time when brokers' loans were mounting, asserted there was nothing in the situation to cause alarm. Now that the crash has come, Senator Walsh noted, eminent Democrats are among the "rescue contingent," despite the belief cultivated by the Republicans that the Democratic party "is bent on ruining the business of the country and is unequal to the task of directing its financial affairs."

PLAN SHIPBUILDING BOOM

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(P)—A plan to award ocean mail contracts to the lowest bidder was announced tonight by Postmaster General Brown, who said it would provide a stimulus which would fill American shipyards to capacity with new building contracts within six months.

Disclosing the decision of the inter-departmental committee, which has been studying whether companies that bought ships from the United States shipping board should be favored in mail contracts, the postmaster general said that in order to push forward new construction, the committee would favor companies planning immediate building.

In addition to this, the government would aid the shipping companies through loans from the $250,000,000 fund set up under the Jones-White act. Under this act, 75 per cent of the total amount to be spent on new tonnage can be borrowed.

Forty new ships are being planned by companies that have indicated their intention to submit bids on mail contracts. Brown said new liners planned for the North Atlantic would cost $25,000,000 and the vessels for other routes would be of the most modern type.

DOWIE'S WIDOW TO INVADE ZION AGAINST VOLIVA

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, head of the Christian Catholic Apostolic church and overseer of Zion, Ill., last night was facing formidable opposition for control of the sect.

Mrs. Joanne Dowie, elderly widow of John Alexander Dowie, founder of the church, wrote yesterday from Greensburg, O., that she had accepted an invitation to return to Zion and lead the Dowieites back to righteousness. The invitation was extended by a group of 100 so-called independents, who have opposed Voliva's leadership.

Mrs. Dowie announced her conviction that the healing power her late husband claimed had been transmitted to her. She will conduct services in Bethesda house, headquarters of the independents, and will bless and lay her hands on the afflicted who wish to be healed.

Since her husband's death, Mrs. Dowie has lived away from Zion with her son, Gladstone Dowie, an Episcopal minister.

FAHY'S HATRED BARES RONDOUT LOOT RECOVERY

News Traced to Murray's Fellow Prisoner.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 19.—(Special).—The federal government's secret acceptance, more than a year ago, of $250,000 worth of bonds, comprising the loot James Murray received for his part in the $2,000,000 Rondout mail robbery near Chicago five years ago, was made public through the efforts of a fellow prisoner, William J. Fahy, former postal inspector, according to reports here tonight.

Fahy and Murray are both serving twenty-five year terms in the Atlanta federal penitentiary for their share in the daring holdup.

The motive behind Fahy's exposure of the transaction is said to be hatred which flared against Murray when Fahy learned that Murray, a former Chicago politician, had made restitution to the government and thus put himself in a position to ask freedom through the medium of a presidential pardon. Ordinarily both men would have to serve one-third of their sentence, eight years, before they could apply for parole.

Losses Chance to Share Loot.

Another reason given here for Fahy's desire to make the matter known is said to have been his belief that he could have shared in the Murray loot when both were released. That possibility is now lost forever.

With the $250,000 turned back to the government, there is now but $14,000 of the $2,000,000 haul missing. This is thought to have been Fahy's share.

Just how much time elapsed after Murray completed the transaction and before Fahy learned of it, is not known, but it is reliably reported here that when Fahy did come into possession of the facts, he flew into a rage and began to seek a way whereby the matter could become known. That he did manage to slip it out by way of the prison "grapevine" system is considered almost certain.

News to Warden, He Says.

Not content with knowing that the story would eventually become known, the former ace of the Chicago postal inspectors is believed to have made an effort to get Murray into trouble with the prison officials. This, however, was denied by Warden A. C. Aderhold tonight.

The warden also denied knowing that Murray, or his representatives, had turned back the bonds. "It's all news to me," Aderhold said. He admitted, however, that the money or securities could have been turned over to the government without the prison officials' knowledge.

Further than to say that there was nothing to the report that either Fahy or Murray were being treated differently than any other prisoners, the warden referred all inquiries to the department of prisons in Washington.

The bonds were turned over to Grant B. Miller, late head of the United States postal inspectors in Washington, more than a year ago. It is regarded as a curious circumstance that the story of the transaction and of Murray's application for a commutation of his sentence became known in Chicago just two days after Mr. Miller's death.

PASTOR, 4 OTHERS HURT IN CRASH

Alton, Ill., Nov. 19.—(P)—Five persons, including the Rev. O. E. Whitlock, superintendent of the Southern Illinois Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, were injured late yesterday in a grade crossing accident near here. They were brought to a local hospital.

WM. R. DAWES AMONG THOSE SUGGESTED FOR GOOD'S CABINET PLACE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(Special).—Washington prophets already are busy over who will take the late Secretary Good's place in the cabinet. Assistant Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley took over the duties of secretary of war today and in some quarters it is believed he may be asked to accept the portfolio. Among others put forward as possible selections by the President are William R. Dawes of Chicago, former Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan and banker and close personal friend of the President. The fact that the President would like to select a man well posted on inland waterways development has prompted the discussion of Mr. Dawes.

FACING PRISON, RACKET CHIEF IS READY TO TALK

Gust Stavrakas, 40 years old, former president of the Bootblacks' Protective association, is willing to talk now that he has finally been brought to face with the penitentiary after a fight of more than two years to escape a conspiracy charge growing out of a reign of bombing and window smashing.

Stavrakas expressed his willingness to talk yesterday after being arrested by Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney. He was turned over to First Assistant State's Attorney Northrup. Because Northrup had other engagements the exposure of conditions was postponed until today.

It was pointed out, however, that Stavrakas might tell would be of little value because of the statute of limitations. He was active three or four years ago.

Stavrakas was convicted before Swanson became state's attorney. He appealed but the Supreme court recently affirmed the decision, carrying a 1 to 5 year sentence in the penitentiary. Then Stavrakas could not be found. At the demand of Judge David, who presided at the trial, the prosecutor's office started a search for him. Edwin C. Hansen, 1834 North Rockwell street, a business agent for the carpenters' union, was indicted yesterday in connection with the bombing several weeks ago of the home of John Wecznak, 2101 Marmora avenue.

SEEK TWO FOR REVENGE KILLING AT ROADHOUSE

Harry Ross, 26 years old, and Jack Smith, 32 years old, were being hunted by Chicago police last night for the murder of Emil Wander, 35 years old, who was shot to death by two men last Saturday night while counting receipts in his roadhouse in Downers Grove. The slayers took no money.

Ross and Smith are suspected on the basis of a story told by Robert Miskelly, 20 years old, 2346 West Monroe street. Miskelly and Smith were arrested by Downers Grove police four nights before the killing when their car stalled in front of Wander's roadhouse.

The stalled car was proved stolen and Smith, charged with the theft, was released on bail. Miskelly, who confessed forty holdups to Chicago police, has since been held. He told Sgt. Robert Walling of the detective bureau that he and Smith suspected Wander had called the police to arrest them.

The theory is that Smith and his associate, Ross, returned to the roadhouse and killed Wander for causing the arrest. Patrons of the roadhouse, who saw the killing, are reported to have identified photographs of Ross, an ex-convict.

OLD COUPLE END LIVES ON 54TH ANNIVERSARY

Note Says "We're Going Away Together."

New York, Nov. 19.—(Special).—Four years ago today Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Widdicombe celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. This morning they were found dead together in their comfortable home in Brooklyn. They had ended their lives with gas.

Mr. Widdicombe, for many years chief clerk of the New York Central railroad and well known in the civic life of Brooklyn, was 80. His wife, Helen, was 73.

Eight years ago Mrs. Widdicombe suffered a paralytic stroke. She had been confined to a wheel chair. Recovery was impossible. Yesterday physicians told her that a cataract had formed on one of her eyes and that she must be taken to a sanatorium for an operation.

Miss Blanche Taylor, Mrs. Widdicombe's nurse, awakened late this morning. She felt ill. Then she smelled gas.

Her first thought was for her helpless patient. Running down the hall she found the door to the other bedroom closed fast. Hastily slipping into more clothes, she called a policeman from a nearby corner.

The patrolman broke in the door. He found that a chair, placed beneath the knob, had prevented it opening. The two old people lay dead in bed. Two open jars had poured out gas for seven hours, and blankets about the windows and doors had prevented the entrance of any fresh air.

On a chair beside the bed, in the handwriting of the husband, they found this note:

"They tell me that Helen must go away alone. That shall not be. I will go with her. We cannot be separated after all these happy years."

WIFE RUINS CAR AS DRIVER WINS SAFETY AWARD

Amidst the accolade of police and public officials yesterday in the Evanston city hall, Ernest Ling, 28 years old, 1406 Ashland avenue, Evanston, was awarded a safe driver's certificate, the fourth issued since the Evanston police launched their safe driving campaign a month ago. Ling, for five years the driver of an Evans-ton-Niles Center bus, had covered 175,000 miles without an accident.

Last night amidst the season's second snowfall, Mrs. Antonette Ling, the bus driver's wife, crashed into a truck driven by Cassimir Domurat, 1414 West 17th street, Chicago. The collision occurred at Simpson street and McCormick boulevard. No one was injured but Ling's car was wrecked beyond repair.

OLD FASHIONED WIFE WINS SUIT FOR SEPARATION

Mrs. Audrey Vinita Coon, 707 Linden avenue, Wilmette, yesterday won her separate maintenance suit against her husband, Byron S. Coon, manager of the Coon Finance company of Evanston, before Superior Judge Sabath. Mrs. Coon charged her husband with cruelty in an effort to transform her from an old fashioned girl into a modern smoking and gin drinking wife.

The Coons were married May 13, 1924, in a campus romance at Northwestern university, and separated last April. They have two children, James, 4 years old, and Audrey, 2. Mrs. Coon was represented by the law firm of Socrates and Davis. She asked an increase of the $225 a month temporary alimony award.

Levi Lerman, 83 years old, 1457 West Roosevelt road, and Frieda Tarnia, 70 years old, a widow, 3309 Montrose avenue, yesterday obtained a marriage license at the county building. Mr. Lerman, who has also been married and has seven grandchildren, is a retired real estate dealer. Neither Mr. Lerman nor his bride to be can write.

WALKER SPEEDS BILLION DOLLAR NEW YORK WORK

New York, Nov. 19.—(Special).—Mayor Walker today ordered his department heads to speed up the great public works on which New York City contemplates an expenditure within the next four years of more than one billion dollars.

The mayor reminded his cabinet chiefs that this speed would afford, in the event of need, profitable employment to hundreds of thousands of men.

"I don't propose to have this work done on blueprints," he declared, with emphasis. "Blueprints are not enough. I will look at a blueprint once and then I want to see action."

The public works plans include: Triborough bridge, to cost $35,000,000; work recently begun.

Midtown vehicular tunnel, to cost $103,000,000.

Narrows vehicular tunnel, to cost $75,000,000.

Completion of the first half of city's independent subway system; about $200,000,000 of the work still to be done.

Pushing of second half of the new subway system at an estimated cost of $500,000,000.

School construction work for which, within the next four years, $200,000,000 is scheduled to be expended.

LEOPOLD SPENDS 25TH BIRTHDAY AT WORK IN PRISON

Nathan Leopold, co-slayer of Bobby Franks, observed his 25th birthday in the new penitentiary at Joliet yesterday. Leopold, who is employed in the prison library, was shown no special favors on given special food and spent the day at his desk. He received no visitors and declined to talk to reporters. He has been in the prison since 1934 and has a good record. His companion in the Franks murder, Richard Loeb, is employed as a messenger in the old prison, and the two have not seen each other for several years.

MRS. BUCHANAN SAYS SHE IS TO WED AFTER ALL

Announces Engagement After Canceling Ceremony

Mrs. Katharine Winterbotham Buchanan, well known in Chicago society, issued a formal statement last night that she and Dr. Marcellus D. von Redlich, Persian consul general in Chicago, "desire to announce their engagement." A short time later Dr. Redlich confirmed "any statement Mrs. Buchanan made," but maintained they had not been engaged prior to last night.

It was revealed early yesterday that Mrs. Buchanan had made arrangements a week ago with the Rev. Dunstan H. Browne, rector of St. James' church, for her marriage to Dr. von Redlich at 5 o'clock last Monday afternoon in the church, and that on Monday morning she canceled the arrangements.

Von Redlich Is Surprised.

When Dr. von Redlich was questioned about the proposed wedding which did not take place he expressed surprise.

Mrs. Buchanan issued her statement in her apartment at 300 North Michigan avenue. It was drafted, she said, following a family conference on the subject. It follows:

"Mrs. Katharine Winterbotham Buchanan and Dr. Marcellus D. von Redlich desire to announce their engagement. Definite date of the marriage has not been set owing to the serious illness of Mrs. J. R. Winterbotham, Mrs. Buchanan's mother. The date for the wedding, which was previously set for Monday, the 18th, has been postponed. Only the family were to have been present."

The Fiance's Confirmation.

In Dr. von Redlich's apartment at 311 East Delaware street he was asked for a statement.

"I confirm Mrs. Buchanan's statement," he said.

"Do you know what it is?"

"No, I do not," he said. "I told her over the phone I would confirm what she said, but she did not tell me what the statement was to be."

He was read the statement.

"That's all right," he said. "I said I confirmed it."

"Does that mean you and Mrs. Buchanan will be married?"

"I suppose so," he replied. "I repeat I confirm her statement."

"Were you engaged prior to this time?"

"No," he answered emphatically.

"Does that mean, then, that you will be married because of a newspaper story?"

"Does a man commit murder because the newspapers want him to?" he asked.

"I am not evading," he continued. "I only wished to have the lady make the first statement, to give her, in other words, the upper hand."

Divorce Suit Witness.

Dr. von Redlich confirmed the fact that Mrs. Buchanan had been a witness for him in his suit for divorce from Mrs. Gertrude R. von Redlich last March in the court of Judge Joseph Sabath. Mrs. Buchanan testified that Mrs. von Redlich preferred living in Austria to living in Chicago. He charged desertion.

Dr. von Redlich, who is of Austrian birth, said that he and Mrs. Redlich knew Mrs. Buchanan in Chicago, and that they met later in Europe. He is consul for Persia and Monaco and legal adviser to the prince of Monaco. He has two children, Rita Evelyn, 6 years old, and Marcel Reginald Hamilton Leonard, 5 years old. They are at present traveling in Italy.

Hopes Are Shattered.

"I wished to keep our engagement and marriage plans quiet," said Mrs. Buchanan, "because when one is married a second time one does not like a stir over it. It seems that the very thing happened I hoped to avoid."

She was divorced from Thompson Buchanan, playwright, Sept. 25, 1926, in Los Angeles, where he was engaged in writing scenarios. They had been married 11 years. She has two children, a daughter 11 years old and son 5 years old, who live with her.

"I do not believe the statements attributed to Dr. von Redlich in the newspapers that we are not betrothed," Mrs. Buchanan said.

GOOD'S BOYHOOD PAL FALLS DEAD PLANNING TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—On Friday afternoon, almost at the same hour the body of James W. Good, secretary of war, is buried in Oak Hill cemetery here, funeral services will be held for William B. Lutz, farmer, and boyhood friend of Mr. Good. Mr. Lutz fell dead while planning to attend the Good funeral.

Mr. Lutz and Mr. Good lived on adjoining farms near Louisa, Ia. They attended the same rural school and they became warm friends. In after years, when Mr. Lutz became a wealthy farmer and Mr. Good a prominent lawyer and member of congress, they laughed over old times.

A heart attack ended Mr. Lutz's life today and he will be laid to rest almost at the same hour that the grave closes on his boyhood friend.

WOUNDED GAME OFFICER KILLS SELF IN WOODS

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Wounded and alone in the wild Jackson Lake country of western Wyoming, S. E. Cophaven, 45 year old game warden of the Teton national forest, shot and killed himself ten days ago to prevent a more horrible death, associates in the forest service reported today.

Cophaven's body covered with snow was found by searchers late yesterday and was taken to Jackson, Wyo., today. Parties had been searching for him a week after he had failed to arrive at Jackson.

A note declared he had slashed his arm while cutting a rope and gave directions for finding his pack.

ASKS $500,000 OF BARONESS IN SLANDER ACTION

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Raoul Alevra, former Russian diplomat, filed suit for $500,000 for slander in the Supreme court today against his ex-mother-in-law, Baroness Marie Louis De Hasperg, the wife of Baron Gustave De Hasperg of 993 Park avenue, who was formerly Mrs. Alfred E. Norris.

Alevra married Dorothy Louise Norris at Narragansett Pier in 1920 and was divorced by her last April. There is now pending a suit of $250,000 against Mr. Norris, a broker, for alienation of affections, in which Alevra alleges that his father-in-law induced Mrs. Alevra to leave him and sue for divorce.

Alevra in his new suit against the maternal side of his wife's family says that Baroness De Hasperg accused him of pawing her daughter's jewels to pay gambling debts and trying to "extort money" from her.

FUNERAL RITES FOR GOOD TODAY AT WHITE HOUSE

President and Staff to Pay Tribute.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—President Hoover, with the highest officials of the government, will gather in the historic east room of the White House at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning to pay the nation's official tribute to the memory of Secretary of War James W. Good, whose death occurred last night following an operation for appendicitis.

Included in the distinguished company which will attend the White House services will be Vice President Curtis, the justices of the Supreme court, ranking members of the diplomatic corps, and delegations from the house and senate. Mrs. Good with her two sons and the late secretary's closest friends will have a special place of honor near the President and Mrs. Hoover. Members of the cabinet will act as honorary pallbearers.

Body to Be Taken West.
Following the exercises in the east room the body will lie in state until 2 o'clock, when a military guard of honor will arrive to escort the funeral party to the Union station. The compartment cars transporting the Good party will arrive in Chicago at the North Western station at 9:30 a. m. Thursday morning. Thirty minutes later the train will depart for Cedar Rapids, Ia., where interment will take place Friday noon.

President Hoover today designated his military aid, Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, as his personal representative to accompany the funeral party to Cedar Rapids. Accompanying Mrs. Good and her two sons, James William Jr. and Robert Edmund, on the trip will be Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, as representative of the administration; Senators Charles S. Deneen (Rep., Ill.) and Smith W. Brookhart (Rep., Ia.); Representative Cyrus Cole (Rep., Ia.); Acting Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff, and several others.

Army Flags at Half Staff.
By official proclamation, flags flew at half staff in the capital and from public buildings and at military posts throughout the country today as a mark of respect.

The passing of Secretary Good removes a devoted public official, the President said. "For most of his mature life he served the nation, earning the highest esteem for his abilities, his fine integrity and his courageous spirit. But the first thoughts of those who knew and loved him are not of his public services. It is for his loyal and self-effacing friendship that thousands remember him; and that affectionate association is now broken."

ILLINOIS LAWYERS DINE AT HARVARD SCHOOL OF LAW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Boston, Mass., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The Illinois judicial advisory council went through Harvard today. The faculty of Harvard law school gave a luncheon in honor of the visitors, and tomorrow is set for conferences with professors who have specialized in judicial reform and modernization of court systems. Here the investigators expect to gather a mass of material on what other states have done to brush away red tape and technical hair splittings.

Headed by John D. Black, president of the Illinois Bar association, a Harvard graduate, the investigators spent most of the afternoon looking over the law library.

Walking across Boston common to night, John Black voiced his reaction to what the group has observed in Canada thus:

"The basic difference between the speeding up of trials in Canada as opposed to the delays in Cook county is due to the fact that in Canada the judge is clothed with power to control his court. When you endow a judge with sufficient power to handle any question of practice and procedure and to determine the issues that come up and when you select the right sort of judges, you would dispose of 75 per cent of the troubles we have with congested calendars, etc., in Cook county."

Anna fled, screaming, and the Negro snatched from Josephine her purse containing 50 cents and a fountain pen. The girls were on their way to an evening class at the Medill school, 14th place and Loomis street, when accosted.

HUTCHINS TAKES CHAIR, HIS EYES ON U. OF C. FUTURE

Tells Plans for Progress as He Is Inducted.

4. The widening of experimental work and research and the intensification of "the trying out of ideas."

5. Closer cooperation of the university's experts on such problems as "the problem of the family," a problem which will involve the cooperation of eleven departments of the university, from art to chemistry, and of seven of its professional schools, from divinity to medicine."

For New Teaching Methods.

6. Changes in the instructional methods of the divinity school, the law school, and the medical school.

7. Devising of the best methods of preparing men and women for research and creative scholarship, on the one hand, and for teaching, on the other.

The inaugural address was sparse in epigram but those which it did contain were intensely characteristic of the man. Thus:

"It is men and nothing but men that make education. That cannot be too often repeated."

"If the first faculty of the University of Chicago had met in a tent, this would still have been a great university."

"We are dedicated to the proposition that all men are entitled to whatever education they can use effectively."

"If the proper focus of research is the world about us, then the focus of research at this university should be primarily that part of the world about us called Chicago and the Chicago area."

"Keep Close to Reality."

"Only by keeping in touch with reality can real life be understood."

"In education it is too often forgotten that the essence of experimentation is that final decision is reserved until the experiment is complete."

"Emphasis on productive scholarship (as distinguished from teaching undergraduates) has characterized this university from the beginning and must characterize it to the end."

"If the university's function is to attempt solutions of difficult educational problems, to try to illuminate dark and dubious fields, it cannot retreat from the field of undergraduate work, so dark and dubious today. Instead of withdrawing from this field we should vigorously carry forward experiments in it."

"We must husband our resources to spend them on first rate men for first rate work. We must compete with the business world for the best men."

Confers Honorary Degrees.

This pithy president's first official act was the conferring of the honorary degree of doctor of laws on:

Martin A. Ryerson, Chicago capitalist, patron of the arts, member and former president of the board of trustees of the university, and the man who gave it the Ryerson laboratory.

William James Hutchins, father of Robert Maynard Hutchins, and president of Berea college, Kentucky.

Impressive as were the ceremonial and the pageantry of what young Hutchins called "the greatest day of my life," and significant as were the men of light and leading on the scene, the feature of the inauguration which most deeply moved the beholders and which will linger longest and most fondly with them was the tableau in the chancel when young Hutchins bestowed the degree upon his white haired father.

By the time that ceremony was reached the son had been escorted by Harold H. Swift, president of the board of trustees, and by Dr. Robert Valentine Merrill, university marshal, from the less conspicuous chair at the foot of the chapel pulpit to the great oaken throne chair in the center of the chancel which is never occupied on official occasions save by the president of the university.

The rigid etiquette of this occasion required that the son should remain seated when his father was escorted by Mr. Swift, the marshal, and Dean Charles Hubbard Judd from the choir stalls on the left of the chancel—as you face it—to a place in front of the oaken throne chair.

Honor Father of President.

"The senate of the University of Chicago was unanimous," said Dean Judd, "in its desire to recognize his achievements in theology and educational administration. It is especially appropriate that this recognition be expressed on this occasion, which for personal as well as professional reasons furnishes a happy opportunity to acknowledge his contributions to American education. He is presented as a candidate for the honorary degree of doctor of laws."

The son, still sitting, and briefly doffing his gold tasseled mortar board to his father, took up the ornate words of the ritual of bestowal.

"Upon you, William James Hutchins, in recognition of a singularly happy union of the qualities of minister, teacher, and college administrator, whereby you have made a contribution of the first order to education in the United States, I confer the honorary degree of doctor of laws."

The son went on—only through the opening words of the bestowal.

After that his voice broke and his lips trembled.

He seemed to linger on the words with a loving humility. Once or twice he glanced upward at his black robed father. But mostly his gaze was downward, and his tone was gentle almost to timidity, as of one saying in the back of his mind, "This I, sir, who should be standing before you."

It was not a scene for tears. It was too deep and fine for sentimentalism. Yet tears filled the eyes of many a grizzled, crusty president and chancellor.

The president's bestowal having been completed, the two recorders attending him stepped forward with the academic hood of purple and black, which is the emblem of the degree. They, assisted by the marshal, placed it on the son's head, not old, for he carries his fifty-eight years erectly—clergyman and administrator's shoulders and he withdrew to his place in the choir stalls.

Dean Laing Praises Ryerson.

When Mr. Ryerson came forward to receive his degree he was acclaimed by Dean Gordon Jennings Laing, at once the most vivid and vehement speaker of the day, as "Chicago's first citizen in all that pertains to the intellectual life."

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university and secretary of the interior, was to have received the degree of Doctor of Laws. But, owing to the death of his colleague, Secretary of War Good, he felt that it was not fitting that he leave Washington.

After the honoring of the elder Hutchins the assemblage of 3,000 men and women in the chapel arose and sang the university's anthem, "Alma Mater," the new president singing with them lustily.

The Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the chapel, who had made the prayer which opened the ceremonies, pronounced the benediction. As he uttered the last words the chimes in Mitchell tower clashed into the "Puritan" chorale from "Tannhäuser."

Pilgrims, indeed, from far countries and representing many faiths, the induction had brought together.

Among them were Prof. B. F. Avery, American university in Beirut, Syria; Don José Ponteciano Apostol, University of the Philippines; Prof. Fritz Dreiermann, University of Frankfurt, Germany; Dr. Ernst Duesler, University of Basel, Switzerland, and delegates from nine Canadian schools, six of which are universities that sent their presidents.

Gets Place of Honor.

The University of St. Andrews, Scotland, was given the place of honor in the long processional—three blocks long—from Ida Noyes hall west on the Midway to the chapel. That was because it is the oldest school—founded in 1411—represented at the inaugural. Sir William Alexander Craigie was its delegate. Behind St. Andrews came Basle, 1460; then Trinity college, Dublin, which Queen Elizabeth founded; then Harvard, 1636; then Little William and Mary of Virginia, 1693; then Yale, 1701; then the University of Pennsylvania, 1740, and so on until one beheld Prof. David Gordon Laird, representing the University of British Columbia.

Protestants, Catholics, Jews, and Mormons were among the dignitaries. Education in the western world, from the schools of Chicago and Cook county to the far north University of Saskatchewan, was represented in that march. Great educational and philanthropic foundations like the Rockefeller and the Rosenwald sent their honor men. So did many other schools.

Present, too, were young Hutchins' rivals and yet his best friends, David Kinley, president of the University of Illinois, and Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university.

With Angel of Yale, Kinley and Scott were the leaders in the ceremonial of the giving of the right hand of fellowship.

Kinley, lightly wearing his 68 years, leaned solicitously over the edge of the chapel pulpit to drop words of kindness and counsel down on the new president who sat at his feet.

Scott, stately in the black robes and purple and white hood of Northwestern, closed his speech with words on why the people of Chicago are interested in their new fellow citizen:

"They are interested in you because they believe that you will bring to the University of Chicago great scholars and that you will provide conditions which will enable these scholars to render the greatest possible service in training students, in rendering expert service to the community, and in adding to the sum total of human knowledge."

Other Speakers on Program.

Other speakers of the day—and the night—were Harry W. Chase, president of the University of North Carolina, who brought greetings from the south; Charles H. Hamill, who spoke "for the citizens of Chicago," and Frederic Woodward, vice president of the University of Chicago.

President Hutchins spoke three times, saying in his night speech, "Since this is my third speech today you will doubtless think me the lineal descendant of John Bunyan's Mr. Talkative."

So, he said, he would answer for himself and his wife, the perennial question, "How do you like Chicago?" And his answer was:

"We like it so well that we can't imagine why we didn't come here sooner, except that we weren't invited."

TOO MANY GIRLS PURSUE HUSBAND WIFE SUES HIM

Mrs. Mildred B. Powell, 30 years old, 1407 Jarvis avenue, yesterday filed a bill for separate maintenance in the Superior court against her husband, Elihan T. Powell, sales manager and part owner of the Lewis Knit Goods company, 308 South State street. The bill, drawn by Attorney William N. Gernamill Jr., charges that her husband is irresistibly attracted by women and they, in turn, are equally drawn to him. She names in particular a Miss Violet Walker of Kansas City.

The Powells were married ten years ago in Glenora. They have two children, Wallace, 9 years old, and Virginia, 4. Mrs. Powell alleges that she has withheld action for the sake of their children, and that she has even gone so far as to help him untangle himself from difficulties with women.

So great is Powell's attractiveness that he has been frequently asked by women to be the father of their children, the bill declares. "This has led to many difficulties, which Mrs. Powell declares she has aided in solving by interviewing the other women. The bill says Powell met Miss Walker while he was in Kansas City on business. She followed him to Chicago, according to the bill, and Powell announced to his wife that he loved Miss Walker. On Jan. 1, 1928, he is said to have telephoned his wife that he would not be able to come home to dinner because he was going out with his sweetheart.

The bill declared that Powell left his wife Aug. 29 when Powell called his wife and invited her to have dinner with himself and Miss Walker. When Mrs. Powell refused the husband moved out of their home, according to the bill. Mrs. Powell puts her husband's income at approximately $1,000 a month.

CLEANING PLANTS NOW OPEN SHOP PATTERSON SAYS

Practically all the clothes cleaning plants in the city which were shut down for several days by a lockout of 2,500 union employees have resumed operation on an open shop basis, according to Clayton Patterson, the executive secretary of the Chicago Master Cleaners and Dryers' association. Mr. Patterson said yesterday that no difficulty was experienced by the master cleaners in reopening their establishments and that a large percentage of the old union employees were willing to be rehired as open shop workers.

In the meantime Ben Albert, head of the Pressers and Cleaners union, made plans to speed completion of the $100,000 cleaning plant he is erecting with private finances and the unemployment fund of the union at Diversey and Tripp avenues. It was this plant, master cleaners say, that caused them to lock out their employees.

JUDGES, VEXED, FLING DEFICIT BACK AT COUNTY

Refuse to Take Buck by Slashing Fee Offices.

After listening for three days to judicial speeches, made by county officials today, the three Circuit court judges constituting the committee which was the number of jobs for fee offices, abandoned their judicial pose yesterday to declare themselves victims of political buck passing. At the same time they indicated that they will refuse to make wholesale cuts recommended by J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert.

The judges on the committee are Judge Kerner, chairman; Michael Feinberg and Stanley Klarkowski. Their assignment came after they had listened all day to the protests of fee officers against slashing, and the counter promises of Jacobs that cuts are necessary to ward off bankruptcy. More than once Jacobs drew censure from the judges for his opposition to their views. The final break came when Jacobs said a civil service system would reduce the pay roll expenses.

Feinberg Cuts Loose.
"The judges have been most patient in the conduct of these hearings," Judge Feinberg remarked. "We have stood for a great deal of nonsense. But this is going too far. We have been invited to ask the governor to call a special session of the legislature to aid the county in its financial difficulties. Now, you say that we should recommend civil service in the county."

"The duties of this committee are clearly defined by statute. We are to fix the proper number of employees to conduct the various fee offices. We are not concerned whether the county is broke or not. We are not a board of financial arbitration. We are not here to assume responsibility for the present financial crisis or to remedy that situation. Efforts are being made to shift the burden on our shoulders and we won't take it."

With this statement the committee adjourned until this morning. Earlier in the day Jacobs drew the ire of the committee when he suggested that the personal bailiffs of the judges assist in the service of serving legal papers. This suggestion was made after Sheriff Traeger said that he only had 30 men for this work when he needed 100 to cover the city.

Judges Force Showdown.
"I venture to say that there are eighteen judges who are not on the bench at this hour," Jacobs said. "This is true every afternoon. Why can't these bailiffs work in the afternoon?"

"It's such statements that bring disputes on the courts," Judge Feinberg said.

Gets Permanent Wage at 92

Mrs. Jane E. McLaughlin, 92, 553 North Parkside avenue, in the hands of Mrs. Estelle Smith, beauty shop operator. (TRIBUNE PHOTO.)

She Stays in Style

One is never too old to be young again in a philosophy that Mrs. Jane Elizabeth McLaughlin, 92, North Parkside avenue, not only believes, but practices. Mrs. McLaughlin is 92 years old. Yesterday she went to a beauty shop at 1505 North Crawford avenue and had a permanent wave. "I like to keep in style as well as any one," Mrs. McLaughlin explained. "It is lovely to have one's hair nicely curled even when one gets to be as old as I am."

Our duty is to fix the number of employees to run an office efficiently. If the county can not meet the pay that is its problem."

County Treasurer Harding predicted yesterday that county employees will receive pay before Christmas if the 1930 budget is passed in December.

EMMERSON COOL TOWARD CHICAGO TAX LIFT SESSION

Not Impressed by Plan to Call Legislature.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—The Chicago speech of J. Scott Matthews urging a special session of the legislature to increase taxes, because of a Chicago city deficit of $12,000,000 and a Cook county shortage of $4,500,000, does not impress Gov. Emmerson. No special session will be called on the argument so far made.

State officials are more concerned with the fact that the University of Illinois has in its salary fund, from its third of a mill tax, $235,122, as compared with $981,481 on the same date last year. The sum now on hand is insufficient to meet the university's November pay roll. It did not have enough in this particular fund last month, when its pay roll totaled $811,611.

Ordinarily, the university meets its October and November pay rolls from its third of a mill tax. Cook county has not collected its 1929 taxes and the state university's share is therefore missing.

State Officials Look Ahead.
Part of the university's pay roll is payable from the general fund of the state. The state auditor's office says that the university can draw on the general fund for salaries to the extent of $1,533,000, and it is anticipated that that allowance will be exhausted by the time taxes are collected next year. The university is without its usual margin of safety, which is distasteful to the state's fiscal officers.

State officials are inclined to resent published criticisms emanating from the Chicago board of education, because the state has not paid the distributive school funds to Cook county. They point out that Cook county has not collected the taxes from which it would be paid, and the state is not to blame because Cook has not collected its own taxes.

The state has available cash in its general fund today of $12,501,000—enough to keep the state operating until taxes arrive next April. This is without the $4,224,000 levied for state purposes in Cook county, which has not been collected. Usually the state's

ETTELSON ACTS TO END TRAFFIC DELAY FOR OPERA PATRONS

Himself a patron of the opera, Corporation Counsel Ettelson yesterday set in motion a plan to relieve the traffic congestion attending the going to and from the opera.

He assigned his assistant, Edward P. Madigan, to attempt to negotiate a gentlemen's agreement with the owners of ships and tugs operating in the Chicago river under which the craft will not move during certain hours. The lifting of bridges when opera patrons are driving to or away from the opera has discommoded them seriously, Mr. Ettelson said.

Mr. Madigan has conferred with R. C. Yeomans, secretary of the Chicago Waterways association, whose members operate the river traffic, and Mr. Yeomans has promised to present at the association's next meeting the proposal that the boats not move from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. and from 10:30 to midnight.

Mr. Ettelson emphasized that he acted as an individual and had not yet consulted with the other trustees of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

cash balance at this time in the year is $18,000,000 to $19,000,000.

Governor Conservative.
Gov. Emmerson's comment on the Matthews plea for tax relief legislation was that he had received no official petition, but that if one is delivered it will be considered.

"That is a polite way of saying that he will not consider the Matthews speech," said one of the governor's friends.

"There are now nine Chicago legislators in town, and if the governor had any serious thought on a special session he would be conferring with some of these lawmakers. There are two ways to get more tax money. One is to raise the tax rate. The voters of Cook county at the election two weeks ago refused to approve of an extra rate to wipe out the county deficit."

"In the face of that public opinion, do you suppose the governor will aid in boosting the rate? The other way is to boost tax valuation on property."

KILLED HUSBAND, BLAMED FATHER, WIFE CONFESSES

Writes Her Story of Crime in Verse.

Ashland, Miss., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. Pearl Drew, 25, wrote eleven stanzas of verse today confessing the slaying of her husband, a killing for which her father was sentenced to serve 5 years in prison.

In the confession Mrs. Drew admitted she had coached her small daughter to falsely testify against the child's grandfather. She expressed regret for the wrong done the convicted man, but declared the killing was necessary.

Marion Drew, 30 years old, was found dead, a .45 caliber bullet in his chest, six months ago. T. G. Gunter, father-in-law of the slain man, owned a .45 caliber pistol. He was indicted.

Convicted on Child's Story.
At the trial two months later Gunter vehemently protested his innocence. But the prosecution produced an unimpeachable eye witness against him—his 8 year old granddaughter Dorothy. Because of her years she was not sworn, but the prosecuting attorney asked her if she knew what happened to little girl who lied. Does she said God would punish them.

"I saw granddaddy shoot daddy," she said in response to the prosecutor's question. Defense efforts to shake her story were vain and Gunter was convicted and sentenced.

Wife, Arrested, Confesses.
A few days ago suspicion the neighbors had entertained against Mrs. Drew resulted in her arrest. She sought consolation in religious tracts and, after four days in jail, produced the confession in verse. It was forwarded to Gov. Theodore Bilbo, who yesterday granted Gunter suspended sentence.

CAPITAL OF U. S.
 HAS PROBLEM OF STREET TRAFFIC

 Washington "Circles" a Confusing Factor.

BY HAL FOUST.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

 Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—There are almost as many traffic experts here as there are propagandists for churches, pacifism and prohibition.
 Automobile clubs maintain national headquarters, legislators like to tinker with street and highway regulations, and no session of congress is complete without resolutions on congestion of pavements.

 The traffic system is under the direction of federal authorities in close contact with the many experts of various theories regarding methods of moving automobiles through streets.
 This situation, aggravated by the peculiar geography of Washington, makes it a city of more than ordinary interest to the motoring public.

 several driving regulations that bewilder visitors. The car about to make the turn uses the outside lane, rather than the inside, as in Chicago. On the green light, the machine swings to the right and stops in front of the line of waiting cars. When the light signals change, the turning car leads the parade across the street in the new direction of travel.

One Impracticable Suggestion.

 This regulation for the left turn has been suggested by some of the experts

Where Traffic Circles

 ington's traffic circles, designed for military defense and now the battle grounds of traffic experts. Note the elaborate system of stop and go lights. Three traffic circles have been proposed for Cook county.

 for Chicago. It might work efficiently at places where left turns are frequent, such as at the intersections of residential streets with Sheridan road in Rogers Park. But it couldn't function where there is a heavy left turn movement, such as from Michigan avenue into Grant park.

 Here in the east, some cities resistant left turns to the red light, some to the amber, and most to the green light. Some permit right turns on the red.

 Washington's several traffic circles are of interest. They require an arrangement for getting automobiles through hubs of the capital's spoke-like streets. Elmer Stevens' citizens' committee has recommended that
 Cook county build three traffic circles.

 The streets here radiate from hubs for purposes of military defense that existed a century ago. They were not designed for the convenience of traffic, and the growth of the automobile has made the circles a knotty problem.

Circles Provide Problem.

 Late in the eighteenth century a Frenchman, l'Enfant, mapped the streets of Washington. At that time Paris pavements were stained with blood of the Napoleonic wars and guns were stationed at intersections where they could sweep the streets. l'Enfant created gun positions in Washington's street system. These areas are now used for monuments, and the only battles on the sites are disputes of traffic experts over how to alleviate the bottle necks.

 Scott circle, at the intersection of Massachusetts avenue, Rhode Island avenue, and 16th street, is the most famous traffic battleground. Two semi-circle esplanades and ten signal lights, with half a dozen directional signs, are used. The stranger is lost in the elaborate system.

 The Cook county board has been advised, not by an eighteenth century military Frenchman, but by a twentieth century civilian traffic committee, to establish traffic circles at Golf road and Wolf road, at River road and Irving Park boulevard, and at Cumberland road and Addison street.

 New York-to-Philadelphia.

 The drive here from New York is over a road offering examples of the most modern highway engineering as well as pavements as antiquated as the historical relics en route. In New Jersey, leading to the Holland automobile tunnel under the Hudson river, are six or seven miles of up to date superhighways, part with through traffic on a depressed highway with local traffic above on two forty foot pavements, and part of the distance on an elevated road with grade separations.

 In New Brunswick, the national highway is turned into a street where the pavement is about twelve or fourteen feet wide and parking is tolerated. Pennsylvania has miles of fourteen foot asphaltic pavement with broken shoulders, bending at sharp angles over the route followed by troops in the Revolutionary war.

 A belt line with a two hundred foot right of way, sometimes with four pavements and sometimes with three, carries traffic around Philadelphia.

WILLIE DOODY SENTENCED TO DIE ON DEC. 13

Attorney Plans Appeal for Police Slayer.

Willie Doody, diminutive gunman who was recently convicted by a jury of the murder of Chief of Police Charles Levy of Berwyn, was denied a new trial yesterday by Judge Otto Kerner in the criminal court and was sentenced to be electrocuted on Dec. 13. He murdered Chief Levy when the latter sought to arrest him for some of the numerous crimes charged up against him.

Appeal to Be Taken.

The case will be appealed to the Supreme court, Attorney William Scott Stewart told the judge when the new trial motion was denied.

"It is the belief of this court that Doody had a fair and just trial," said Judge Kerner in reply to Stewart's argument that his client was the victim of prejudicial actions on the part of Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne and Walker Butler.

Guard Against Suicide.

Doody seemed pale and weary looking when brought into the court by two bailiffs who had orders to watch him for any attempt at escape or suicide. After the jury verdict Doody made a threat to kill himself. The courtroom was crowded with spectators anxious to get a look at the defendant, whose exploits while he was dodging the authorities, kept the police on the jump for months before he was finally arrested.

WOMAN KILLED BY FALL.

Miss Mary Jordan, 51 years old, an employee of the Chicago orphanage, 5120 South Parkway, died yesterday in the Chicago Memorial hospital of injuries suffered Nov. 11 when she fell in her room in the orphanage.

PARIS ARCHBISHOP SAYS ART PURIFIES FASHIONS OF LADIES

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The newly named archbishop of Paris, Mgr. Verdier, until now head of the teaching staff of the Order of Sulpicians, is the Parisian of Parisians.

In an interview today a few hours after the notification of his elevation to the purple and the publication of reports that he is to be made a cardinal, he expressed himself on Paris fashions.

"I did not see many fashionable ladies at St. Sulpice, but I hear that skirts are getting a little longer," he said. "I am glad of that, naturally, but of course fashion is only indecent to the degree in which it is inartistic. Art purifies everything, including the fashions of the ladies, and in the modes of Paris it is art, is it not? And Paris dictates the mode of the world."

GUARDWAUKEGAN CITY HALL AFTER BOMBING THREAT

Threats from a mystery source to bomb Waukegan's new $100,000 city hall and the smashing of 20 windows in the new building, caused Mayor S. J. Yager last night to order a police guard placed about the building.

The new building, bought by order of Mayor Yager and the city council a year ago, has since been a center of wrangling in Waukegan. Shortly after the purchase, the Waukegan Property Owners' association, headed by R. H. Stripe, president, filed a petition for an injunction before Circuit Judge Clare C. Edwards to restrain the town from paying the purchase money. Judge Edwards dismissed the petition, whereupon the Stripe faction appealed to the Appellate court and won. An appeal entered against the Appellate court action is now pending in the Illinois Supreme court.

The building is now being remodeled for municipal use. The building formerly was a private residence.

GHOSTS HOVER IN COURT AND DECIDE A SUIT

They Are Liability to Property, Jury Says.

That ghosts are a liability rather than an asset to property was established yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge Craig A. Hood's courtroom. The jury ignored the supposed value of an ancestral spirit stalking a picturesque castle and concerned itself with a multitude of spectral figures which might haunt the Wilson hospital, 3335 Vernon avenue, and even more unfortunate ghoul disturbing the midnight hour at the Chicago Medical school, 5322 Rhodes avenue.

Both the hospital and school have been condemned by the south park board to make way for a small park in that area. The appraisers for the board estimated that value of the property at $88,500. Property owners brought suit, declaring the valuation was too low and demanding $136,000. The property is located in a colored district.

Attorney Argues for Owners.

In support of the property owners' estimate Attorney John J. Coburn pointed out that it is difficult to appraise a hospital and a school since they have but little market value. He argued that his valuation would be accurate if the property were sold for apartment development. Witnesses supported this stand.

Attorney Elmer J. Schnackenberg, representing the park board, replied that an apartment house would not be successful in that district. He said that the fact that many people had died in the hospital and many bodies had been dissected in the medical school would arouse the superstition of prospective tenants in the surrounding area to people the apartments

GEN. PERSHING CALLS ON SENATOR WARREN; FINDS HIM STRONGER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Cheered by a visit from Gen. John J. Pershing, his son-in-law, Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, was reported tonight to be "getting along very well" in his fight against bronchitis.

Arriving from France, Gen. Pershing went immediately to the bedside of the senator, who has been confined to his home for more than ten days. "Senator Warren is very much improved," Gen. Pershing said later, "and shows signs of being very much better after so severe a bronchial attack."

The rugged condition of the veteran legislator is said by Dr. John Minor to account for his apparently successful fight against a severe illness. The physician said a noticeable improvement has occurred since yesterday.

with ghosts and thus discourage renting.

Pictures an Army of Ghosts. "Enterprising real estate men have been quick to seize the advantage of an old established ghost, which in popular fancy haunts an old dwelling or castle," he said. "Such a legend is often reflected in the price of such a building. But in this case popular fancy might conjure a host of wraiths, a veritable army which would cause apartments to be shunned and feared in the community."

The jury and Judge Hood visited the school and hospital in question. After marching through the dissecting rooms of the school, the jury returned to the county building and returned a verdict upholding the valuation made by the park board and fixing the detrimental value of possible ghosts at $47,500.

PARIS MAY DOOM DOBBIN; HE'S IN WAY OF TRAFFIC

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Spartan measures to save the French capital from paralysis, which is threatened by the traffic situation, were proposed today by M. d'Andigne, president of the municipal council. He said that horses, carts propelled by human locomotion, and even tramways must be doomed in the heart of the city.

"Anything that cannot keep a certain pace in traffic has got to go," he said, "otherwise the city will become uninhabitable."

M. d'Andigne would ban horse drawn vehicles in the entire city during certain hours and from the heart of the city at all times, and "would take a lot of color out of the streets of Paris. The first to go would be the two wheeled coal wagons drawn by puffing stallions, and the pompous black plumed hearsees behind which mourners walk while chauffeurs respectfully raise their caps and inwardly swear, and also the hangover of the middle ages, which is the man drawn cart.

During the busiest hours of the day, drivers in this city now have to contend with unwieldy vehicles drawn by sweating midgets who, in the role of horses, make all of 80 cents per day. The tram lines, which have already been suppressed in the opera quarter, would be taken up everywhere inside the walls, particularly in the Place d'Etienne and around the Arc de Triomphe. M. d'Andigne says that this should be done right away, but the Parisians learned from the papers today that the city's workmen have been engaged for 20 years now in the unimposing Place Pereire, arranging the street car tracks in an artistic manner.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

SUPER LOBBYIST LOBBIES HIMSELF PAST LOBBY QUIZ

$150,000 Year Tongue
Charms Senators.

BY WILLIAM LAWSON.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—John H. Carroll, 71 years old, an accomplished lobbyist when Joe Grundy of Pennsylvania was just beginning to take an interest in tariff bills, scored the biggest triumph of his career today before the senate's lobby investigating committee.

Under his spell the senators heard the picturesque old man tell of fat fees paid by a half dozen railroads, the Cuban sugar interests, the Royal Dutch Shell Oil company, the United Fruit company and other great corporations and completely forgot to get more than the vaguest story of what he does to earn those fees.

With consummate artistry, he won what set out to be an unfriendly committee by his recollections of lobbying for the old Burlington railroad in the state capital at Jefferson City, Mo., and his beginning as a newsboy selling the "extras" which told of Lincoln's assassination in 1865.

He brings down the House.
Finally he had senators and spectators roaring with laughter at his story of the visit of Queen Marie of Roumania to the United States.

Col. Carroll began life as a foundryman, abandoned in a Cincinnati railroad station. He has had only six weeks' schooling in all his life. He is now receiving no less than $150,000 annually from the various interests he represents in the capital. He listed among the clients he could "recollect at the moment" the following:

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and the Northern Pacific railroads, $20,000 a year; the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, $10,000 a year; Erie railroad, $3,000 a year; the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Hocking Valley railroads, $12,000 a year; the United Fruit company, $15,000 a year; the Royal Dutch Shell Oil company, $25,000 a year, and the Cuba company, $10,000 a year.

And That's Not All.
In addition the colonel has been receiving $4,500 a year for the last ten years as counsel for the Cuban embassy here, and since last June has been paid an additional $4,500 a month by H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba company, an American-owned sugar company, for his services in combating "unjustified" attacks on the Machado administration in Cuba.

When a hasty calculation showed a total of at least $145,000 a year in fees from the sources named, Col. Carroll corrected Senator Arthur Robinson (Rep., Ind.) with the statement he thought it should be more than that. It was "a disagreeable business," that "lobbying around and buttonholing people," Carroll told the senators. "I play my game in the open," he asserted, pounding the table before him with his fist.

Glad Hands Robinson.
"I want to shake your hand," Carroll burst out impulsively, as he rose from his chair and advanced toward Senator Robinson. "I'm a Hoosier myself. All the schooling I ever got—three weeks in '69 and three weeks in '70—I got in Indiana."

"I know it sounds like a lot of money to you," said Carroll at another point, when Senator Robinson plainly showed amazement at the huge fees garnered by the veteran, "but I want to say to you, sir, that the biggest, best, and greatest day's pay I ever had was on that day in April, 1865, when I sold newspapers telling of the assassination of Lincoln and I made $1.50—think of it, $1.50 in those little 5 cent bills."

The first mention of Carroll's "personally conducted" tour of the United States with Queen Marie came when Senator T. H. Caraway (Dem., Ark.) asked if some one had not been lost on the trip, and the colonel retorted:

"Well, I brought her back, anyway, didn't I?"

He recalled that Sam Hill, son-in-law of James J. Hill, the famous railroad builder, seeking to make an event of the dedication of the Mary Hill Institute of Fine Arts, 100 miles east of Portland, Ore., had brought about an invitation to Queen Marie to attend. The Northern Pacific railroad, which was to transport the queen and her retinue to Oregon, asked the assistance of the Baltimore and Ohio and, the colonel continued, "the job fell to me."

"I want to tell you just what she said to me," said the colonel, "when I met her. I said: 'I am just a child of nature. I don't know anything about this kind of business, and I don't know anything about the orderly proceedings of the courts of Europe, but I want to do just what you would have me do.'"

Some Royal Wisdom.
"She said to me, 'You know the slogan, When in Rome, do as the Romans do.' I said, 'Yes.'"

"She said, 'Well, you just take me like you take your wife or daughter and I will do the balance.'"

"When we got up in Canada—this is all very funny—the New York World man came aboard with some kodak pictures that showed the Mary Hill Institute of Fine Arts was nothing but a few walls of concrete. There wasn't a door. There wasn't anything."

"And we had in our train a million and a half dollars in paintings and statuary to put in the Napoleonic room when we got there, with two high commissioners of France bringing it along, and we had a half million dollars' worth of the same thing to put in the Roumanian room, and there wasn't a Roumanian room."

Blushes from Borah.
"But when we got there—Senator Borah, you will be interested in this as showing what a marvelous woman this girl was—'and howls of laughter went up, Senator Borah blushing furiously, while his colleagues on the committee joined in the uproar."

"I don't mean to be funny, gentlemen," protested Carroll, beginning again, "but she was introduced. We had a little prayer, a brief one, and she was introduced to dedicate it. Looking across at Senator Hill, she said, 'I was invited here to dedicate this museum of fine arts, and I was told that this was the meeting of two great cross roads, one from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and one from Canada to Mexico, and that here was destined to be the future seat of empire."

Looking at Hill she said, "Well, Samuel Hill is a dreamer. Lolo Fuller is a dreamer. I, too, am a dreamer, and who is going to say that dreams won't come true?"

Gets His First Laugh.
Carroll got his first laugh when, after reciting his service for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy for nearly 47 years, the Northern Pacific for 30 years, and the Great Northern for 25 years, he added: "I came here, as you probably know, to represent their interests."

In response to questions Col. Carroll declared that he had "attended to the legislative matters of the railroads before congress and government departments" and had appeared frequently for the Royal Dutch Shell Oil company before the interior department, seeking leases on oil lands in western states. The United Fruit company retained him, he admitted, "in anticipation of a tax on bananas."

Lakin employed him, Carroll said, when the sugar man and his associates in the United States Sugar association grew uneasy over the possibility of American intervention in Cuba as a result of attacks on the Machado administration in the island republic.

The Cuba company, Carroll asserted, has 170 millions invested in Cuba, and it was feared that a resolution before the senate foreign relations committee, based on the claim of Joseph E. Barlow, an American citizen, might lead to intervention.

Barlow asserted he has been defrauded of property valued at millions in the very heart of Havana.

A Chum of Machado.
Col. Carroll declared that he, having known President Machado for many years and engineered the latter's visit to the United States shortly after Machado's election to the presidency. He denied that Machado had any sugar interests in mind when he made the trip, but was merely desirous of meeting President Coolidge.

Questioned by Senator Walsh, he replied: "Senators, I want to be perfectly frank with you. I have told Senator Moses that I was going to tell this story. One night early last summer Senator Moses called me up and said he was coming to my house. He told me people were making serious charges against Machado and they were going to make trouble for the Cuban government. He told me of a resolution before the foreign relations committee. I asked him to get me a copy of the resolution and he said he would. I then planned to go down to Cuba immediately and investigate."

In spite of illness which has prevented him from going to Cuba, Lakin's company has continued to pay him the $4,500 each month and, the colonel said, "I certainly hope they go on paying it. He plans to leave for Cuba next Sunday, although his condition will require him to have a physician and nurse in constant attendance."

Carroll asserted he has frequently heard rumors that the Barlow claim "was stimulated" by the western sugar industry, but said he did not believe the report.

"You have been very frank, colonel," said Senator Walsh.

"I have nothing to conceal," said Col. Carroll.

"Colonel," drawled Senator Caraway, "it's a delight to have a witness like yourself—a witness out of whom we don't have to torture the truth."

SENATE RADICALS BLITHELY SLASH TEXTILE DUTIES

Wheeler Flays Mills and Chides 'Young Guard.'

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Almost without opposition the Democratic-insurgent coalition today continued to rewrite the textile schedule of the tariff bill, chopping down the increased rates recommended by the finance committee with monotonous regularity.

During the day the senate knocked out a half dozen committee amendments boosting the duties on various kinds of cotton fabrics and approved two which decreased the duties set in the house bill to those under the existing law. Not a single increase escaped the ax of the coalition and in most cases votes were taken by a voice or a show of hands. Each time the coalition got what it wanted.

On only one committee amendment—that providing for a 10 per cent ad valorem duty on organics—was there a fight of any consequence. A roll call on this amendment rejected it by a vote of 26 to 50.

Carolina Situation Cited.
Almost the entire morning session was occupied by Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem., Mont.), who argued that the textile mills are not entitled to more protection because of their unfair treatment of workmen in the south. Wheeler last spring introduced a resolution asking for an investigation of labor troubles in the North Carolina textile mills, but it has failed to pass. He served notice today that he will press it when the regular session opens in December.

Both Senator Reed Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the finance committee, who is fathering the bill, and the coalitionists agreed that dress styles are partly responsible for the present distress of the textile industry. "Lack of protection has nothing to do with the condition of the textile mills," declared Senator George Norris (Rep., Neb.). "The trouble is that women are wearing silk stockings, silk underwear, silk everything instead of cotton, and nowadays they can go out in society with fewer clothes than their grandmothers wore in bed."

"Young Guard" Is Chided.
Among the proposed increases rejected were those on woven figured cotton cloth, automobile tire fabric, tapestries and upholstery cloths, quilts and bedspreads, lamp and stove wicks, garment labels, cotton knit fabric, and cotton gloves.

The newly formed "young guard" of Hoover regulars, big of Republican senators who have united in an effort to speed up passage of a tariff

HARRY SINCLAIR TO BE FREE MAN TODAY; JAIL TERM IS ENDED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[AP.]—Harry F. Sinclair tonight was obtaining his last sleep on the not too comfortable iron cot assigned to him since his commitment to the District of Columbia jail on May 6.

Only one more day of work as jail druggist and physician's assistant remains for the millionaire oil man, whose confinement of six months and a half on charges of refusing to answer questions of a senate committee and shadowing jurors ends at midnight tomorrow.

Back to Oil Job.
New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Harry Sinclair will immediately resume his duties as chairman of the board of the Sinclair Oil company. Executives of the company were notified today that immediately after his release the oil man would go to his home to greet his family after his absence since last June, and then would come to the offices of the company to take active charge of its affairs.

It was said at the offices of the company that while in jail Mr. Sinclair has been as active in the management of the company as when trips or vacations caused him to be absent from his offices.

33D DIVISION RALLY TO END WITH BANQUET

Members of the 33d division, famous Illinois soldiers who served under the flags of the three principal allied powers during the world war and who were ranked fifth among American divisions in fighting power by the German general staff, will hold their third annual reunion at the Palmer house on Nov. 23. Col. Walter J. Fisher, 108th ammunition train, announced last night. Business sessions will be held Saturday morning and afternoon. The reunion will close with a banquet Saturday night in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Exercises will be held Sunday in Rosehill cemetery in memory of Gen. George Bell Jr., late commander of the division, and a wreath will be placed at his grave.

U. S. MENACE TO BRITISH INDUSTRY —BEAVERBROOK

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Nov. 19.—"The United States has become a menace to British manufacturers," declared Lord Beaverbrook in the house of lords tonight in appealing to the government for support for his "free trade within the empire" crusade.

Lord Beaverbrook said he is convinced that the reason why the American position has improved so rapidly, compared with Great Britain, is due to mass production founded on the American domestic market. Lord Beaverbrook's plea for free trade within the empire met with a cool reception. He found not a single supporter, although boldly claiming that his policy is the only one which can solve the unemployment problem without increasing the cost of living.

Lord Arnold, government spokesman, turned down the scheme with-out qualification, declaring "the plan could not be achieved without reversing the fiscal policy of the country."

CUNEO DEFENSE DENIES CHARGES AGAINST TOWER

Witnesses Testify on Light and Air.

Witnesses for John F. Cuneo defended his right to erect a sixty-story tower at Michigan avenue and Randolph street under an amendment to the zoning laws before Chief Justice Taylor of the Circuit court yesterday. They testified that the proposed tower will increase circulation of air in the vicinity, only slightly decrease light, and will not constitute a fire hazard. The contrary was charged by experts testifying in behalf of neighboring property owners who are attacking the proposed tower as a menace to other property and the amendment as special legislation.

Testimony as to the effect on light and air was given by Bernard David Holbrook, 26 year old instructor in elementary physics at the University of Chicago. He produced measurements of air circulation made by an anemometer, an instrument for measuring the velocity of air currents, and also measurements of light, made by a foot candle meter.

Air and Tall Buildings.

Statistics show that greater air circulation is found in the vicinity of tall buildings than near smaller buildings, Holbrook said. "The increased circulation is particularly noticeable at the middle line of the buildings varying with the height of surrounding structures. The statistics are for an average day with no prevailing wind."

"With regard to light we are able to measure the difference on the average day without sunshine by computing angles. In the case of the proposed tower, rising 440 feet without a setback, as compared with a structure rising 264 feet, the limit under the old law, the taller building would give 2 per cent less light directly across the street, 1 per cent less in the center of the street, and almost no difference immediately next to the building."

Professor Gives Corroboration.

This testimony was supported by Prof. Arthur G. Lemon of the University of Chicago. Under cross-examination by Attorneys Joseph B. Fleming and Clay Judson, representing the property owners, both witnesses said that the tower would decrease circulation of air during a prevailing wind on the side opposite to the direction of the current. On a bright sunny day the shadow cast by the building might cut off a greater percentage of light than on an average day, they said.

Statistics show that only one out of every three days is clear in Chicago, Mr. Holbrook said. "I therefore computed in terms of the average day. It must also be remembered that if the tower has a front of white stone it will diffuse more light than a smaller building with a dark front."

Fire Marshal Testifies.

Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan testified that the tower would not constitute a fire menace.

"It would be as easy to light a fire in the 440 foot building and even in its tower, 193 feet higher, as in a 264 foot building with a tower, providing ordinances were complied with," Corrigan said. "Of course, the fire panic hazard might be greater in the taller building."

Robert Burnham, architect with Burnham Bros., who drew the plans for the Cuneo building, also testified that the tower would have only a little effect on light and air. Attorney Fleming challenged his testimony on the ground that he was interested in the outcome of the suit. The judge allowed the testimony.

Architect Cross-Examined.

Attorney Fleming sought to prove, under cross-examination, that the plans for the tower were rushed by the architects and prepared even before the passage of the ordinance. Mr. Burnham said he could not remember the dates of preparation nor the length of time required.

Mr. Cuneo's attorneys, David Levinson, John J. Campbell, Carlton L. Flacher, and Barnett Hodges, announced that they will complete their case with eight more witnesses. These will finish by Friday morning, they said.

JUDGE RIPS OUT AT SWANSON IN CARROLL TRIAL

Demands Grand Jury Quiz on State's Evidence.

ORIGINAL COURT.
Daniel Baker, lawyer, sentenced to 1 year in the county jail by Judge Philip H. Finney.

be somebody on the outside who is doing it. I'll not stand for it if there's any truth in it."

"The wires in my office and home have been tapped for six months," said Attorney Milton D. Smith for the defense, and his partner, W. W. Smith, nodded.

"Well, our wires are tapped too," said Special Prosecutor Lounsbury.

"Conversations we have had over the wires have been repeated, and we know it."

"Your honor," said Attorney Thomas D. Nash, another defense lawyer, "there is an instrument now that detects when wires are being tapped. I think we will need one."

Swanson Goes and Returns.

Judge David said that he wished State's Attorney Swanson to make a thorough inquiry into the matter, and the latter, promising he would do so, left the courtroom.

He had been gone less than an hour when his second summons was sent to him post haste. McMillan was on the stand. He had told the court he formerly had been pastor of a colored church in the 20th ward and that he now preaches in Muskegon, Mich. He had been a witness in the trials of the henchmen of Morris Eller and he had on direct examination refused to identify Armando, contrary to the prosecution's expectation.

Attorney Milton Smith, on cross-examination, had asked the minister whether he had ever been offered any money to testify against any of the defendants.

McMILLAN—I was offered $1,000 in June, 1928, by Sheridan Bruseaux to identify one of three men—Morris Eller's "three minute men," he called them—John Armando, Harry Hochstein and Sam Kaplan.

ATTORNEY SMITH—Did you accept his offer? A—No, sir; I'd suffer my throat to be cut rather than jeopardize a man's life.

Judge Breaks Into Questioning.

At this point Judge David raised his head.

"What?" shouted the court. "What? What's all this? What is this man Bruseaux? Has he been indicted in this case? Has he been indicted at all?"

Attorney Nash informed the court that Bruseaux had not been indicted.

"Well—ill," said Judge David.

"Well—ill! This is a fine business, a fine state of affairs!"

He turned again to his bailiffs.

"Go and get the state's attorney; so get State's Attorney John Swanson," Judge David directed, "and bring him to this court. Bring him here, I must see him on this."

The state's attorney was soon looking up at the bench again, and Judge David was explaining what had been testified and demanding his grand jury investigation.

"That was worse than the murder, that thing," Judge David thundered. State's Attorney Swanson stood silent before him.

"Is this man Bruseaux indicted?" Judge David demanded.

"I don't know offhand," said Mr. Swanson, "but I don't think he is."

"Well, if he isn't he will be!" interposed Judge David. "There must be action on this. This matter must be taken before the grand jury. It is an offense as serious as murder."

The trial will be resumed this morning.

TAP POLICE PHONES

William J. Balmer, city commissioner of public service, said yesterday that police wires have been tapped and lines into city hall offices opened to spying ears. The revelations were made in a statement by Balmer containing suggestions for provisions in the telephone franchise now being negotiated.

"In August of this year," Balmer stated, "we were advised by the commissioner of police that a conversation held over his private wire the previous day had been repeated to him, and upon investigation we found that the lock on an underground trunk cable in the basement of the city hall had been broken and evidences of tampering found."

"In September Deputy Commissioner Siegs reported that his lines had been interfered with and evidence was found of a pair of wires running from a trunk cable to a vacant office in the police building."

"In October the commissioner of buildings reported interference on his lines, and upon investigation the conductors on his line in the basement terminal showed evidence of having been tampered with."

"On account of the nature of city business, especially police, it is imperative that trunk cables furnishing service to the city hall be installed to avoid the possibility of being tapped."

Commissioner Balmer's statement was made in a report to Alderman Bert A. Cronson (4th), chairman of the council subcommittee in charge of the franchise negotiations. The commissioner suggested that the new franchise give the city free access to all telephone company's plants so a search may be made for wire tapping at any time. Mr. Balmer also asked the city's special attorneys in telephone matters, Benjamin P. Goldstein and George I. Haight, to insert a provision in the franchise which would entitle any telephone subscriber to have a wire tapping test made by paying a $2 fee.

Would Regulate Street Work.

Arrangements should also be made, Mr. Balmer urged, so that streets will not be torn up by public utility companies. He listed a total of 65,613 street openings during 1928, divided as follows: by the telephone company, 2,067; by the Commonwealth-Edison company, 10,130; by the gas company, 21,230; by city departments, 19,434, and by plumbers, sewer builders, etc., 12,752.

"It appears that if sufficient notice is given the various companies of contemplated paving they could complete their anticipated increases in underground plants before the new pavements are laid," the report declared.

"The companies replace new pavement in most cases within a reasonable time, but the replacement never assumes the character of the original pavement because it is practically impossible to restore the soil to its former acidity. As the ground settles depressions in the pavement naturally occur. This results in accidents both to persons and vehicles."

After consulting the commissioners of police and fire, Mr. Balmer suggested a change of the system of police and fire emergency calls. On the dials, in the confusion and excitement of fire, robbery or other violence, mistakes are made, and in the dark it is impossible to locate the numbers and letters to call Pol. 1213 or Fire 1213, he asserted.

Balmer wants a plan worked out so that by dialing the figure "0" or some other single number the operator would complete a police or fire emergency call. He would also have the proper directions placed in a prominent place on a telephone set to advise the public regarding the emergency calls.

DISMISS NINE AT U. OF I. AFTER LIQUOR RAIDING

Others Dropped for Varied Offenses.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—Wholesale dismissal of students was made by the council of administration of the University of Illinois today.

Eight members of the Gamma Eta Gamma fraternity, which was raided at Urbana, when ten gallons of liquor was seized, resulting in the arrest of three members of the organization, were dismissed from school, the council of administration charging them with drinking and being in the possession of intoxicating liquor.

They were Wilton J. Sherman, Crown Point, Ind., who yesterday pleaded guilty to being the owner of the liquor, which was confiscated, and who was fined $500 and costs; A. J. Withers, Hibbing, Minn., and Ernest K. Longbons, Marion, Ill., the two students who were arrested along with Sherman but who were exonerated when Sherman pleaded guilty; A. Butwell, Cicero, Ill.; R. R. Hughes, Burlington, Ia.; J. P. McMillan, Carthage, Ill.; Charles Ringert, Quincy, Ill.; and Robert J. Hartley, Toulon, Ill.

J. R. Webb, Geneva, Ill., was dismissed for buying and transmitting liquor. The council, it is said, discovered that it was Webb who had purchased the liquor and who in turn gave it to B. W. Hoare, the Golconda, Ill. student who was found with a quart in his possession and who informed county authorities.

Eight men students were dismissed from school until Jan. 6, being guilty of driving automobiles to the North-western Illinois football game several weeks ago without securing permission from the university. They were Fred A. Blayney, 1369 East 47th street, Chicago; William R. Donigan, Evanston; Paul H. Hughes, Champaign; Henry C. Lane, 3154 North Sawyer avenue, Chicago; George S. Lawson, Wilmette; L. Pettit, Prophetstown, Ill.; Edward P. School, Oak Park, Ill.; and Robert Silverberg, 5451 Hinsch avenue, Chicago.

Three students dismissed for repeated violation of the no car rule were: Warren T. Greenleaf, 1645 Jarvis avenue, Chicago; Albert Kirschner, 5133 North Robey avenue, Chicago, and Warner Skoglund, 1415 Byron street, Chicago.

ITALY REVEALS PLAN FOR STATE TO RUN INDUSTRY

Bill Unites Commerce, Trade and Farming.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

ROME, Nov. 19.—The text of a bill establishing what is called the National council of corporations, a new Fascist body intended to coordinate all Italian economic activities under the tutelage of the state, was published today. The bill will come up before parliament early in December.

Under the provisions of this bill all production and economic activities become practically a part of the state's activities. Under the council's directions, commerce, industry, and agriculture are to be harnessed together for the common purpose of state enrichment, and the struggle between any two economic activities for privilege and advantage is supposed to be ended.

Deny Link with Politics. It is denied that the council will become an organ through which the state will exert pressure on productive activities to make them conform to Fascist social policies.

The council's membership of about 100 will be Fascist. The council will have seven sections, corresponding to the main branches of economic activity—namely:

Professions and liberal arts; industry; agriculture; commerce; land transport and internal navigation; marine and air transport; banking.

Duce Must O. K. Representatives. Each section will name its representatives, who must be approved by Premier Mussolini, after which they will be promulgated by royal decree. Besides these technical men thus chosen, all ministers and secretaries of the Fascist party are members. Both employers and employees are represented in each section.

The council is said to be the crowning structure of the Fascist corporate system and the instrument for realizing the principles of governing labor as laid down in the famous labor charter which was brought out three years ago.

The reception of the bill by capitalists and captains of industry is awaited with much interest.

SENATE ASKS FOR DATA ON ILLINOIS 9 FOOT CHANNEL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—A formal request for information relative to the Illinois waterway project was transmitted to the war department today by the senate committee on commerce.

A resolution asking for a report from the army engineers on the question of the maintenance of a nine foot channel from Utica, Ill., to Lake Michigan, was approved by the committee in compliance with a suggestion made by Secretary of War James W. Good shortly before his death to Senator Charles S. Deneen (Rep., Ill.). The army engineers already have assembled the information desired. The report to be sent to the senate committee will include data relative to the amount necessary to complete the Illinois state project between Utica and Lockport and which it is now proposed that the federal government shall contribute. Information as to various phases of the navigation problem will be included, such as the amount of diversion of water which will be necessary at Chicago.

NOT BY GUESS—BUT BY TEST

OUR buying organization is composed of people who are merchandising experts, but we are not satisfied to depend upon ordinary ways of judging quality. We have installed a Testing Laboratory (run by experts trained in the United States Bureau of Standards) which takes all "guessing" out of merchandising and gives us descriptions based on actual laboratory tests.*

We do not "guess" that a fabric is all wool, all silk, silk and cotton, etc. A laboratory test establishes beyond all question just what kind of material is in each fabric.

It would be impossible for us to test every item of merchandise we sell. However, by testing, we eliminate undesirable merchandise.

REP. DENISON IS INDICTED BY U. S. ON RUM CHARGE

ords of the solicitor for the internal revenue bureau, by whom he is now employed, will show he was not out of Washington in January, and added:
 "I flatly deny any connection with the case."
 "I am surprised that an indictment has been returned," declared Denison, in a statement made here through Miss Lee, "when the prohibition agents came to my office and inquired about a trunk I permitted them to inspect. I found that the trunk was not mine; that it belonged to some one else and that the express company had made a mistake in directing to me a trunk that I did not own. I explained it fully to the agents."
 Newspaper men called Denison on the telephone and reminded him of the suit case and asked him to explain that.
 "A similar mistake was made with regard to a hand bag," asserted Denison. "My nephew, Mr. Lane, had a bag, but a mistake was made and the wrong bag was sent to him."

DENISON DENIES ALL

Marion, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]— Congressman Edward E. Denison of this city, indicted today in Washington for violation of the federal prohibition act, expects to close up his local affairs here at once and to leave within the next day or two for Washington and demand early trial.

Denison, in a formal statement this afternoon, said:
 "When I returned from a trip to Panama last January a mistake was made in checking baggage by the transfer people in New York, and some one else's baggage was checked to me at Washington and mine was left on the docks. The baggage that came to me, which was a military trunk and grip, was found to contain liquor. As soon as that was known I explained the matter fully to the prohibition officers and it was all turned over to them."

Told Not to Worry.
 "They expressed themselves as being entirely satisfied and said that there would be nothing more to it. I dismissed the matter from my mind entirely. I offered to explain the entire matter to the department of justice, but was assured that it was unnecessary. This action of the grand jury comes of course as a complete surprise to me."
 "I have brought no intoxicating liquor into this country and will be able to prove that a great mistake has been made and that I am not guilty of this charge."
 "I never drink intoxicating liquors, as all my friends know. I would have no use for them and would be the last person to bring a trunk of liquor into this country. I ask my friends and constituents to withhold judgment until this matter can be cleared up."
 "I will proceed to Washington at once and ask for an early trial so that my name may be cleared of any suspicion."

 ment is one of the major goals of the war department, Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of infantry, reported today.

"The advent of new automatic weapons, the fast tank and cross-country transportation presents great possibilities in matters pertaining to infantry tactics, technique and organization," the chief of infantry said.
 "To the end that the infantry may be prepared to receive and make the best possible use of the new equipment, when it becomes available, the infantry board has been directed to make a comprehensive study of all phases of infantry tactics, supply, transportation and organization."

Studying New Rifles.
 Maj. Gen. Fuqua said the infantry was now studying the adoption of a semi-automatic shoulder rifle and tactics for the employment of tanks.
 Although the infantry continues to show marked improvement in all lines of training, its discipline and morale continue to be adversely affected by poor housing, poor uniforms, and lack of suitable provision for recreation,
 Gen. Fuqua said.

President Is Interested.
 "Morale," according to the report,
 "is affected seriously by the pay situation. A comparison of enlisted navy men with similar figures for the army shows that soldiers are seriously discriminated against."
 This pay question has occupied the attention of President Hoover, who has called for extensive reports on it for the army, marine corps and coast guard.

The Thought You Spend on Your Bedroom Pays Dividends in Beauty and Repose

The Bedroom in the Early American Manner

It Observes Two Rules of Good Taste—Simplicity and Restraint

By Florence Brobeck
Formerly Associate Editor McCall's Magazine

Miss Florence Brobeck

THE vogue of Early American is well established today because it is admirably suited to many houses and apartments in the city as well as undeniably desirable for the New England type of small house which appears in suburbs and the country. Its popularity continues to grow because the same calico and chintz patterns which were used by our grandmothers have been revived and are re-made today; brass, pewter and glass in Colonial styles abound in the better class shops and hooked rugs handmade cleverly turned out by the machine "hands" of modern industry are available.

The walls may be painted in warm yellow, faded rose, a greenish gray, biscuit or peach. Or if wall paper is used the chintz patterns in paper are especially suitable. Their bowknots and rosebuds, or the honey marguerites and poppies make a most suitable background for maple furniture. Other papers which are welcomed in the Early American bedroom are the more simple pastoral landscape patterns, and the copies of historical American and English papers.

The windows in such a bedroom are hung with dotted swiss, calico, linen or an Indian cotton print. Simple ruffled voile curtains draped back may be used without over-curtains, or a scalloped wooden window valance may be used, and glass curtains as well as drapery.

The floor may be painted in one of the darker colors of the room's scheme or stained and varnished; on this hooked or braided rugs are laid. There must be the essential chest of drawers, perhaps a corner cupboard as well. There may be a dresser or dressing table, a Cape Cod wing chair covered in a fabric to match the window draperies.

To Complete the Picture

We need besides these pieces two or three rush seat chairs and perhaps a footstool or hutch. Then the spool or poster bed—or a pair of beds—complete the room. The smaller things such as lamps and lampshades and chair cushions should continue the theme of decoration.

The bed covering is either a woven coverlet in the familiar blue, white and brick-red colorings or an Indian cotton print, or a cover made of the same fabric as the window draperies and trimmed with contrasting color. The important pieces of furniture once chosen, the walls, windows and floors accounted for, there remains the pleasant task of finding a lovely old sampler, a pair of silhouettes or Godey or flower prints to hang on the walls.

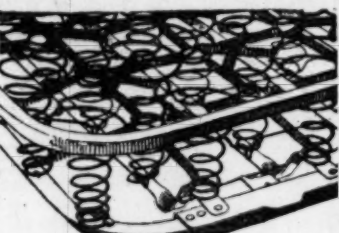

This bedroom in a lovely Washington home typifies simplicity, dignity, comfort. Simmons "spool" bed No. 1850, $37.50

How Well Does Your Bed Spring Support You?

"VERTICAL COIL" springs, whether open or boxed, give firm support, proper distribution of the body weight, and insure healthful rest. The name "Simmons" on such springs is your assurance of fine materials, superior construction, longer wear. And since Simmons Springs are made of metal painted to resist rust or completely boxed and damask covered, they offer the utmost in cleanliness.

Simmons Ace Box Spring is truly the aristocrat of the spring world! Its hundreds of finely tempered wire coils are all hand-tied with sturdy Italian flax twine for additional firmness. The frame is of well-seasoned lumber, steel braced.

The coils are overlaid with soft upholstery and the whole is covered, top and sides, with charming damasks in two patterns and a choice of six colors to match your Beautyrest Mattress and the decorative scheme of your bedroom. The sides are stitched and edges taped, for neat finish and greater durability. Simmons Ace Open Coil Spring, price $19.75; or a Simmons Ace Box Spring, price $42.50.

A Pleasant Bedroom of Unaffected Charm

This room captures all the quaint charm of another day, grouping some fine antiques around Simmons "Spool" Bed, No. 1850, $37.50. Other Spool Beds from $28.00

Curtaining the Bedroom

Take your choice of lovely fabrics but arrange them to admit light and air

TWO main things must be considered in draping the bedroom windows. In color and period they must be in harmony with the room but they must not interfere with the window's original rôle of allowing an abundance of fresh air.

If a room, like a painting, has "good composition," the windows are draped to blend the foreground, furniture and rugs, with the background, walls and ceiling.

It is possible by clever use of your window drapery to give the effect of greater width or height to a room or to shorten the expanse between floor and ceiling.

For the room that has sunshine several hours a day, the colors should be less bright, than those for a room of northern exposure.

Glass curtains should reach just to the window sill or slightly below, while draperies should hang to within one inch of the floor, or stop at the lower edge of the window apron. Window shades should be put next to the glass so that the glass curtains will cover them when they are in use.

There is such a variety of lovely materials from which to choose window draperies—the new rayons through which the light seems to drift into the room softened and shimmering; theatrical gauze in interesting colors; dimity, organdie and dotted swiss for delightful freshness. And draperies in modern designs should not be overlooked.

Treatment for Casement Windows

Gay Colors, Smart Lines in This New Bed by Simmons

SIMMONS has kept in step with those in the fashion parade who demand color—more color—contrasting and harmonizing colors. This new bed design by Simmons, No. 1636, is a masterpiece in metal work and a delight in the color schemes in which it has been developed.

The design is distinctive—slender parallel bars in groups of three. These are crossed by two horizontal bars and the bed finishes with a gentle curve.

Bed No. 1636—$35.00

It comes finished in delightful color combinations, slate gray trimmed with brown and gold, orchid trimmed with emerald green and gold, or plain walnut. Other decorations may be ordered at slight additional expense.

This bed is a pleasant addition to any bedroom, especially adapted to the summer home, a girl's bedroom, or the guest room where cheer and comfort are paramount considerations. No. 1636, $35.00.

Do You Know What's Inside Your Mattress?

A SARDINE can, or an old coat? The remains of an old mattress rescued from the dump heap without even the most perfunctory sterilizing process and put in a nice new mattress cover?

Sordid facts, but true. A book could be written on what the health departments of several states discovered when they investigated bedding factories unscrupulously managed!

But now—you may thank your lucky stars—if you sleep on a Beautyrest Mattress, or indeed, on any mattress made by the Simmons Company, you know you have the best. You know that the name "Simmons" means "made by the world's largest manufacturers of beds, springs and mattresses," that every detail of manufacture from the selection of raw materials to the final exquisite finishing is subjected to careful scientific tests and to inspection.

SCOTCH LULLABY

Words by Sir Walter Scott

O hush thee, my babe, thy sire was a knight,
Thy mother a lady both gentle and bright;
The woods and the glens from the towers which we see,
They are all belonging, dear babe, to thee.

O fear not the bugle, tho' loudly it blows;
It calls but the warriors that guard thy repose;
Their bows would be bended, their blades would be red,
Ere the step of a foeman draws near to thy bed.

O hush thee, my babe, the time soon will come,
When thy sleep shall be broken by trumpet and drum;
Then hush thee, my darling, take rest while you may,
For strife comes with manhood, and wailing with day.

"Strife comes with manhood" but is easily vanquished if one wakes to the new day refreshed—after a restful night on one's Simmons-equipped bed.

Spool or Windsor Beds by Simmons Charming in Early American Bedrooms

The Simmons Company offers at reasonable prices a number of "Spool" and Windsor beds which are charming in the Early American bedroom. They copy the old designs faithfully, their proportions are true, their lines sturdy yet graceful, their spindles delicately turned and their "spool"

No. 1850, in maple finish. Its coverlet is a flowered green chintz (but these beds are adorable, too, with homespun spreads in pine tree or star design!) Little night tables, one with flowers and the other with a lamp, shed "sweetness and light" over the slumberer's dreams. A needlepoint footstool, hobnobs with an old hooked rug; a little "what not" is sociable with a pair of quaint old silhouettes on the wall.

In the other bedroom shown—in the home of Mrs. John Wansmaker III, in the lovely residential town of Ardmore near Philadelphia—a Simmons Windsor Bed, No. 1590, in wood finish, seems to be "the one and only" for this setting. With a beruffled counterpane of sheer lawn sprinkled with rosebuds it fills the room with a charm as fresh as a May morning. Family heirlooms, mahogany dressers and highboys, night tables and chairs, companion this Simmons bed with true fraternity as do also old daguerreotypes, a candle-lamp and hooked rugs.

These "Spool" and Windsor Beds are adaptable to many bedroom shapes, sizes and color schemes yet they have a sturdy character all their own. Both are typical of a range of models by Simmons which may be had in all the "wood" finishes or painted, as you prefer. Simmons Windsor models, $12.00 to $25.00. The Life History of the Beautyrest

How the World's Most Comfortable Mattress is Made

ODDLY enough, our Beautyrest Mattress began as a coil—a single coil of finely tempered wire! The Simmons Company, investigating the resilient properties of various mattress fillers asked themselves, "What makes a hair mattress springy?" "The curl in the hair."

Each hair acts like a small, coiled spring.

Then they said, "What makes a cotton mattress springy?" "The bends in the separate fibres. Each of them acts like a small, bent spring." "Are hair and cotton-fibre the best materials from which to make springs?" "Certainly not. They are not elastic enough or durable enough. Steel would be far better."

"Then why not make the heart of the mattress a system of flexible steel springs?" And nobody could say why not except that nobody had yet done it. So Simmons did! They began with the coils!

The next step was to put each coil in a cloth pocket, and sew it in firmly. This was to prevent coils from rubbing, becoming tangled, and jumping out of place.

U. S. DRY ARMY SPENDING MORE, ACHIEVING LESS

Mellon Reports Marked Letup to Senate.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19. — [Special.]—Despite the use of more money and more agents, dry law enforcement has slackened sharply during the seven months since April 1, as shown by a report of prohibition activities submitted to the senate today by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

Both the number of violators arrested and the number of prosecutions recommended in the federal courts during the period from April 1 to Oct. 1, 1923, have dropped under those during the corresponding period last year, the report showed. At the same time the prohibition agents throughout the country have captured fewer stills and confiscated less illicit liquor than during the previous period.

Doran Says "Quality" Improved. Attempting to explain the apparent letup in the activity of his forces, prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran, in a statement accompanying the Mellon report, declared that the "quality" of the work has improved.

"The volume of work from April 1, 1923, to Oct. 31, 1923, was greater than the volume of work for the same period in 1922," Mr. Doran admitted. "The quality of the work during the 1923 period, however, showed marked improvement over the 1922 period, due to the government's policy of concentrating on investigating work." Adds from this statement, the report was devoid of any comment, Mr. Doran did not explain why the volume of work has decreased when millions more have been available for spending, nor did he elaborate upon the investigating "quality" which he said, has improved the "quality" of enforcement. Mr. Mellon, likewise, ignored the opportunity to comment upon the obvious failure of the prohibition unit to reflect its increased funds in results accomplished.

Report Demanded by a Dry.

The Mellon report to the senate was demanded in a resolution sponsored by Senator W. J. Harris (Dem., Ga.), and adopted by the senate Nov. 15. Harris, a dry leader, made a long but unavailing fight last spring for an extra appropriation of $24,000,000 for Volstead enforcement. Although this amount was refused, the first decision of the senate was to increase the prohibition expansion of prohibition bureau field forces, and the second bill included $707,560 to provide sixteen assistant United States attorneys; $284,000 in the civil service commission to expedite certification of dry agents; and $105,400 to double, nearly, the customs run patrol along the Canadian border.

Chicago Slackening Shown.

The report showed that all but $99,746 of the $1,719,654 was expended before June 30 with 254 new employees added. The money was distributed among the 27 enforcement districts, the largest sum, $63,000, going into the Savannah, Ga., district, and the next largest, $51,000, into the Chicago district. Twenty new agents were hired in each of these areas. Despite the extra $1,000,000 appropriation and twenty new officers, indicating a concentration of activities in the Chicago district, the slackening of enforcement was apparent there as elsewhere, although not to the same extent.

The Chicago division covers all of Illinois, Iowa, and the eastern judicial district of Wisconsin. In this district the number of persons arrested dropped from 3,514 in the 1922 period, to 2,144 in the 1923 period. It was explained, however, that the October report for 1923 was missing when the figures were compiled.

Seizure of $600,000 Bost. Cited.

Other statistics for the Chicago division were as follows:

	1922	1923
Still seized	294	437
Still seized (value)	458	637
Still seized (value)	45,983	82,197
Malt liquor seized (value)	$26,281	107,000
Automobiles seized	129	230
Prosecutions recommended	2,371	2,187

Including among the achievements of the prohibition forces in the Chicago district during the last seven months was the confiscation of a launch valued at $600,000.

DRY RAIDER GUNMAN SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR INTENT TO WOUND

—Mansfield, O., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Edward C. McGraw, state prohibition officer, was sentenced to from 1 to 30 years in Ohio penitentiary today by Common Pleas Judge J. W. Galbraith. He was convicted last Friday of shooting with intent to wound Frank Pillegi, 34, Mansfield restaurant operator, during a raid last spring.

Judge Galbraith allowed the defense thirty days in which to carry an appeal to the Richland county Court of Appeals.

McGraw was convicted of shooting Pillegi after making an alleged "liquor buy" at the latter's restaurant. The agent said Pillegi attempted to hit him.

number of persons arrested from 51,608 to 45,581; in the number of prosecutions recommended, from 40,295 to 38,995; in the number of stills seized, from 7,493 to 5,446, and in gallons of malt liquor seized, from 2,094,441 to 1,761,604. The increases were as follows: Distilleries seized, from 9,031 to 9,121; gallons of spirits seized, from 600,587 to 705,738, and number of automobiles seized, from 4,211 to 4,464.

Customs Figures Included.

Although it was not asked for in the Harris resolution, Secretary Mellon included in his report a statement of the activities of the customs bureau which made a much better showing with its extra money than the prohibition forces. Mr. Mellon explained that it was "for the information of the senators."

The number of gallons of liquor exported from Canada to the United States between May and September, 1923, was reduced from 2,537,289 to 1,350,390 during the same period in 1922, the report showed.

Just what the senate will do with the Mellon report has not yet been indicated, but it is understood that Senator Harris expects to use it in efforts to secure more money for Volstead enforcement in next year's appropriation. The days, it is believed, will claim that the only way to curb the liquor traffic will be to appropriate still more funds to it, even though this year's added funds have not produced the expected results.

Mother and Girl of 13 Sentenced on Ram Charge

Helen Strakda, 13 years old, was placed on probation for a year in the court of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine Prosnoff, 40 years old, was sentenced to serve thirty days in the Kane county jail. The girl was convicted of selling wine to government agents, while the mother was sentenced on a charge of possessing liquor. The agents said they bought the drinks in a grocery store operated by Mrs. Prosnoff at 7434 South Oakley avenue. Mrs. Prosnoff is the mother of six children, three of whom are younger than Helen.

SNOW BLANKETS ROCKIES; STORM MOVING SOUTH

Montana, Colorado, and Wyoming Shiver.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A snowstorm and freezing temperatures gripped the Rocky mountain region today. Snow was reported in Montana, Wyoming, and Colorado, with the storm, which today centered around Cheyenne, Wyo., headed toward New Mexico.

Three inches of snow had fallen in Cheyenne and no cessation was predicted by the weather bureau until some time tomorrow. Four inches of snow fell at Lander on top of a nine inch fall which was still on the ground.

Autos Skid on Hills.

Helena, Mont., suffered numerous minor casualties with a two inch snow, when steep hills in the city became virtual toboggan slides for automobiles and pedestrians. Many automobiles crashed against stone walls at the bottom of the hills.

Western Colorado and Nebraska escaped the snow, but lower temperatures were reported. There was a little snow in western Kansas and a heavy fall in eastern Colorado.

Air Mail Planes Halted.

Telephone and telegraph facilities were only slightly hampered by the storm. Bus lines continued in operation, but the highways in some places in Wyoming and Colorado were rapidly approaching an impassable condition. Air mail service was halted. Train service was about normal.

The storm today had little effect on the best crops, since digging was suspended during the last storm and had not been resumed. Denver was experiencing the stormist first half of November since 1922, when precipitation was an inch and a half above normal. Thus far this month precipitation is only about half an inch above normal.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little, sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels to move and act normally. They never harm them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" had breath-torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick relief and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them, 15c, 50c, 60c.

GERMAN CITY ON HUGE MAN HUNT FOR SLAYER OF 20

Point to "Stool Pigeon" as "Jack the Ripper."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Dusseldorf, with its half million inhabitants, aided by scores of amateur detectives from all parts of central Europe, is on a man hunt for George Koch, a jobless man. The state police believe he is the "Jack the Ripper," who has slashed and clubbed twenty victims to death, including a five year old child, within the last nine months.

The criminal police declare Koch, who works for them occasionally as a "stool pigeon," is innocent and refuse to reveal his whereabouts. While the two police staffs are exchanging angry accusations, Berlin detectives are trying to restore peace between them.

Murder Leads to Identity.

A newspaper man from Vienna discovered a bloodstained satin muffler in a hut, near the spot where five-year-old Gertrude Albernann was found slashed to death with 25 cuts on her body. Local police recognized it as property of Koch, who had been arrested twice before on suspicion, only to find criminal police always released him.

Later chemists analyzed the muffler and said the stains were not of blood and that there was no need of arresting Koch. Local police believe the detectives are being duped by Koch, the same as Hanover police were duped several years ago by a notorious wholesale murderer, Fritz Haarman, who sold his victim's flesh as meat. He escaped suspicion for a long while, by reason of his "stool pigeon" activities.

Berlin newspapers picked up the trail of "Jack the Ripper" at a quaint mill in the woods near Dusseldorf. Gertrude Schulte, a girl who escaped the clutches of the murderer last August with a dozen knife slashes, buried deep in her back, gave a description of the man. Police believe this description will help trap him before he commits a new crime.

Dusseldorf's Crime Wave.

Dusseldorf's criminal record is twice as high as that of Berlin or any other city in Germany, due probably to its proximity to the mining district. Nevertheless, it is one of the country's gayest towns. Even now, while the population fears "Jack the Ripper," cabarets and dance halls are going full swing.

The only time they are hushed is when plain clothes men march in, carrying a life sized doll, dressed in the clothes of Ida Reuter, who was killed by a maniac last September.

She was well known in Dusseldorf's night life and the police drag her in effigy from cabaret to cabaret, asking night lions to try to remember who took her to the wooded banks of the Rhine and killed her.

KING'S OWN LAW LORDS FREE MAN IN MURDER CASE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Great Britain's highest court of appeal, the judicial committee of the privy council, today reversed the conviction of Dr. Benjamin Knowles, convicted of the murder of his wife, Madge Clifton, an actress. He will soon be a free man.

Dr. Knowles was tried a year ago in the Ashanti division of the Gold Coast colony of West Africa, where he was found guilty of the slaying and given a death sentence by a single magistrate, acting without a jury. Later this sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Knowles, who died from a shot through the thigh, on her death bed gave a statement, declaring the shooting an accident. She said the trigger of a pistol had caught in the sleeve of her dress.

Five judges met as a judicial committee of the privy council, dressed in ordinary clothing, and discussed the case quietly and informally. This highest court of appeal is no court in the ordinary sense of the word, but a committee appointed from the king's advisers to recommend whether or not the king should employ his pardoning power. The decision of the king's law lords was announced in these words:

"We propose and humbly advise his majesty to allow this appeal and to quash the conviction."

The privy council of ten is often called upon to pry into the oriental custom of natives' laws in the far flung parts of the empire. At one time it even passed on a case between two Indian gods.

Dr. Knowles for months had been gathering funds for the appeal while confined in the Maidstone Kent jail. He was too ill to be brought before the crown's court today. His counsel depended chiefly on the slain wife's deathbed deposition.

His lawyers said the shooting in the couple's African bungalow followed a luncheon party.

GERMANY ORDERS AID TO FARMERS HELD BY RUSSIA

Envoy Told to Issue Visas —More Relief Voted.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Russia's assistant foreign minister, Karachan, arrived here unexpectedly today. It is believed that he came in an effort to straighten out the difficulties between Berlin and Moscow over the fate of thousands of German farmers, who wish to leave Russia, but have been forbidden to do so by the soviet government.

The German government today ordered its Moscow embassy to issue immediately visas to enter Germany to 1,000 of these farmers now waiting at the gates of Moscow for permission to leave. They are scheduled to leave this week.

They will be transported to the former prison camp at Hammersheim.

Prussia, near Schneidemühl, where there is room for 3,000 more. The German government hopes that it will be able to induce the soviet to postpone further deportation of the farmers until new places are found for them. It was reported yesterday that 2,000 of them had been arrested by the soviet authorities and deported to Siberia.

Six hundred farmers now in Leningrad will be sent this week to Hammersheim, from where they will proceed to Prussia.

The cabinet yesterday approved an appropriation of $700,000 for relief of the stranded farmers. Owing to reports of the distress they are in, the government today decided to ask the reichstag to increase the appropriation to $1,500,000.

President von Hindenburg today donated $50,000 from the funds at the personal disposal of the president to a subscription of the German Red Cross to help the farmers. The government announced that the Red Cross and similar organizations has its full support in this work.

Floor of Vehicle Plant Collapses; Workers Escape

A section of the second floor of the plant of the Walker Vehicle company, manufacturers of electric trucks at 531 Pershing road, collapsed yesterday under the weight of a pile of lumber, which slid 20 feet to the first floor, narrowly missing employees at work there. More than 100 workers were panic stricken, but none was injured. The plant was formerly a street car barn.

The New Trend in Advertising

The trend in advertising today is toward the family . . . because advertisers have discovered that the whole family influences buying.

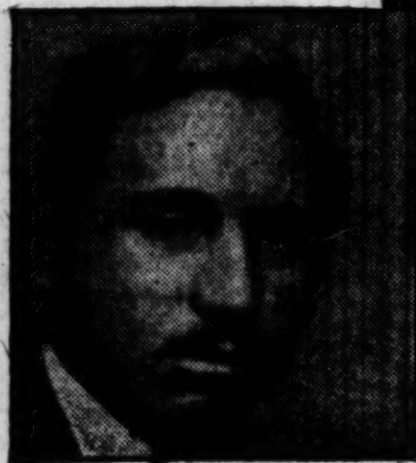

This fact was definitely proved lately when 12 of the country's biggest advertisers (among them Studebaker, Colgate, Campbell's, Dunlop and Victor) asked 7,049 families about their buying and reading habits.

More than 63% answered, "We buy after the whole family expresses advice and opinions."

And an overwhelming majority said, "Our family as a whole prefers The American Magazine." In fact, The American Magazine led the second choice by more than 5 to 1.

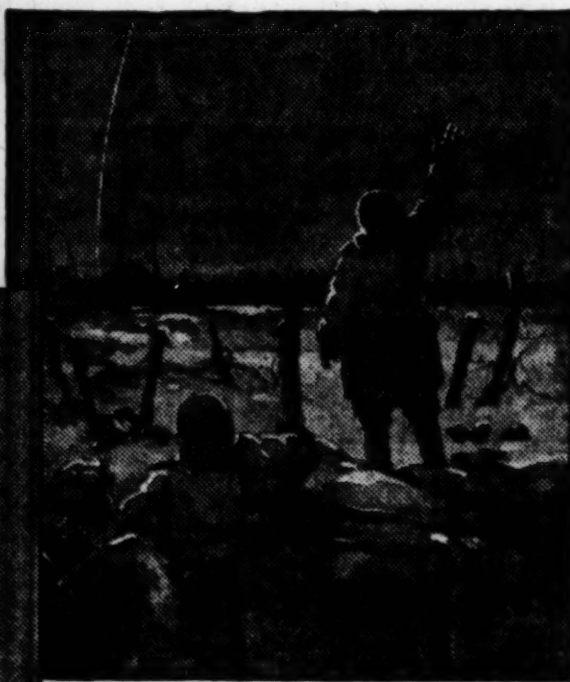

Thus, advertisers can reach the whole family at one advertising cost through The American Magazine—with its 2,200,000 all-family circulation.

CRAMPED FIELD COSTS CHICAGO COAST AIR LINE

Boeing Alters Plans for Service to Pacific.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

New evidence that Chicago's "one track" airport is blocking the development of air transportation here came to light yesterday. K. K. Knickerbocker, Chicago traffic manager of the Boeing system, revealed that Boeing has temporarily dropped its plan to inaugurate 22 hour aerial passenger service between Chicago and the west coast because the company deems it unsafe and inexpedient to fly passengers from the Municipal airport.

The Boeing plant at Seattle has turned out a fleet of huge tri-motored 18 passenger transport ships designed especially for use in the lakes to the coast line. But the air line is reluctant to hazard scheduled operation of the big planes from the small field, Mr. Knickerbocker states.

Abandon Hangar Plans.

Plans for a new hangar to house the giant ships have also been abandoned. Boeing and other air line operators with terminals here have stopped all expansion at the Municipal field because of its present condition and because the city has failed to extend their leases beyond the next six years.

This is the second instance in which a passenger line planning the use of larger ships has refused to risk operation from the small municipal field. Officials of the Universal Air Lines state that use of the new four-motored 32 passenger Fokker ships, which they plan to fly in their transcontinental service, will be impossible unless the Chicago field is enlarged.

Such evidences of stifled growth in aviation here have led men like Maj. William P. MacCracken Jr., former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics; William B. Stout, veteran manufacturer and operator, Maj. Reed Landis, aeronautical adviser to the county board; George B. Foster, chairman of the Association of Commerce aviation committee, and Lester D. Seymour, technical adviser to the city's aero commission, to give warning that Chicago's position as air transport center of the United States is in peril.

Modern Airport Essential.

They point out that Chicago's great-

PERSHING DECLARES DISARMAMENT IS NO WAY TO ABOLISH WAR

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—World peace cannot be attained at this time by simply discarding armaments, Gen. John J. Pershing, commanding officer of the A. E. F. during the world war, warned today on his return from an inspection of the battlefield areas in France.

"It is not peace by example but peace through security that the peoples of the world are looking for today," the general said in responding to a question of whether he believed that war could be abolished as contemplated by the Kellogg peace pact.

Gen. Pershing added, however, that he believed the last few years have seen diminution of the war spirit throughout Europe.

"The peoples of Europe are very desirous of peace," he said. "They have not recovered fully from the aftermath of the war, but no one wants a repetition of the world war days. There still are many problems to be solved by European statesmen, but most of them will be settled soon, I believe. The general desire of all the people I met was for continued peace."

"But what the world wants" the general continued, "is peace with security. We cannot throw down our weapons and merely want peace and expect to get it."

Sorrow over the death of Secretary of War Good was expressed by Gen. Pershing immediately on his arrival.

et promise lies in the direction of air transportation and emphasize that a modern municipal airport is essential to its development.

A brief statement of the history of Chicago's airport problem clarifies the present state of affairs. The city's first municipal field was located on property adjoining the Edward Hines Memorial hospital. At that time there were three mail lines—one to St. Louis, one to Dallas, and one to San Francisco—all drawn here because of Chicago's geographical location.

When the Maywood field passed into the hands of the United States veteran's bureau the city moved the operations to the present field at 63d street and Cicero avenue, where 260 acres of a tract of 600 acres were leased from the board of education for the sum of $6 an acre per year.

Operators subleased hangar space at the rate of $250 per year for a lot 250 by 50 feet. They were given leases for 25 years with a ten year cancellation clause, for at that time the city fathers suspected that aviation might prove to be a fad which would soon spend itself. Those leases may be terminated in 1936.

Only 126 Acres Developed.

A total of 126 acres were developed. Runways were installed and the field lighted. Since then there has been no material improvement of the field. From time to time funds have been borrowed from appropriations for parks, playgrounds, and beaches to fill the bigger holes in the runways with cinders and to erect a small administration office.

In the meantime the number of air lines has grown from three air lines to thirteen. The number of arrivals and departures has increased until it is greater than that of any airport in the United States. Instead of one trip a day, some lines are making three and four trips to the same point and return. When the field was first opened small single engine planes flew the mail at a cruising speed of about 90 miles an hour. Today 185 miles an hour is a usual speed and the large multimotored transports have been put into service. With all this improvement the field has not increased its facilities.

In spite of this condition of stagnation air line operations have continued to develop here, but the operators declare that they will not continue to extend their activities, risking the lives of passengers and pilots and valuable equipment, by flying from a cramped, traffic jammed field.

School Board Blocks Trade.

A year ago an effort was made to exchange the school board property occupied by the air field for city property at Clarendon beach, but the effort met objection on the part of the school board. Two weeks ago Richard W. Wolf, commissioner of public works, appointed a committee composed of operators, aviation, and civil leaders, and representatives of the Association of Commerce, in an effort to amalgamate the groups working toward a solution of the airport problem.

At the first meeting last week the proposed exchange was temporarily set aside, and the committee, headed by Ald. John A. Masses, agreed to negotiate with the board of education for a long term lease of 600 acres at 63d street and Cicero avenue, including that now occupied by the air field and excluding some ten acres on the extreme western edge of the section now occupied by the Hale school.

Offer $12,000 Annual Rental.

Yesterday Mr. Wolf sent a letter to President Caldwell of the school board asking if the board is willing to negotiate for such a lease on the basis of $20 an acre per year. He pointed out that this would yield $12,000 annually for the schools.

Air operators contend that while they are willing to pay the city considerably more in rentals for hangar space they will never be able to pay their pro rata share in the leasing, development and upkeep of the airport. They contend—and they are supported by aviation authorities—that every city should boast at least one thoroughly modern airport, but they admit that such an airport will never pay for itself in direct revenue. Like harbors and good roads, airports bring unquestionable but indirect benefits and should be supported by the city, they state.

Cost Comparatively Small.

Chicago's total expenditure for the Municipal airport in the last four years is $274,000 of which the largest portion was paid shortly after its creation. Operators point to the funds provided in bond issues and appropriations for airports in other cities, most of it subscribed during last year. The Association of Commerce's Figures for other principal cities follow:

Baltimore	$1,500,000	New York	$2,500,000
Buffalo	1,000,000	Oakland	1,000,000
Cincinnati	500,000	Portland	500,000
Cleveland	1,500,000	San Francisco	1,100,000
Columbus	500,000	San Diego	500,000
Detroit	5,000,000	San Francisco	1,000,000
Newark	1,500,000	St. Paul	750,000

Believing that the selection of another site for a municipal airport would entail at least three years of negotiations and construction work before the airfield could be ready for use, Chicago aviation leaders place their hope for a solution of the problem in their present efforts to stir the city council and the school board to action.

AIR COMMERCE OF U. S. DOUBLED AND IMPROVED

Young Summarizes Gains
Made in 1928-'29.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—Air commerce during 1928 increased in volume 100 per cent over 1927 and every sign indicates that the increase for 1929 will be far greater. Clarence M. Young, now assistant secretary of commerce and until recently director of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, asserted in his annual report, made public today.

"The last year has witnessed important developments in virtually every phase of civil aviation," Mr. Young declared. "Spectacular achievements have combined with day in and day out scheduled operations to bring aeronautics before the public to an unprecedented degree, which in turn has enabled the industry to advance with gratifying celerity."

"Air commerce, the dream of centuries, has now become an integral part of the nation's business."

Mr. Young presented the following table:

	1928 (Estimated)	1929 (Estimated)
Airway miles.....	16,687	35,000
Pounds of mail carried.....	4,063,173	8,000,000
Passengers carried.....	49,000	85,000
Time flown.....	10,673,450	16,000,000

"The growing aggregate of air passenger traffic, the mounting total of air express tonnage, the increasing volume of air mail poundage, all prove that the airplane has won a definite place in the general transportation scheme," the report stated, adding that the new air mail rates of 5 cents for the first ounce increased air mail carried from 210,957 to 598,495 pounds a month during the last year.

"Already there are 32 airlines carrying express, 47 lines carrying mail, and 61 lines carrying passengers," the report continued. "The equipment and navigational facilities on most of these lines are rapidly improving and modern planes are becoming standard equipment on many routes to protect passengers from wind and weather."

"Although notable strides have been made during the past 12 months, even greater advances are anticipated during the coming year."

Factories Keeping Step.

Aircraft production has more than kept step with the growth of air commerce, the report showed. Combined production of all classes of heavier than air craft—airplanes, seaplanes, and amphibians—increased from 1,995, valued at $14,514,999 in 1927 to 4,346, valued at $18,990,509, in 1928, the rate of increase being 117 per cent in number and 181 per cent in value.

Of the 4 aircraft factories reporting, sixteen were located in New York, fourteen in California, nine in Michigan, eight each in Illinois and Kansas, seven in Ohio, six in Missouri, four in Iowa, three in Pennsylvania, two each in Arkansas, Maryland, Oklahoma, and Texas, and the others scattered.

"What is considered by Mr. Young as perhaps the most important development during the last year has been the establishment of combined air-plane and railroad passenger service. Speaking of this development, he said:

Airways Are Extended.

"Although this has been projected for several years, only a few lines had actually started operations prior to July 1, 1928. Today there are five transcontinental air-rail lines in daily operation from coast to coast. Where as before this hookup of air lines and railroads the minimum time required to complete a journey from New York to Los Angeles by rail was 162 hours, the same trip can now be made in 44 hours."

Extension of improved airways during the last year is described by Mr. Young as exceptionally rapid. On June 30, 1929, there were 10,183 miles of lighted airways in operation with 30 intermediate fields, 1,399 airway beacons, 184 airway weather reporting stations, 27 airway radio stations, and seven radio-range beacons. There were under contract and in various stages of completion 2,065 miles of airways.

QUAKE BROKE 9 OF 21 CABLES IN ATLANTIC OCEAN

Messages Pile Up in New York Offices.

New York, Nov. 19.—(Special.)—A tremendous upheaval of the Atlantic ocean floor between New York and Nova Scotia snapped almost half the cables which connect this country with Europe—snapped them as if they had been made of cotton thread. This took place yesterday afternoon, coincidentally with the coastal earthquake which shook up New York, New England, and the maritime provinces of Canada.

Nine cable lines out of 21 were broken. At least it is assumed they parted when the sea floor lifted and fell, because they are not in operation. Cable transmission is retarded and congested, the surviving lines of four companies overloaded, and a condition existing which New York has not experienced in years. The Radio Corporation of America, attempting to relieve the congestion with its facilities, was swamped with business.

Cable messages piled up in the offices of the four cable companies, the Western Union, the Commercial Cable company, the French Telegraph Cable company, and the Imperial Cable company. Among them the control of the 21 lines between New York and various parts of Europe, but when the sea floor spasms quieted nine of these lines were dead.

Only two of the Western Union lines had been affected. The Commercial Cable company has three out of six lines operating. The French Telegraph and Cable company has only one line out of four working. The Imperial Cable company has lost at least one main line.

Cable lines to Europe swerve out from New York like a great fan. The fan is inclined to the northeast, and many of its ribs pass up the New England coast and touch Nova Scotia and the island of Miquelon, and from there point for the Azores or the coast of England, France, or other countries of Europe.

Quake at Nashville, Tenn.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 19.—(P)—A sharp earth shock was reported felt in the west section of Nashville at 8:35 tonight. Residents said the tremor lasted a few seconds and jarred windows of homes and caused considerable apprehension. No damage was reported. Another shock, less severe, was felt in other parts of the city at 8:55 p. m.

HINT WITNESS IN ROTHSTEIN CASE IS INFLUENCED

New York, Nov. 19.—(Special.)—A suggestion that an effort had been made to influence witnesses against George A. McManus, charged with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, was injected into his trial today in the Criminal courts building. The charge was made by his attorney, James D. C. Murray.

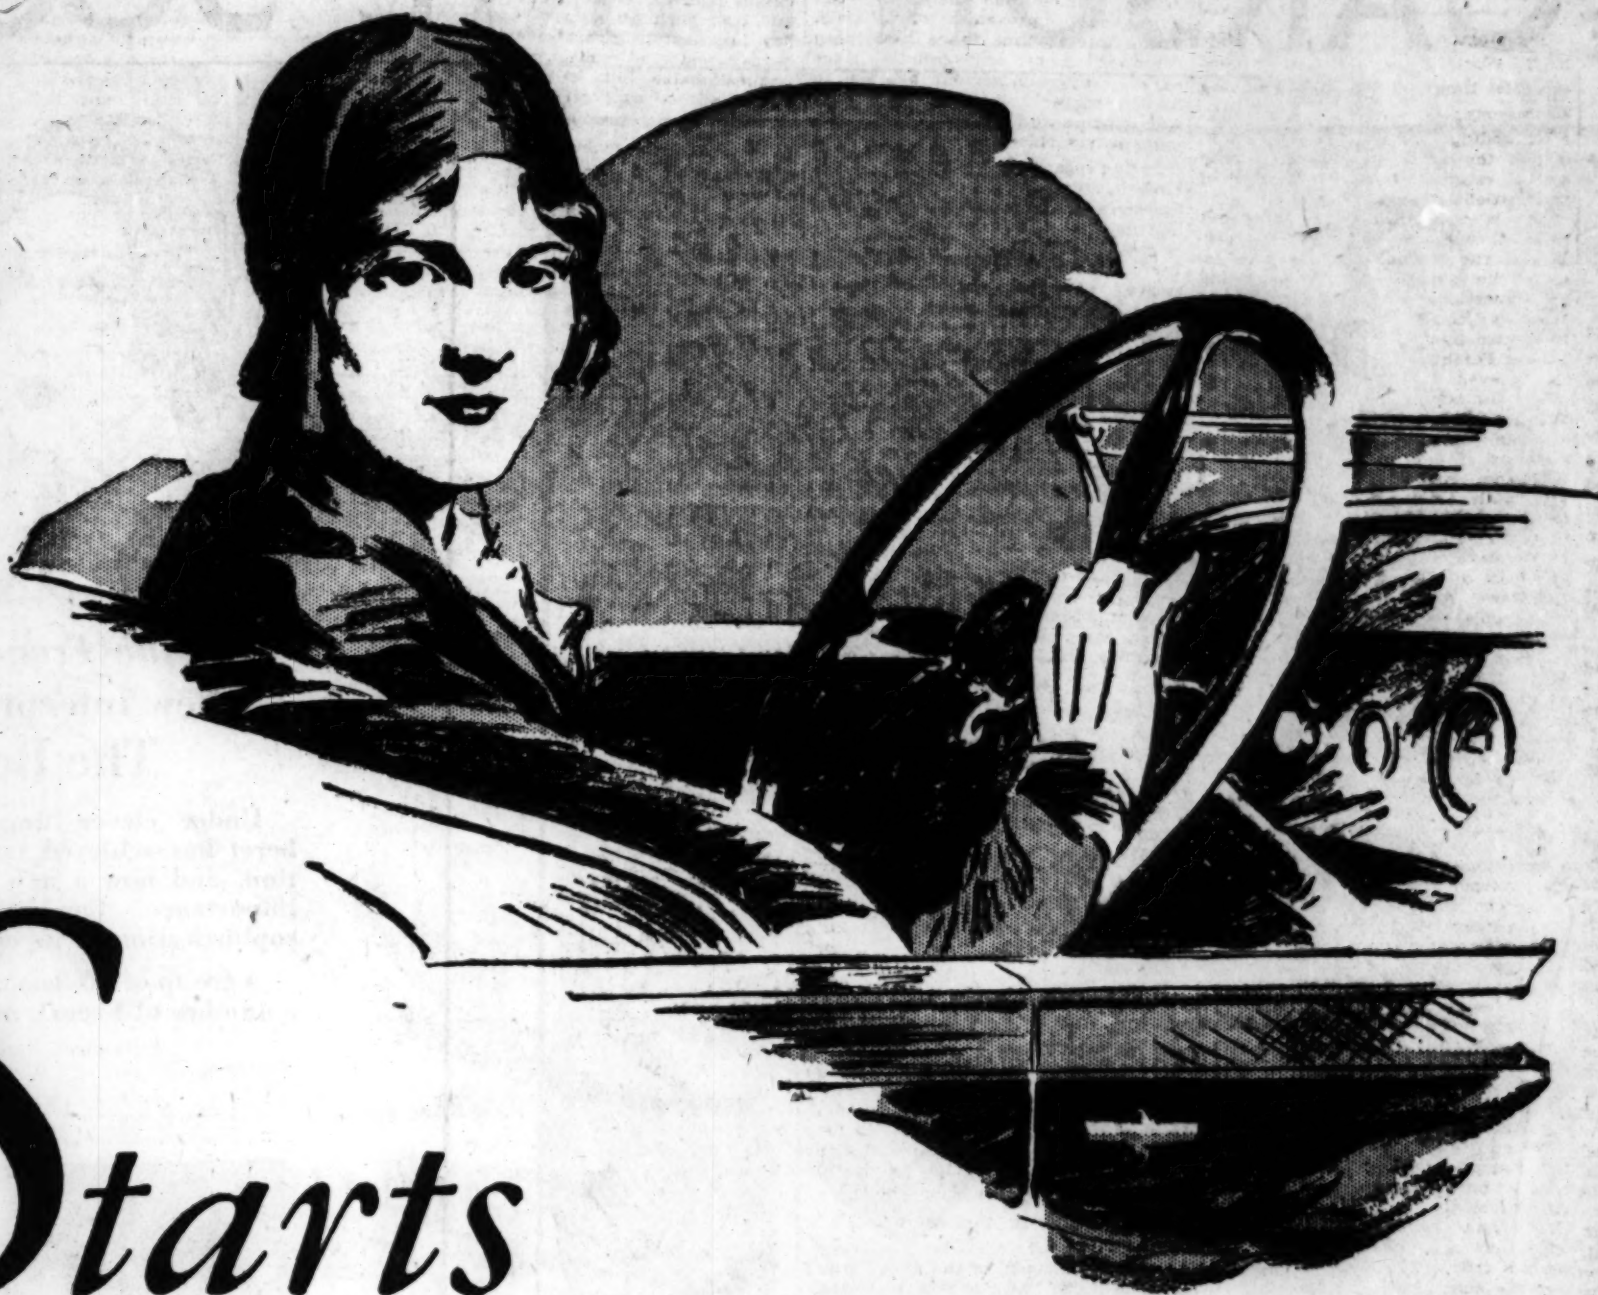

The lawyer was examining a taleman, one of 34 from whom six jurors were chosen during the day. This makes a total of seven men now in the jury box. Mr. Murray's examination of the taleman contained an insinuation that Richard C. Patterson Jr., commissioner of corrections, had been responsible for the alleged effort to influence witnesses.

The taleman under examination was Robert Sterling. Mr. Murray put the usual questions as to whether he knew any of the persons whose names had been mentioned since the trial opened on Monday. Mr. Sterling replied that he had played an occasional game of squash rackets with the commissioner.

"If it turns out," said Mr. Murray casually, "that Commissioner Patterson did certain things to influence witnesses to the detriment of this defendant would you be inclined to believe him if he is called here to give testimony?"

The taleman promptly answered that he would be so inclined.

HARMON, OUSTED FROM STADIUM, TELLS WHY
A. A. U. MAKES PEACE WITH COLLEGE ASSOCIATIONWILL ACCEPT ITS CERTIFICATE
OF ELIGIBILITYRe-elects Brundage
President.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic union closed a stormy convention today by reelecting Avery Brundage to the presidency for a second term, ratifying the selection of Pittsburgh for the 1930 national track and field championships, and picking Washington, D. C., for the next annual meeting.

The A. A. U. completed the program of conciliation with the National Collegiate A. A. U. after a long standing controversy, by changing its constitution to permit certification of athletes by their colleges and universities for competition in A. A. U. meets. Therefore only A. A. U. registration has been accepted in national, district, or club meets, but under the new regulation the statement of a college or university as to the eligibility of any of its athletes will be accepted without reservation.

This move is expected to have far reaching effect in harmonizing the activities of the A. A. U. and the colleges, heretofore in frequent conflict, if not actual open warfare.

Fight Over Boxing Tourney.
The hottest fight of the convention took place before Boston was finally voted the custody of the 1930 national senior boxing championships. St. Louis made a vigorous bid for the title attraction, offering a flat guarantee of either $10,000 for the whole tournament or $5,000 for half of the eight events, but on a motion to split the tournament the delegates voted 58 to 42 to send it entirely to Boston.

The old guard steam roller functioned perfectly in beating the St. Louis bid, which was largely based on charges of mismanagement in past years.

A radical step designed to have the A. A. U. take over control of amateur boxing, and possibly amateur basketball, so as to have jurisdiction over these sports in the 1932 Olympics, was proposed, but tabled for another year. Through its president, William H. Reddock of Pittsburgh, the United States Amateur Hockey association expressed willingness to yield its governing powers to the A. A. U.

Add New Districts.
After winning its fight on boxing, Boston yielded the national marathon championship to New York. To be held in Staten Island as a separate long distance feature, it being combined with the classic Boston A. A. marathon.

The attempt to restrict some associations and form new associations developed stormy debate. The Indiana-Kentucky association successfully fought the proposal to shift three counties in Northwest Indiana, Lake, Porter, and St. Joseph, to the jurisdiction of the Central association because of their proximity to Chicago. The convention voted 55 to 52 in favor of the change but since a two-thirds majority was necessary, the proposal failed.

Brundage Re-elected.
Brundage was re-elected unanimously as president for 1930, along with the following: First vice president, Judge Fred L. Hoffman, Cincinnati; second vice president, L. A. Henry, Palo Alto, Cal.; third vice president, Herman Oberbush, New York; fourth vice president, R. L. Probst, St. Louis; secretary-treasurer, Daniel A. Harris, New York.

Washington was chosen as the next convention city after bids also were made on behalf of Chicago, Indianapolis, and Miami Beach.

Earthquake's a Big Help Toward Making Hole in 1.
Boston, Mass., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—It is an ill earthquake that does nobody good. James Cash Jr. of Harvard law school, claims that yesterday's temblor which joggled most of New England and the Canadian coast made him a member of the hole in one club.

Only, playing in a foursome at the Belmont Spring Country club, sent his ball from the 16th tee on to the green. He and his companions saw the ball come to rest beside the hole. When they reached the green the ball was in the dipper.

PADDY PREDICTS
NORRIS WILL BE HIS SUCCESSORBares Details of the "Resignation."

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Paddy Harmon, the man who had the dream that grew into the $7,000,000 Chicago Stadium, the largest and finest sports palace in America, yesterday was ousted from his job as president and general manager of the Stadium corporation.

The executive committee of the organization met late yesterday and voted six to one on the proposition that Paddy was to step out. The one vote against the proposition was Harmon's own. And when he saw the turn of the tide he made the vote unanimous and affixed his name to a hollow statement which explained he was resigning that he "might give his attention to his other interests."

Norris Votes Against Paddy.

After the ouster Harmon said he had gone to the meeting with the belief he had the support of James Norris, until recently a New Yorker but now the partner in a La Salle street brokerage office. With the stock owned by Norris and himself, Harmon said, he could not have been kicked out of his cherished position.

Bugsie did not have Norris' support, he soon learned. The former New Yorker joined with the others in forming a solid front against Paddy. Paddy believes Norris will become the new president of the Stadium and doesn't care if he does. The Chicagoan said that in getting Norris to put $800,000 in the enterprise, he, Harmon, had supplied a bonus of common stock out of his own holdings sufficient to give Norris control. So Paddy awakened from his dream, according to his own version, and signed the unimpressive statement, giving ridiculous reasons for his withdrawal. Last night Paddy said his only stipulation was that he be assured that Sidney Strota, 33 year old secretary-treasurer of the corporation, would not be his successor.

Harmon Still Director.

Harmon retains his 294,000 shares of common stock and an investment of $500,000. He will continue as a member of the executive committee and also on the directorate of 19 stockholders. Norris, who was cut in his refusal to discuss the maneuvering of the day, is said by Harmon to have switched his affiliations after a recent trip to New York, his former home. Harmon does not say he believes Norris had been influenced by the Madison Square Garden corporation, rival of the Stadium in presentation of prize fights of national interest.

Recently the Garden has been the target of bitter shafts from eastern sports writers because Chicago, characterized in New York sports promotional circles as a hick sports town, had been able to arrange such matches as the impending Uscudun-Griffith fight at the stadium. Uscudun, ever since his arrival in this country had been looked upon as the private chateau of the Garden.

Paddy Called "Bull-Headed."
Harmon said that the most pointed charge made against him in the ouster meeting was that he was "a bull-headed Irishman who had quarreled too much with the boxing commission and had lost his contact with the fly ball and that he also was paying too much to fighters."

Rather than further the suspicion that he was a bull-headed Irishman, "Paddy" decided not to force the issue to a vote of the directorate. As he discussed his setback Harmon showed a surprising lack of the fiery temperament that has characterized many of his moves. At times he was almost jovial as he discussed some of the confusion that had attended the launching of his big sports enterprises.

When he found his resentment rising against the Strota brothers, co-operators in his banishment, he paused and recounted many of the things they had done to help him during the promotional phases of the enterprise.

Tells of Failure, Too.
Paddy was frank. He told of the steps the Stadium has had with the same detail that he recounted the successes, beginning with the Loughran-Walker fight, which drew gross receipts of $187,000 and set a record for indoor boxing shows.

He told of the bad "breaks." The bike race, for instance. Although the race drew $130,000 for a profit of $40,000, it was far from expectations because it was simultaneous with the stock market crash.

"Why," Paddy said, "we had sold 5,400 tickets to one concern. And when the crash came all the employees of the concern who were to have been given the tickets were laid off."

"Our troubles began when we missed our calculations on the date for opening the stadium," Harmon continued. "We had strikes by seven-craft and twenty-seven strikes in one day by one craft, but I never paid a dime to labor racketeers and

Coach Comes 3,000 Miles to Say Adieu to His Team

Three thousand miles from his stamping grounds on the sunset side of the Rockies a stubby, scrappy Welsh football coach Saturday afternoon will end years of football service to one university, his alma mater, and to one conference.

When the University of Washington Huskies trot on to Stagg field Saturday afternoon will be the last game of the season so far as the team is concerned—and the last game for Enoch W. Bagshaw as head coach at the western school.

His passing ends one of the most unusual records and one of the most bitter and protracted coach versus alumni and fan wars seen in intercollegiate football. For the last two years Bagshaw has been the center of a coaching war that began as a row, turned into a feud and ended as a seige that has had few if any equals in the country.

Star Athlete as Student.
Friends on one side of the fence say the scrappy Welshman is the victim of alumni and fan interference; those on the other side say he has been a victim of his own lack of diplomacy and tact. Whatever the case, the Bagshaw battle, which ended in midseason this year with Bagshaw's voluntary resignation, brings to a fore more than one of the many problems besetting the modern coach and a half of the initial period, the Cornell coach got six tallies in the second stanza.

Johnny McKinnon, defense star, had four spectacular unassisted markers to his credit. Hib Mills hung up three, while Capt. Frankie Frederickson carried for a pair and Harold Darrah found the mesh with one.

Irish Work Indoors

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—Rain and snow combined today to drive the Notre Dame squad indoors.

Coach Rockne was not at practice. Tom Leahy stated that he may not be out all week, but that he still hopes to be at the game in Evanston Saturday.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
When Notre Dame and Northwestern meet at Dwyer stadium Saturday in one of the most important football struggles of the day, the result will depend largely upon the reserve strength of the combating elevens.

Reserves always are an important factor in games between closely matched elevens. Minnesota won from the Purple earlier in the season because of stronger substitutes.

Notre Dame, perhaps, furnishes the most striking example of reserve power. Coach Rockne has developed two elevens of almost equal strength. Shock troops usually answer the whistle for the opening kick-off. At opportune scoring times or when his reserve eleven is hard pressed, the regulars are sent into the battles.

In this respect Notre Dame will have an edge on Northwestern. Indications are Coach Rockne will use his reserves as long as possible so that the regulars may be saved for the Army game in New York on Nov. 30.

Northwestern cannot hope to match Notre Dame in reserve strength. Coach Hanley, however, is confident his regulars will be in condition to play the entire game. If the five center players on the Purple eleven can stand the wear and tear of a bruising battle the Purple will give Notre Dame a fight.

Purple May Lose Moore.
Several angles must be taken into consideration when the probable winner is discussed. Notre Dame has played one of the hardest schedules of any eleven in football history. There are no setups among Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech, Drake, and Southern California.

If the Northwestern forwards play well the aggressive and fast charging game which they did against Illinois, the running game and line attack of Notre Dame may not gain the expected yardage. On the other hand, if the Northwestern forwards Rockne's backs probably will run wild.

Notre Dame Blocks Well.
The Purple must be prepared for everything and above all the players should be sent into the game with instructions to tackle more effectively than they have at any time this year. It will take hard, sure tackles to stop the Notre Dame ball carriers.

Since Rockne has practically discarded the shift, which caused so much trouble a few years ago, he has stressed blocking and the placing of more power in front of the runner.

Russell Berghorn, full back, will be Northwestern's big offensive gun. He has improved with every game. He is a strong blocker and a powerful line plunger and blocker. He will match punts with Carideo, the Notre Dame quarter back, who is playing a brilliant game this fall.

The Wildcats will give Notre Dame a battle if the starting players can last for sixty minutes.

French Bike Race Gives Blood to Save German Cop
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BERLIN, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Rene Boucheron, French racing cyclist, a patient in a Stuttgart hospital as the result of a fall during the six-day bike races yesterday, gave up blood in a transfusion to save the life of a German policeman.

At the Northwestern-Indiana game last Saturday Referee Joe Magdaon was given the razz whenever he stepped off a penalty against the Purple. His traducers didn't know that the referee hadn't called the foul.

Statistics on football game are misleading. In the Iowa-Purdue tilt fight Iowa gained 204 yards from scrimmage against 208 for Purdue. Iowa made eleven first downs, Purdue 7. Iowa ran back punts 46 yards and the Boilermakers only 6 yards. The average of punts was the same—37 yards. But Purdue won because it completed two forward passes in four tries. Iowa completed one in eight tries.

the unions settled differences on their merits.

"Whereas I had planned to open the place with the bike race in February, I had to go elsewhere. To force completion even a month later, it was necessary to spend $150,000.

"The 'natural nut' of the place is $300,000 a year and to this we had to add the $150,000, a responsibility of $450,000 to break even on our obligations of the first year.

"We haven't made a pro rata share of this $450,000 in the eight months we've been going and figures talk to bankers as well as any one else. If some one else can lift the revenue, luck to him. I'm eager to protect the $300,000 I have in the institution, you may be certain."

Names Shows that Failed.

Harmon, in discussing the income of the stadium, pointed out that the Maxie Rosenblum fight, and the Schmeling exhibition were the only ones on the stadium calendar for the year. He said the Cassano-Mandell fight had netted $23,000; the Mastro-Taylor affair, $19,000; Mastro-Shea, $14,000; and Mandell-McLarnin, $21,000. The crowd made about $12,000, according to Harmon's statement.

Harmon said there had been little discussion of the future plans, but that he was convinced there would be a complete change of personnel after the Uscudun-Griffith fight was out of the way. From other sources, however, it was intimated that Lewis probably would continue as matchmaker.

For, at whose office yesterday's meeting was held, is said to have an interest in hockey, and was disappointed when difficulties prevented the establishment of the stadium as the home of the Blackhawks. Sid Strotz, Harmon said, has suggested that arrangements be made for the Blackhawks to play Sunday night contests at the stadium for a near cost rental, but that Harmon had opposed any concessions in rentals to the hockey club.

Those who attended the meeting, in addition to Harmon, Norris, and the Strotzes, were Charles E. Driver, Guy Peters, David Beaton, and Orville Taylor. Mr. Taylor is a director of the corporation but not a member of the executive committee. He said he had attended the meeting as "counselor and friend of Paddy."

Giant Washington Eleven Arrives for Maroon Game

BY HARLAND ROHM.

One of the tables of statistics that make natives of the North Pacific coast proud of their section endeavors to prove the male college students in the land of the tall pines average an inch higher and ten to twelve pounds heavier than anywhere else in the United States. If they need any further proof they can point to the Washington football team, which arrived yesterday morning.

Perhaps a pound is heavier in the sea air of the west coast than in the middle west, but this bunch of thirty-three brawny huskies appeared even bigger than the generous weights published by university statisticians. The twenty-one linemen in the squad average up around 190 pounds, while the squad boasts seven men of 205 to 225 pounds. These are coach's weights. Huskies—and how!

MAROONS DRILL ON PASSES

Nearly All Natives. As a matter of interest to those who delve into proselytizing and the like, only five of the thirty-three come from beyond the borders of Washington state. Only one of those five is a regular, a sophomore back from Oregon named Merle Hufford, who is expected to follow the cleat prints of George Wilson and Chuck Carroll, the Huskies' All-American backs of recent years.

Their size was more notable when they trotted out on Soldier's field to take the Pullman kinks out of their legs, and merely from watching them an hour in running signals and dummy scrimmages, it seems a safe bet to predict that Chicago's line will find itself against stiffer opposition than it has this year. Whether the Maroon's passing attack will counteract that power is one of those questions unanswerable until after the game.

Internal Rows Hindered Team.

Discounting the normal enthusiasm of the Huskies' supporters, Washington is undoubtedly a team which "is on the make" after getting off to a bad start. Internal rows were fostered by alumni who disliked Coach Enoch Bagshaw, despite his record of 62 won, 14 lost and 5 tied in the Pacific Coast conference in the last eight years. The dissension led eventually to the resignation of Bagshaw, though he is finishing the season. After that bad start the Huskies have been coming on. In the last two games the Huskies

W. VA. WESLEYAN BREAKS WITH DAVIS ELKINS

Buckhannon, W. Va., Nov. 19.—(AP)—West Virginia Wesleyan college athletic authorities today announced that all athletic relations with Davis and Elkins college had been discontinued because of the Elkins institution's failure to abide by the eligibility rules of the local schools.

Both schools are members of the West Virginia Collegiate Athletic conference, which permits players to participate in four years of varsity athletics. Wesleyan's protest is based on the playing of former Haskell institute athletes on the Davis and Elkins squad.

Bagshaw Near End as Coach at Washington

Without fear or favor Bagshaw regulated his players' conduct, allocated positions and ordered turnouts. One of the bluster points between him and the alumni, observers state, is that Bagshaw has more than once placed players according to his own judgment—and still offender ordered alumni, newspaper men and students off the field that his team might have secret practice.

That was fuel to waiting flames. Still further fuel was added through the tricks of personality that never have been understood by the Pacific coast football alumni; interest saw to it they were spread throughout the state.

The trouble broke through the surface last year, following an unsuccessful season at Washington. The year previous half of Bagshaw's football team had hilariously ducked the student body president into the lake, been expelled and thereby left him with little or no material for his 1928 season. A succession of defeats, and the battle royal started.

Energetic student editors, abetted by equally energetic student body presidents, fanned the trouble into flames.

Old Friendships Broken.

Friends of long standing split over the issue. Metropolitan, state and country newspapers in the Pacific northwest carried little else for three months last year.

Bagshaw, believing he had a great record—62 victories, 14 defeats, and 5 ties over a period of eight years—seemed to substantiate—refused to resign when the student governing body demanded his scalp. When the student dismissal of the coach was refused by the university president on the grounds of violation of contract, Bagshaw remained as Washington coach.

Every indication had it that he would remain deeply had this season been successful.

When the victories failed to appear this fall the battle opened again, and grew so virulent that players, coaching staff and managerial group were entirely demoralized. Bagshaw, broken in spirit, handed in his resignation three weeks ago, giving as his reasons that the burden on his family as well as the injustice being done his team and boys was too great.

The graduate manager of athletics at Washington is now in this section seeking a successor to Bagshaw. The man who gets the job, coast fans say, steps into one of the potentially great coaching positions of the country. A team of trained and broken in sophomores awaits him.

Among the Western conference coaches the Huskies are interested in are Bert Ingwersen, Pat Pace, Glenn Thistlethwaite and Dr. Spears.

Eddie Madigan of St. Mary's, Cal., and Maurice Smith of Santa Clara, Cal., both former Notre Dame athletes, are on the list of candidates Washington is considering.

U. OF DETROIT APOLOGIZES FOR LANSING RIOT

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A formal apology not only expressing regret at the disorders that followed the University of Detroit's football victory over Michigan State at East Lansing last Saturday but renouncing the allegiance of those responsible will be forwarded to the athletic board of state college.

This decision was reached last night after a meeting of the board, at which Charles E. Dorais, coach of the Detroit team, declared the entire Titan football squad was on the way home when the disorders started.

In his report to the board Dorais also took occasion to deplore drinking at football games. "If it is allowed to get a start," he said, "it will ruin football."

NAVY GRID SQUAD GETS READY TO MEET DARTMOUTH

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—With today's football practice at the Naval academy preparations began for the game with Dartmouth, which will be played in Philadelphia on Nov. 30.

West Virginia Wesleyan closes the home season for the midshipmen next Saturday, but is not regarded as dangerous.

The chief attention was given this afternoon to defense against the forward pass, squad B having been drilled in Dartmouth's passing plays. There was no scrimmage. Lou Kirm, who made a good showing in the Wake Forest game Saturday, was in the first back field this afternoon with Joe Bauer, Gannon, and Clifton.

Page Respects Purdue Backs; Builds Defense

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—"I have great respect for Purdue's fine back field, a combination I rate with Notre Dame's Four Horsemen. The battering of Alex Yunevich, the blocking of Jack White, the cleverness of Glen Harneson, and the elusiveness of Ralph Welch will be hard to overcome, Pat Page, Indiana coach, said today as he drilled his men to check the Boilermaker offense Saturday in Memorial stadium. Page spent the entire practice period instructing his men on defense tactics.

BOILERMAKERS SCRIMMAGE

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—"Bring back that old oaken bucket!" is the battle cry being drilled into the ears of Purdue's championship Big Ten football squad as it prepares for the final game of the season Saturday with Indiana.

Phelan's title squad was back in the midst of scrimmage this afternoon. Regulars and reserves alike, with the exception of the more badly bruised members of the squad, were shifted about as one of the stiffest workouts of the season was handed out.

Competition in Big 10 for Iowa Ends Saturday

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 19.—(Special.)—Unless Big Ten officials relent at their semi-annual session in Chicago Dec. 6 and 7, University of Iowa athletes will meet Western conference foes for the last time Saturday, when the Hawkeye football team winds up its schedule against Michigan and cross country runners take part in the conference championship meet at Columbus, O.

Action of the conference last May in severing athletic relations with Iowa is scheduled to take effect Jan. 1.

Despite its plea of a complete shake-up in athletic administration and promises to clear up any irregularities such as proselytizing and subsidizing of athletes, which figured in the Big Ten charges, the Hawkeye institution was denied reinstatement last June. Since that time the new athletic department administration, headed by Dr. E. H. Lauer, has waged a strenuous campaign to set the Hawkeye house in order. Iowa will present a second petition for reinstatement at the conference meeting in Chicago.

The Best of Everything in the Best of the West

Two hours' practice this afternoon and a workout of similar duration tomorrow will terminate the home football activities for De Paul university. Coach Ed Anderson's gridders will depart Friday morning for Niagara, N. Y. to meet Niagara university Saturday. Next week the Blue Demons will play St. John's college at Brooklyn.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—One of the greatest athletes to play in Minnesota history, Bronko Nagurski, will complete his three years of competition Saturday night when he plays against the Gophers here. Since 1929 season when the Gophers met Wisconsin in the first game of the 1929 season.

Like other great Minnesota backs, such as Earl Martineau and Herb Joesting, Nagurski never played on a western conference team. He was a true Minn. back. Like them, he played on one or more teams said by sports writers to be the equal of any in the country. Dr. C. W. Spear's 1925 team was the best.

Nagurski is superior wherever he is called upon to perform. He stands defensively. As a ball carrier he commands respect. He is a true back. He is unusual for one weighing 201 pounds.

Along with Nagurski, Minnesota will lose Kakela, a guard; Bob Tanner, a veteran end; Polkbrake, who is completing his third year at guard; and Harold Barnhart, George Langenberg, tackle, and Bert Oja, center, have played only two years.

Football will be a little better next year if they are in school.

OHIO'S BACKS SHIFTED

Many sporting critics have not always had great faith in the unselfish motives of various bodies governing amateur sport. There have been suspicions of ulterior motives and policies of more or less questionable impression. We need them well in their problems. Mr. Brundage, by the way, not connected with any sporting body, house, directly or indirectly.

When the new yard was under way, the farmer employed a local construction crew to build a fence to drive a team of horses was used in a small pasture lot rounding up his horses. When he approached these horses he scared away a buck and a doe and a yearling. He was on a visit with the hardworking steeds. All fall this teamster had noticed that a buck and sometimes two does came into the pasture at night and stayed until scared out at daylight. One day he saw the horses in the pasture, leaped the wire fence, and calmly strolled down the road as unconcerned as if it were ten miles away in the deep forest. It ambled right up to him and he had to get right up and back. He had just parked his car at the side of the road. At seventy-five feet this excited gunner, who hadn't walked ten feet, put five shots into the buck, loaded it into his car and was on his way home, the luckiest hunter in the state.

Harvard coach, today gave his varsity a complete holiday from football, as the Crimson players paid their annual visit to the Myopia Hunt club, where they got their exercise in the open air, instead of before going indoors for a hearty meal.

Meantime, at New Haven, Coach Stevens was sending his Yale team through a long practice session. The little fellows will be in the line this fall, the backs worked on new plays, and then dummy scrimmages was held against Harvard plays. EDDIE SHEA TO TOP FIGHT CARD AT WHITE CITY

Norman Also Meets Burns
Monday Night.

Now that the boys in his counting house have found employment, James E. Mullen, the promoter, has signed Eddie Shea, pride of the west side, as one of the principals in the ten round feature, a further endeavor to keep the change counters at White City busy. The bout in which Shea figures takes place Monday night.

As another inducement to fight Shea, Promoter Mullen has secured Edgar Norman, the blonde slugger, to meet Johnny Burns, whose home is on the sunset side of the Rockies, for two other bouts. Burns is a middleweight. The completed card will be announced within the next day or two.

Seven four round preliminary skirmishes, in addition to the Mar-Edgar-Norman set, make up the card. Promoter Jack Dempsey will present Nov. 24 on occasion of his Christmas basket fund boxing show. Ray Alvin, who does the signing for Promoter Dempsey, has obtained Joe Merhar, the Butte heavyweight, and Bruno Zagato, an Italian, for the semi-windup.

Big Erickson to Fight

A Viking giant, answering to the ring name of Man Mountain Erickson, will demonstrate his wares that evening, too. Big Sid Terris, South Carolina football star, will form Erickson's opposition.

A couple of Heinies, one a heavyweight and the other a middleweight, will feature the supporting card to the Uscudun-Griffith battle at the Chicago stadium Nov. 29. Hein Mueller has been signed to meet Salvatore Ruggiello, Chicago Italian, in the semi-windup, while Heinie Domargen, a middleweight from the land of the Rhine, opposes Haakon Hansen, another Nordic, for eight rounds or less.

Forty Rounds of Boxing

In two six rounders, completing the 40 round boxing card, Nate Lewis has secured Larry Johnson, a stablemate of Griffith, to mix it with Larry Crighton of the house of Paulino. Gaston Le Cadre, reputed to be the French lightweight champion, and Jimmy Lundy, west coast star, are opponents in what will be the first bout of the evening.

LONG SHOTS WIN

7 BOWIE RACES;
CANNON UP ON 3

Bowie, Md., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A muddy track and seven sensational victories by the longest of the long shots arrived today to turn the second day's racing program at Bowie into a drab, dreary one for the boys who fancy their form sheets.

Not once during the afternoon were the favorites able to claim anything that had the semblance of a victory. Starting with the victory of Jolly Pal in the first race, the outsiders swept through every race in impressive style. Jolly Pal paid $11.60 for a $2 win ticket, and incidentally was the shortest price winner of the day.

Irish Polly Victor.

Willie Cannon, who was up on Jolly Pal, came right back in the second on Chattahoochee, booting the P. D. Odd 3 year old filly home to a victory worth $18.90. Catlettburg proved a good thing in the third at a mile and an eighth, paying $12.60 to win.

Being a first time starter failed to stop Irish Polly from winning a head victory over Mild in the Vanity purse—the feature of the card. Although running out at the stretch turn, Jockey Lashman brought the little 2 year old filly back in line and she rushed up to win in a hard drive.

Wreck ran.

LA SALLE STREET IS NOW BACK TO NORMAL BASISWorries Less About Stock Market.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Chicago financial district has about got back to normalcy once more. One hears again the usual query, "How is business?" when men meet, and not so much "How is the stock market?" It is a good omen, particularly because veteran bankers and business men believe the recent stock market collapse will not seriously affect the country's general welfare.

A mild recession in industry is the expectation of the next few months, but that business will decline more than moderately seems very unlikely, the current CHICAGO TRIBUNE SURVEY says. "The recession will be little affected by the stock market break for the reason that the number of those whose standard of living will have to be changed is exceedingly small. Losses from speculation have been exaggerated."

Output in the automobile industry has been curtailed, although production in the first nine months surpassed that of any other full year. Bookings are being swelled by orders for railroad equipment and output is satisfactory for the season. Output of manufactured goods compares favorably with last year, when business was on the upgrade. General business conditions remain good.

Reynolds' Viewpoint.
In general, the above outline represents the consensus of Chicago's leaders in finance and trade.

"I do not expect more than a comparatively mild recession in the next three months," Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois bank, said. "And thereafter I look for an upturn. Easier credit conditions will permit much work that was held in abeyance when the stock market was absorbing a vast amount of credit and offering high rates. Lower money rates also will help merchandising. American manufacturers will seek to enlarge their foreign trade and we will be able to help other countries finance their trade with us. Finally, our crops will produce an immense amount of wealth, which will stimulate our domestic trade."

Employment is reported generally maintained despite surpluses in the automobile and building industries," Stephen L. Miller, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, says in his monthly letter. "A higher level of agricultural commodity prices has neutralized somewhat the unsettled conditions resulting from drought. Railroad earnings are showing encouraging increases in all sections of the country."

"The present administration appears equal to the huge tasks demanded on its doorstep, while the possibilities for American trade resulting from the closer relationships between Great Britain and the United States engineered by Premier MacDonald's visit are yet to be realized."

"Business settles into the last quarter with little apprehension about the record of 1929 as one of the most prosperous in our commercial history. Little should develop in the ensuing two months to disturb seriously the general cheerfulness."

Rail Buying Programs.
Two great industries, steel and petroleum, produced good news yesterday. The 1930 steel rail buying program is well under way, with orders up to the present time totaling close to 1,000,000 tons. Western rail mill officials expect total orders to be around 2,000,000 tons. The Illinois Central has ordered 40,000 tons, the Rock Island 37,000 tons, and the Wabash 23,000 tons. The St. Louis and San Francisco will purchase about 30,000 tons. The New York Central asked authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $5,000,000 equipment trust 4 1/2 per cent certificates for the purpose of purchasing locomotives and cars.

Because of a large volume of orders received in the last few days, the American Sheet and Tube company, a subsidiary of the U. S. Steel corporation, will operate around 77 per cent of capacity during the next week, an increase of 11 per cent.

BONDS TO FIT THE INVESTOR

LIFE INSURANCE
SALES THIS YEAR HAVE SET A NEW HIGH RECORDBANK CALL SHOWS GAIN IN FEDERAL RESERVE LOANS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Loans and investments of federal reserve member banks were $35,914,000, on Oct. 4; the date of the last bank call.

Made public by the federal reserve board today, this was an increase of $203,000,000 for the three months since last June and of $985,000,000 during the year. We do not anticipate any unusual condition except in a few areas, if any slowing up occurs, we expect it to be of short duration. Nothing can be fundamentally wrong with industry or business so long as employment conditions are good, and so far employment scales have been unaltered.

Mr. Newton and Mr. Ayres recommended that the federal reserve board make installment payment of the proper grade eligible for rediscout.

Mr. Newton, "that the notes of a manufacturer or dealer who has borrowed to carry merchandise not yet sold should be eligible, while the paper of a finance company, given to finance merchandise already sold, the receivables of which are being collected monthly, should not be eligible."

"Experience shows that, capital for capital, finance company notes are as safe a risk as the notes of manufacturers or merchants."

He added that he did not believe that banks would in the near future enter directly into the field of installment financing, as it would probably be profitable and require no unusual facilities to continue handling the paper of the finance companies.

Mr. Ayres pointed out that there has been a steady shrinkage in the amount of bank loans eligible to rediscout since 1920, this shrinkage in the case of national banks alone being from four and a half to less than three billion dollars. This is equivalent to a decrease from 25 per cent of eligible paper nine years ago to 13 1/2 per cent today.

See Benefit to Purchaser.
If the reserve banks would accept finance company paper for rediscout, he added, a billion and a half dollars would be added to the banks' most liquid loans. The original maker of the note, the purchaser of an automobile or other merchandise sold on time payments, would benefit, it is claimed, in getting a lower rate from the finance companies.

It is estimated that at present the finance companies pay the bank about 1 per cent more than would be required if their paper had the rediscout privilege.

The same speaker declared that the finance companies have proved their ability to weather depression. Sixty-five companies, who are doing about three-fourths of all time financing of automobiles, were in existence through 1921, he asserted, while he had not been able to discover any company of importance that had gone bankrupt because of depression.

Record Profits on Shoes

President Milton S. Florsheim, president of the Florsheim Shoe company, stated yesterday that preliminary figures indicate the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 will show the best profits and volume in the history of the firm. Cash, government and municipal securities held by the company amount to $4,632,610 while indebtedness of all kinds, exclusive of taxes, totaled $141,442, Mr. Florsheim said.

Dividends Are Prominent as Gloom Chaser

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Nov. 19.—Gloom chasers in the form of dividend announcements were forthcoming from several large corporations today. Consolidated Gas Electric Light and Power company of Baltimore headed the list with an announcement that the company had placed the stock on a $3.60 annual dividend basis compared with $3 previously by the declaration of a quarterly disbursement of 90 cents a share.

Mergenthaler Linotype company declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 placing the stock on a $6 yearly basis against the former rate of $5 and an extra dividend of 25 cents. At the end of the last quarter the directors declared an extra of 50 cents and a regularly quarterly of $1.25.

Initial Payment.
In announcing the payment of an initial dividend of 37 1/2 cents a share on the common stock today, officials of the Petroleum Corporation of America, an investment trust specializing in the securities of oil companies, stated that it had more than $47,000,000 invested in the capital stock of the Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Prairie Pipe Line company. Both companies declared extra dividends last week.

Directors of the Witherow Steel corporation of Pittsburgh declared a payment of $5.75 on the 7 per cent 2d preferred stock to the account of accumulated back dividends totaling $10.50 a share. The regular quarterly payments of $1.25 on the 5 per cent first preferred and $1.75 on the 7 per cent second preferred also were declared.

The Royal Dutch Petroleum company declared an interim dividend of 16 per cent, unchanged from a year ago. On each New York share, which is equivalent to one-third of a foreign share, this is equal to approximately $1.34.

Vote to Split Shares.
Stockholders of the Connecticut General Life Insurance company have voted to split the shares on a 10 for 1 basis, and increase the capital from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Interstate Trust company has declared an initial quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share on the new $20 par value capital stock, or at the rate of 6 per cent annually.

Directors of Reliance International corporation have declared an initial quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on its cumulative preferred stock, $3 convertible series.

Directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit company authorized the payment of another dividend of $1.25 a share on Manhattan Railroad company modified guarantee stock. It is payable on Dec. 17 to stockholders of record on Nov. 29.

U. S. GOV'T BONDS CONTINUE CLIMB TO HIGH GROUND

(New York bond list page 29.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Nov. 19.—Liberty bonds and the United States treasury issues led the listed bond market into higher ground today. Four of the government issues established new highs for the year to date, and one of these, the treasury 3 1/2 per cent 1940-43, touched the highest price since it was issued.

The Liberty 3 1/2 per cent, while not establishing a record price, led the group from a standpoint of gain for the day, moving up 13-32. The balance of the list finished up 1-32 to 9-32, with the exception of the First Liberty 4 1/2 per cent, which sold off 2-32 during the late trading.

Several rail issues made stable gains. Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s, 1955, moved up 1 1/4 points in brisk trading.

REPORT SLASH OF CREDIT GIVEN
IN EMERGENCYN. Y. Banks Reduce Loans to Brokers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Nov. 19.—New York banks, members of the federal reserve system, are rapidly slashing the huge amounts of credit they extended in the emergency which arose during the week of Oct. 23-24, when the initial crash in stock prices caused lenders other than banks to withdraw their support of the money market. In that one week they increased their loans to brokers by $92,000,000. In the subsequent weeks the New York member banks have reduced their loans to brokers by $243,000,000, so that only about $49,000,000 of the $92,000,000 increase remained outstanding.

Cut Member Bank Loans.
A corresponding but somewhat less reduction on member bank loans throughout the country has also taken place. During the last week in October these security loans had increased by $1,259,000,000. Today's report of the member banks of their condition on Nov. 13 shows that in the first two weeks of this month the member banks reduced their security loans by $310,000,000.

Consequently their loans on securities are still $449,000,000 higher than they were before the big stock market break. The figure on Oct. 30 was $8,359,000,000, or $1,422,000,000 higher than a year ago.

All but $35,000,000 of this $810,000,000 in security loans accomplished in two weeks has taken place in the accounts of the member banks of the New York federal reserve district. This is evident from the fact that today's report for the period ended Nov. 13 shows they have cut down their security loans by $775,000,000 in the two weeks period.

The withdrawal of this big sum in credit has accompanied the secondary liquidation which has taken place in the stock market since the first of this month. The restriction of credit would seem to indicate that the member banks regarded the big emergency credit as temporary and had carried the loans only until such time as the collateral for them could be sold in the market without intensifying the disaster in the stock market.

In other words, the banks evidently are still engaged in mopping up the weakened accounts by calling their loans.

Demand Is Heavy.
A feature today was two reductions in bankers' acceptance rates for the second time within the last fiscal month, making a total of ten reductions since Oct. 21.

At the opening this morning all dealers adopted the new rates quoted by a few firms yesterday afternoon, making the ninety day bill 4 1/4 per cent bid and 4 per cent asked. Shortly before noon a further reduction of another 1/4 of 1 per cent, making 3 3/4 per cent on the day, was made by leading Boston dealers, and this was the signal for all New York dealers to follow suit, although they had hoped to hold the rate cut off until tomorrow.

Seldom has the bill market experienced such an enormous demand for acceptances from corporate, bank and other large investors who are faced with the necessity of employing some thing like $200,000,000 temporarily idle capital which can find investment profitably neither in the call, time nor government securities market.

Are Women "Bad Losers"?
Opinions Vary

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Nov. 19.—Although women speculators are finding it increasingly difficult to operate in the stock market, largely as a result of the experiences of some brokerage houses during the recent upheaval, inquiries today established that no general discrimination has been set up against women in the future.

The latest important commission house to weed out margin accounts of women customers is Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co., which has sent a message to all branch managers and correspondents advising them that margin business will not be accepted from women in the future.

Lacks Facilities.
It was explained at the firm's offices today that this action was taken not because women were undesirable customers, but because the firm has not the facilities for handling their business. The same explanation was made by other firms which, if they do not refuse the accounts of women, seek to discourage them.

Opinions among brokers differ as to the sportsmanship of women customers. It is the impression in some quarters that brokers in rejecting women's accounts were determined in their course by the difficulties which they had with women customers who were "sold out" during the recent declines. Stories were told of violent protests by women losers in the market.

Small Lots "Unprofitable."
A partner in one of the houses now refusing women's business said today, however, that it was his experience that women were as good losers as men. The real reason for refusing to handle their accounts on margin, he said, is that they ordinarily involve transactions in small lots, and that such business is not profitable.

WILL ADVERTISE
N. Y. STATE FOR NEW INDUSTRIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Nov. 19.—A nation-wide advertising educational campaign to spur the industrial development of New York state was announced today by R. P. Stevens, president of the Niagara Hudson Power corporation, which was formed last June to hold the stocks of the Buffalo, Niagara Eastern Power corporation, Niagara Eastern Power corporation, Mohawk Hudson Power corporation, and the Northwestern Power corporation. The holding company is a Morgan enterprise.

"The national advertising and the general industry development effort projected are in no way philanthropic but just good business, as the corporation obviously hopes to benefit from increased use of electric power which new industries will require," Mr. Stevens stated in amplifying the formal announcement. "On the other hand, it is hoped and believed that the state as a whole will benefit. If more power is consumed there will also be more homes built, more groceries sold, more amusement demanded, a greater market for the products of agriculture. This is just plain economics."

Schedule Fixes Greenfield
Liabilities at $344,288

Liabilities of the stock brokerage company headed by J. B. Greenfield, under indictment in the state courts, total $344,288, according to bankruptcy schedules filed in United States district court today. The firm's assets are listed at $29,962. Several hundred creditors hold claims against the company of amounts from $100 to $3,000. Among them is City Clerk Patrick Sheridan Smith, 1539 East 63d street, with a claim of $146 for deposits on stocks which were not delivered.

New York, Nov. 19.—Bear traders again made themselves scarce around the stock exchange today and the market once more departed itself with ease and dignity.

Some stocks suffered a fresh setback and others just managed to hold their own, but the vast majority emerged from the abbreviated session with encouraging gains. General Electric, one of the big leaders, was up 9 1/2 points at the close.

American Can showed a net gain of nearly 8 points, and United States Steel still the market gauge, was up good 6 1/2 points above its closing level of Monday night. It began to look as if the street was really and truly back to normal.

Prices Move Orderly.

One or two mild raids were attempted on pivot issues in the early trading but they were soon broken up and price movements from then on to the finish were orderly, and, in the main, within narrow grooves. Expert observers were pretty well agreed the liquidation had fairly well run its course and that the nation was at last recovering its confidence in the future.

Certainly there were no traces of the late hysteria in the vicinity of the country's most famous stock trading mart. All hands thereabout appeared to have but one ambition—to get to work on reconstruction and push with might and main until the damage done by the recent upheaval has been repaired.

May Restore Old Schedule.

Brokerage houses were in good press on back work, and the opinion was expressed on all sides that the three hour trading sessions can be dispensed with and the exchange business restored to normal schedule next week.

The stock ticker kept abreast of the market most of the day. It had but 2,709,900 transactions to record, considerably fewer even than on yesterday, when operations just loomed along.

There were other good features to the lull. It gave the street time to take stock of current developments with a bearing on the market situation and find out just how much it has to be thankful for—encouraging statements on the condition of the big companies by their presidents or other

Security of Principal

RECENT financial history has brought home once again the paramount importance to the investor of keeping a very substantial part of his capital placed—where the principal is secure.

The first fundamental factor in investment is security of principal—and all other investment attributes must necessarily be secondary. Next in importance to

INSULL ISSUES
RALLY IN CHICAGO
STOCK TRADINGPrices Throughout List Close Irregularly.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks closed irregularly yesterday after an orderly trading session in which some of the Insull issues developed a lively rally toward the finish.

Insull Utility Investment dropped two points in the early trading, but rallied briefly and closed the day with a net gain of 5 points. Middle West saw stock in a turnover of over 74,000 shares netted 2 1/2 points after first dropping below the previous day's close of 23 1/2. Central and Southwest Utilities advanced 1 1/2 to 17 1/2.

Cleaner Combine Harvesters was active, finishing with a gain of 3 1/2.

The company has orders on hand for delivery early in 1930 of more than double the volume a year ago, according to S. H. Hale, president.

Lion Oil's Prospects.

T. H. Barton, president of the Lion Oil company, said yesterday that earnings for the current year will be more than double the 1928 profits. Income will approximate $1,215,000, which compares with a net of $501,119 a year ago, he said. Estimated earnings are equal to $4.50 a share on the 270,000 shares of the common stock outstanding. Hornell was dull in yesterday's trading, closing off a fraction in light turnover.

The investment issues were dull. Bureham Trading closed at 26, a loss of three points for the day. National Securities Investment and Chicago Corporation were off slightly, while Continental Chicago closed unchanged at 45.

Electric Household Utilities crashed 11 points at the opening. The stock has been comparatively inactive for several days. It rallied as trading got under way and finished at 44, off 16 for the day. United States Gypsum was fractionally higher at the close, despite reports current in the street that earnings for the year ending Dec. 1 would show another decline.

Wayne Pump reported net profits for the ten months ended Sept. 30 were $161,052, equal after depreciation to $155 a share, against $150 a share in the period of 1928. September profits totaled $59,434, compared with $77,886 last year. The company's stock was dull yesterday, gaining a point on an odd lot sale of 50 shares.

Converts Preferred.

Practically all of the preferred stock of the Minneapolis Honeywell Regulator company was converted into common stock on Nov. 15, the date set for the redemption of the preferred, the company reports.

Frank P. Parish, president of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, says that the company plans to enter the oil production field. The region of operations of the company is in the states of Kansas, Missouri, and Kentucky.

Cable Service company has taken over the holdings of two Pennsylvania service station firms through its subsidiary, the Crew-Levick company.

Thompson Products company, which closed with a net gain of 2 1/2 points yesterday, has received an order from the Ford company which is expected to run around $200,000 a month.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. (AP)—Cotton goods markets continued quiet and irregular with mixed sales made at varying prices but no concentrated or large buying. Coarse and fine goods were alike in slow call. Moderate trading in carded yarns was noted. Cotton shipments continued to be slow with a stronger tendency in hitherto nominal and aloof quotations. Wool goods were quiet. Raw cotton not much traded here and in Japan. Prices unchanged. Merchandise quiet.

WHEAT BUYING HEAVY; PRICES SOAR 4 CENTS

Market Shows Resistance to Pressure.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy buying of wheat futures today by houses with eastern connections was attributed by the trade to a leading New York professional operator. Aggressive commission houses and local buyers, based on sensationalist bullish crop cables from Argentina, also helped in advancing prices 4¢ to 4 1/2¢ to the best figures since Nov. 4.

The market showed stubborn resistance to pressure despite the rapid upward and the close was at net gains of 4¢ to 4 1/2¢. Winnipeg was strong throughout the day and finished 4 1/2¢ higher.

Almost without exception cables from Argentina indicated that a reduction would have to be made in the estimated wheat crop as the result of black rust damage. Murray and others said that the rust is spreading, and the former cable that material damage had been done, although he did not express the loss in bushels.

Thrashing is progressing in parts of northern Canada, with combines reporting yields of around 3 bu per acre. In parts of that territory rust is said to have resulted in a complete crop failure.

World's Markets Affected.

Prospects of a reduction in the Argentine wheat crop has affected the world's markets, and promises to result in a persistent demand for North American grain. Cables of late have indicated an exportable surplus of 125,000,000 to 150,000,000 bu from that country, although some have shown less than 100,000,000 bu.

Liverpool was relatively strong, and finished 1/4¢ higher, refusing to follow the downturn in North America on Monday. Buenos Aires finished 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ higher despite a lowering in the exchange rate.

General speculative buying of wheat futures yesterday was the largest in some time, with stop loss orders uncovered on the way up, and sellers of wheat were forced to protect themselves on the bulge.

Export demand at the seaboard was less active, although sales were 700,000 to 800,000 bu, including hard winters and Manitobas, with the basis at the Gulf firmer at 192 1/2¢ over December for No. 2 hard, and the local spot basis was steady to 1¢ higher. A local house sold 90,000 bu hard winter now at Buffalo to a miller at Chicago December price.

Corn Higher with Wheat.

Speculative interest in grains seemed to be centered in wheat, and the strength in the latter was largely responsible for a firmer tone in corn with the finish at net gains of 1 1/4¢ to 1 1/2¢. Bulk of the trade was of a local character. Northwestern Iowa offered cash corn to arrive freely at a price that figured out around 70¢ at country loading points for 10 day shipment, and it was estimated that $50,000 bu was booked to arrive from all sections. The spot basis was 1/4¢ to 1 1/2¢ higher with shipping sales of 124,000 bu. There has been a relatively steady reduction in the open interest of corn, and it was the smallest since official records have been kept at the close on Monday.

Buying of December and selling of May oats by elevator and cash interests narrowed the spread to 3 1/2¢ at the last, compared with 4 1/2¢ early Monday. Shorts were also buyers of December, while offerings were limited. The finish was 1/2¢ to 1 1/2¢ higher.

COTTON GAINS FRIENDS

At the close net gains on futures in Chicago were 22 to 30 points, and other markets were up 25 to 28 points. Spots and middlings were 25 points higher. New York, being 17 1/2¢ with higher. New Orleans, 17.50¢. Sales 1,225 bales. Galveston was 17.50¢. Sales 67 bales, and Houston 17.50¢. Sales 407 bales.

Investment Counselors for over a Quarter Century

The End of The Break?

Have stocks touched bottom?

The continuance of the decline in stock prices long after the majority of people were certain that it had ended has raised further questions about the future.

What policy is best now?

Is this a time when purchases should be made with confidence? Or, is it best to keep funds liquid? What about the securities you own?

These questions must be answered, and answered correctly. Investment now is far too important to neglect securing the best advice.

If your investment capital has been impaired the need for sound counsel is just so much greater. The Brookmire extensive research and advisory staffs are prepared to co-operate thoroughly with individuals in building up safe, productive programs.

Giving Light to the man who guides a NATIONAL Advertising Campaign

This morning a typical housewife telephoned the day's order to the grocer . . . a package of Post Toasties, a can of Heinz Baked Beans, a dozen cakes of Palmolive and a box of Lux were some of the items on the list.

But she didn't pause to ask "Are these products first-class today?" "Are they as good in your store as in the store up in Maine, where I bought them last summer?"

For one of the greatest services the national advertiser has rendered the public is the assurance of unvarying quality and value he has put into his trade-marked goods.

No matter when or where purchased, they're always the same in grade and character.

But does the advertiser enjoy the advantages of his own formula in buying advertising?

Can he buy his advertising as he sells his product . . . on an assurance of known and uniform quality?

In purchasing newspaper space, can he select a newspaper circulation in one city matching a newspaper circulation in another city? . . .

—Alike as to character of reader, degree of reader-interest and confidence, average reader-purchasing power, closeness of reader-residence to the city trading area, and lowness of advertising cost, in relation to responsive market coverage?

He CAN... in the 25 SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspapers published in 25 cities.

Obviously, SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspapers do not match each other in size of circulation. That size is regulated by the size of their respective communities and each city's degree of interest in clean, accurate and public-spirited newspaper service.

Nor are the circulations of the SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspapers in every case the largest in their respective cities.

But Scripps-Howard circulations, thousand-for-thousand, are alike in character and in dollar-for-dollar value given to the advertiser.

For each one thousand Scripps-Howard readers an advertiser pays to reach, from San Diego to New York, he gets the same high degree of concentration in the trading area.

—The same economy and equality of advertising rate of cost for city coverage.

—The same freedom from scatteration to points remote from the trading limits.

—The same type of reader-interest attracted by live, efficient and accurate news treatment.

—The same degree of reader-confidence generated by fearless and independent editorial policies.

—The same high net worth of circulation assured by freedom from free offers, premium schemes and other circulation hypodermics.

Because communities differ, SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspapers are not standardized as to news content and editorial issues . . . though they are alike in their completeness of news resources and in their common independence, freedom of action, tolerance and fair dealing.

But their business departments are run on the uniform and standard practice of giving the advertiser the highest volume of influential and profit-paying trading-area circulation, at the lowest feasible cost.

Thus, the values in Scripps-Howard circulation, whether purchased through an individual newspaper unit or by the complete group of 25 newspapers . . . are as known, as uniform, as unvarying as are the values in the advertiser's own package.

Housebroken

By PAUL HERVEY FOX

SYNOPSIS.
Tom Davies, football star of a small eastern college, plays brilliantly in his last game. After the battle Bruce Stevens, his roommate, asks him to go to the dance that night to meet a girl who's been asked down to the college for him. Bruce explains that he wishes to avoid meeting one of the chaperones. Tom agrees to substitute for him. The girl, however, is not the one Tom had in mind. After the dance, Tom writes to her. Before the Christmas holidays Tom meets Suzanne in New York. Suzanne breaks her engagement to the other man when she and Tom realize they love each other, and Suzanne invites Tom to her home to meet her family. Suzanne goes down to the college for commencement.

After graduation Tom's father gives him a small house at Stamford as a wedding present. Suzanne and Tom are married in November, and for the first few months are perfectly happy. One day Tom stays in town to have dinner with some college friends, and on his return Suzanne upbraids him. The storm blows over, and a few weeks later he promises to attend a prize fight with some of the boys. Suzanne creates such a scene that Tom gives up the idea.

Tom is delighted to see him. He asks Bruce to occupy the guest room at their house. Tom has dinner in town and arrive home late. Suzanne is furious. She and Tom quarrel and Tom leaves. He returns to the next morning to find that Suzanne has moved out. Tom goes to a special favor to him to return with him to Stamford. That evening on their return from New York, Suzanne greets them at the door. She is cordial to Bruce. The next day she starts a situation with Bruce.

INSTALLMENT XV. THE TRUTH:

Bruce's mind flashed back to that first evening at the club with Tom. He had missed the last train then. Now he had missed it with Tom's wife. "We'll take a taxi," he said. "I hope Tom won't be worried."

"A taxi will be frightfully expensive. But it's nicer than a train anyway."

She had not mentioned Tom, he noticed.

He kept up some kind of glib talk as they headed for the Post road. He was acutely uncomfortable. If only she had not been Tom's wife! He could have made love to her, or got rid of her easily enough then. As it was, he did not know what to do.

"I'm afraid Tom has given you a pretty unfair picture of me," he said. "It's a matter of fact, I'm really quiet."

"Apparently."

He ground his teeth together softly and said nothing. Did she expect him to make love to her, kiss her? Did she actually—

A sudden thought seemed to drive all the breath out of his body. A thought, that was more than suspicion, that burned its way into his mind with such positive truth, that he felt suddenly like a fool for not having seen everything at once!

"I'm going to tell you something."

Tonight she was coming home late, as Tom had come home late before. Tonight it was Tom who would worry. But more than that, infinitely more alarming, was the purpose behind her willingness to flirt. It explained everything, her tension, her faint nerves.

He heard again those fragmentary words of bitter quarrel which had been the first words he had heard her utter. She had told Tom to send him packing and Tom had refused.

Driven by some unguessed obsession she had deliberately set out to flirt with him, arouse Tom's suspicion and his jealousy. She had set out to break their friendship, to cause an unpleasantness between them that would separate them forever and leave her possessive and triumphant with Tom to rule as she liked for the rest of her days!

So that was it! He ought to have seen this at once. No wonder naive invitations had puzzled him. He ought to have known that she was an actress, playing the game without pleasure.

While he thought he noticed that she was growing sleepy, or allowing herself to appear so. Her small graceful head drooped and found his shoulder.

With perfect confidence now, he lifted her and propped her up.

"O... I was... I was falling asleep."

"We're almost home."

She bent forward and peered out of the window.

In the darkness of the cab Bruce was thinking hard. There came suddenly to his mouth a malicious little grin...

No longer had the cab itself come to a halt outside Tom's door than the door itself snapped open and Tom stood there shading his eyes and looking out.

He gave an anxious and yet relieved shout.

"What happened? What was the trouble? Where were you?"

The poison was working already, though he had no knowledge of that.

Two minutes later Bruce nudged Tom in the hallway and whispered: "I want to see you for a second."

"What?"

"The first chance you get."

Bruce went into the bathroom and began to wash. Presently there came a faint tap on the door. Tom entered. He had a worried, unhappy look.

Bruce shook his head like a dog, dried himself vigorously with a bath towel. Then he turned his knowing gaze on his friend.

"I'm going to speak fast," he said in a low voice. "Also I'm going to tell you the truth—which may end up by my being kicked out of here in the end of night. However, I'm not going to let a little thing like that stop me!"

Tom stopped breathing and grew white. "What are you talking about?"

"Come on, tell me!"

"Don't worry. I want to ask you some personal questions. First off, might as well tell you I heard that row you had the night I landed here. I didn't even have to get up out of bed to listen! How long has that sort of thing been going on?"

"I don't know what you mean."

"I mean—rows."

"O, once in a while."

"What are they about?"

"About playing poker once, and then once when I was going to a prize fight. Things like that."

"Of course, I knew I was right!" and she objects to me for the same reason."

"I don't get you."

"She wants to own you. She wants you to look to her for all pleasure, amusement, consolation, companionship. My poor old Tom, you're being housebroken!"

Tom looked as if a load had been lifted from his heart. To be able to talk at last, to some one who understood how matters lay was like a long-released release. But Bruce would not listen to him.

"We haven't got much time," he said. "She'll be suspicious of every thing right now."

"But what can I do?"

"I'm coming to that but I don't know whether you've got enough left of your own soul to try."

"Go on."

"I'm going to tell you something. It isn't very sweet, but you've got to hear. She's been flirting with me like the devil."

"What?" The cords knotted in Tom's forehead and his eyes darkened. "Sit down. I'm not through. It took me a long while to figure out why she was doing it, so it would take you forever if I weren't here to tell you. She doesn't even like me. In fact, she dislikes me. She's flirting with me to make you jealous so we'll get nasty and I'll beat it from your happy home."

For a moment Tom Davies stared incredulously. Then he slowly shook his head. But he could say nothing.

"Listen, it's straight," Bruce repeated vehemently. "If you don't believe me, you're a lost man!"

"What am I going to do?" Tom moaned at last.

"It depends on how game you are. Do you want to make a fight for your life, or do you want to give in?"

"But what can I do?"

"I'll tell you, but I don't know whether you'll do it."

Tom gazed at the wall. Slowly his mouth hardened and a little flush of anger came into his cheeks.

"I'm not," he said at last. "I guess I'd do anything!"

Bruce chuckled softly.

"Then listen!" he said.

GASOLINE ALLEY—GOING UP

Old Programs Recall Chicago's Simpler Days

When the "Divine Patti" Shared 'Puff' with R. R.

Yellowed theater bills and opera programs of the '70s and '80s in Chicago were displayed at the Newberry library yesterday.

Contributed by Milward Adams, manager of the Auditorium for many years, the exhibits caused old time playgoers to grow reminiscent and younger patrons of the theater to chuckle at the grandiloquent advertising of those days.

Mr. Adams' collection contained autographed photographs of such singers as Adella Patti, Marcella Sembrich, Jean and Edouard de Reske, Johanna Gadski, Lillian Nordica, Miss Schumann-Heink. Others bore the signatures of such musicians as Theodore Thomas, founder of what now is called the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

One of the programs shown was that of the first concert conducted by Theodore Thomas in Chicago, Nov. 27, 1889; another was that of the first opera festival, in April 1885, in a temporary opera house at the foot of Adams street and the lake, at which Patti sang in Rossini's opera "Semiramide."

Accompanying this program was a sample of advertising art in the '80s which read:

"The divine Patti is justly entitled to the imperishable laurels she has won. But infatuation for music and the warblers who give it utterance does not extend to a forgetfulness of the fact that High Art, as manifested in the construction of the magnificent passenger equipment of the Rock Island railroad, equally deserves commendation."

Programs of plays at McVicker's theater since 1857 were shown, with Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson, Sarah Bernhardt, and other artists starring. That theater was founded by the late James H. McVicker. Other programs showed productions at Hooley's Opera house, built in 1871, which later became known as Hooley's theater. It was owned by the late Richard Hooley and some time after his death became Powers' theater. Other programs were from the Grand Opera house, long owned by the Hamlin family. Now it's George M. Cohan's.

A stirring production at Wood's museum, on Monroe street between State and Dearborn streets, in September, 1876, was outlined in a program. The drama, entitled "The Poor and Proud of Chicago, or, Depicting the Lights and Shadows of City Life," was portrayed in six acts, the features of which were detailed in the following language:

"Act 1.—The Dishonest Banker. Death of the Old Sailor. Receipts May Prove Useful."

"Act 2.—The Rich and Poor of Chicago."

"Act 3.—The Returned Californian. The Power of Gold. The Arrest."

"Act 4.—Chicago by Gaslight. How the Poor Amuse Themselves. Introduces Songs and Dances. General Row."

"Act 5.—Home of the Poor. Suffocated by Charcoal Piled and Coffee for Two. Filled Again."

"Act 6.—The Treasure Saved. Dead! No! Worth One Thousand Dead Men! THE CLOUDS HAVE PASSED AND SUNSHINE COMES AT LAST!"

Sergeant York Tells His Story to Chicago Rotary

Members of the Rotary club learned first hand yesterday the experiences of Sgt. Alvin C. York, Tennessee mountaineer who became one of the great heroes of the world war. He told them his story in an address at the Rotary luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. Other guests were Maj. Gen. Frank L. Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area, and the Chicago members of Combat Medal Men's association.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Two hundred cablegrams from fans in the United States were received today at the American hospital at Neuilly. There Adolphe Menjou, movie star, was operated on for appendicitis. The operation was called a success, although Dr. Charles Bove said it was performed just in time. A second operation may be needed later, because of stomach ulcers.

"The chief thing we had to contend with was Mr. Menjou's nervous condition," said Kathryn Carver, his wife. "But he stood the operation much better than we had expected. The doctor gave him drugs tonight to insure him a good night's rest. The worst now seems to be over."

Rome Getting Ready to Receive 3 Kings at Prince's Wedding

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 19.—With the return of the royal family to Rome, workmen today began putting the halls, courts, and gardens of the Quirinal palace, the official royal residence, into shape for the wedding of Crown Prince Humbert to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium.

Preparations are being made to show hospitality to European royalty expected for the ceremonies.

Besides King Victor Emmanuel, father of the prince, King Albert of Belgium, father of the princess; the king of Sweden and the king of Spain also will be here.

According to Duke Giovanni Battista Borea D'Olimpia, prefect of the royal palace, the prince of Wales is also most likely to come to Italy for the wedding previous to his African trip.

Announcements of the wedding are being sent to all the ruling houses of the world, leaving it to the rulers who shall be sent to attend the wedding. No announcements have been sent to the deposed rulers, such as the Hohenollers and the Hapsburgs.

Women Hear Mexican Laud Envoy Morrow

Most Effective U. S. Ever Sent, He Says.

As United States ambassador at Mexico City, Dwight W. Morrow has accomplished more than any other ambassador to that country, Rafael Aveleyra, newly appointed Mexican consul general at Chicago, informed hundreds of members of the Illinois League of Women Voters at Evanston yesterday. Señor Aveleyra was the principal guest at a tea at the Evanston Woman's club.

"Mr. Morrow's record at Mexico City," the consul declared, "is known and appreciated not only among the urban population, but also by the Indians in the mountain districts. When the ambassador visited these districts he was several times invited to spend some time with different tribes."

"Nothing could show Mexico's appreciation of Mr. Morrow's achievements better than an incident that happened at the station in Mexico City when large crowds waited outside the station there for the remains of the flyer, Carranza, to arrive. Carranza was killed about a year ago, and the crowds were waiting for him to return from Spain, Chile, Argentina, and the other countries of the world."

"But suddenly Mr. Morrow arrived in his car, and there was a great pushing and shoving to clear a path for him, and everybody told every body else, 'Make way; make way. Here comes the ambassador.'"

Mexico has thrown off the yoke of Spanish rule forever, asserted the speaker. He told of progress under the republican government, citing the fact that in 1923, 15,000 new schools were opened and 20,000 more in 1924. Juvenile education has become compulsory, he stated, and adults as well as children are going to school.

At a round table discussion of living costs, under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. Norman Graham, comparison was made of the gas and electric light bills of suburban and of Chicago members. The result showed that those in the city proper pay considerably more for these utilities than their suburban friends. An effort will be made to determine the reason for the difference.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus R. Hatton were hosts last night at a reception for the delegates and members at Harris hall, on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question C. L. Clark, 903 Auburn street, Rockford, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

What do you do when you find there is insufficient room to get your parked car out?

The Answers.

Lester Bently, 735 Cass street, art student—Put her in low and push ahead. Just recently I found a big car back of and tight up against mine, with brakes on the car in gear. The line ahead was blocked solid, no chance there.

I bent my fender trying to budge that big car, but it did no good. Not even what I told the big car's driver twenty minutes later did any good.

J. A. Garlin, 4712 North Kilpatrick avenue, clerk—That's something that happens every so often, yet I always have managed to get out. If the car ahead can't be pushed forward usually the car at the rear can be pushed back.

Harry L. Deer, 3027 Hartwell avenue, Evanston, Ill., registered pharmacist—There are not many things one can do except to try to move the car ahead or at the rear. With a few inches of available space one can work one's way out. I have noticed bumps on the corners of my fenders, which I imagined were caused by other motorists trying to get out or trying to crowd in.

William B. McCloud, 5555 Van Buren street, salesman—I generally try to push the other cars one way or the other. If brakes are not set this can be done without damaging any of the cars. I used to have a big car, but this year I sold it and got a small one because of parking troubles.

Everett Egger, Elgin, Ill., bricklayer—I always have been able to get my car out by pushing the other ones. When I park my car I generally leave a couple of feet at one or the other end of my car. All motorists should do the same. Any law governing this phase of curb parking probably would not be practical.

That is the tale, told with a minimum of action and many, many words. It will be packed into a single act of, perhaps, fifteen minutes. I assume that the Meaning—since all plays from Czechoslovakia are said to carry a Meaning—is that it is best to let well enough alone, or something like that.

What gives joy to me in the Goodman's new bill is the unbelievable improvement in the acting, both individually and ensemble. It may be that credit is due to Hubert Osborne, who directed the staging of the play; I don't know, but I do know that the performance is immeasurably better than anything previously given in this theater. Mrs. Root, Mr. Mervis, Mr. Murray, and Mr. Caldwell are especially good.

"The Makropoulos Secret" will run through December 7, and will be succeeded, the 10th, by a new version of "Around the World in Eighty Days."

Dorothy Dalton Here on Way to Return to Films

Dorothy Dalton, screen star of several years ago, who has been living on her New York farm since she married Arthur Hammerstein five years ago, arrived in Chicago from New York yesterday. She was accompanied by her three year old daughter, Carol Louise, and her mother, Mrs. John Hamilton Dalton. This morning the three will leave for Hollywood, where Miss Dalton will return to the films in "Ridge 64," directed by her husband.

Cease Angelotti, an escaped political prisoner.....Antonio Nicolosi

Spoleto, agent of police.....Lodovico Oliviero
Sciaronne, a gendarme.....Eugenio Sandrali
A shepherd.....Anna Corwell
Conductor.....Robert Morosoni

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Here with only a few of the most minor changes is the piece that has been one of the Chicago Opera company's good shows for a number of seasons past. It was a good show in the days before the Civic Opera company came into existence, a time from which Miss Raisa, Mr. Treviani, and Mr. Oliviero are the only survivors; it continued its traditions last night.

For Miss Raisa has the spark which makes her a fine, at times a thrilling Tosca, and it makes no difference that occasionally last night she and Mr. Morosoni found trouble in establishing relations of union with each other. These things are accidental, the same sort of accident that occurred when the curtains were pulled apart at the end of the first act, disclosing a cast leaving for their dressing rooms and a startled stage force coming on. They make no difference in the final summing up of the performance.

What did make a difference was to hear Miss Raisa's voice melt and caress in adoring love song, to hear it pass through defiance, to hear it again speaking the line which translated, "And before him trembled all Rome," to see her tiptoe away from Scarpia's recently made corpse, through the door with the moonlight on her face. These were the things that gave thrills to the performance, and as many times as it has been given it still had thrills last night.

This was the first performance of the season for Mr. Vanni-Marcoux, and he was a grand villain of a Scarpia. He makes a portrait in some of the lighter vein than a good many others of the tribe. He can smile occasionally, but though you might be able to question his taste in humor, you are unable to question the fact that he is a highly effective figure. In enunciation, in action, in the turn of a word rather than in quality of singing voice he projects with great vividness the character of this extraordinary chief of police, and the spark is there, too.

With two such characters before him, it was up to Mr. Hackett to be uncommonly good as the painter, and he was. His solo of the first act, his other one of the third, up on the roof of St. Angelo, were sung with highly artistic voice and style, in manner throughout was well bred and distinguished.

His only lapse was in the defiance shrieked at Scarpia in the second act, and this was in great part Puccini's fault for writing so much of it for an ineffective part of the voice. It should really be sung by two men, the first two phrases by a baritone, the last two by a tenor. Just the same, it was the best performance Mr. Hackett ever gave of the part. And there was another great artist in the cast, Mr. Treviani as the assistant of St. Andrea della Valle, who sang only through the first act, but Mr. Treviani has built it up into a perfect characterization, a lame, easily startled, ungrateful, clumsy coward who even at his most malignant is always amusing.

The chorus at the end of the first act in spite of a better staged scene rather failed of its effect, becoming thin and shrill rather than full toned, and stately. To compensate for this, Mr. Morosoni's conducting of the orchestral prelude to the third act was a fine, imaginative, and charming scene, the performance of a true artist.

Folke Anderson, formerly of the Royal opera, Stockholm, arrived in Chicago yesterday to sing at the Swedish Music festival. The latter will be held on Sunday evening in the new Civic Opera house under the auspices of the Chicago Swedish Glee club and the American Daughters of Sweden.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

You Can Walk a Glow of Health Into Your Complexion

Every time I introduce the subject of walking I work myself into a frame of mind bordering on the apocalyptic. I do considerable of it myself and in my jaunts meet so few of my sex chasing health from the same angle that I wonder if talking walking isn't one of those useless occupations you hear about.

This, however, may start a few feet out on the boardwalk way. A young woman in the beauty parlor where I turn my head every now and then for shampoo and dressing attention, was gaining weight rapidly. One would think with all the standing she has to do in a day's work and the necessary walking about the shop that she would get enough exercise. Her appetite was quite normal, and her leaning to careful choice of foods, so that couldn't be blamed for the 10 superfluous pounds.

She lives forty blocks from her work. She started a little more than three weeks ago using her own leg power instead of the street car to get her to her destination, mornings, and back home again at night, too. Sometimes, she admits, it took courage to go past that street car corner after the day's work.

Well, she walks chalked her to the

Now, if that isn't enough to get you to dragging out the comfortable of exercise, I can tell you another. It was a complexion rejuvenation. The details are not necessary other than that this person did a three to four mile sprint daily and in one month's time she had the joy of having two of her pale ask her what kind of makeup she was now using. Her complexion was improved amazingly.

She had a trick of complexion benefit in addition to the walking. Before she set out she cleaned her face, then patted in a little cream, not enough to make the face too greasy for the walk. Immediately on her arrival home she hopped into a warm bath, followed it with a shower from cool to cold, using the spray on her face and neck. A ten minutes' rest followed that and honestly, her skin looks wonderful now.

Here's the best time of the year to get the glow in your cheeks. And if it's fat you want to walk off or on, try the three to four mile cure. It is wonderful.

Cooking Pears.

The cooking pears which are now in high season lend themselves to many a conserve or compote or preserve. Fine firm pears are best, but even when a cooking pear is stewed or "poached" in a sugar syrup, and freshened up so much as to seem like a pear preserve.

Poached pears, when properly combined with something not sweet, make a cosmopolitan dessert and are easy to prepare. For the syrup in which to poach them, use just as much sugar as cold water and stir this over the fire until the sugar has dissolved and the whole cooked to syrup stage. For four pears one cup of sugar and one cup of water make a little too much syrup. That amount is ample for six pears. Peel and quarter the pears, add them to the syrup and cook gently about fifteen minutes. Skim them out of the syrup, which may be boiled down somewhat, arrange the pieces in a crown shape in a glass compote dish and pour the syrup over them. It is a little risky to flavor that syrup with vanilla, but if only a trifle is used it does make it seem finer and richer, especially if the pears are served with whipped cream or ice cream. This method of treating the pear seems to bring out the acid in it so that there is a contrast between the syrup and the fruit.

Many times it has been affirmed here that the following is the original version of a ginger pear conserve, and the affirmation was made because it has authentic proof behind it. Take eight pounds of hard pears, weighed after they have been peeled and cored, eight pounds of sugar, two ounces of fresh ginger root, the juice and rind of six lemons (or fewer will be to the taste of most people) and one cup of water. Peel the ginger root, cut it in small pieces and let it soak in the cup of water while preparing the pears, which should be chopped fine and the lemon rind cut into small pieces and added to them. Then add the sugar and water and ginger. Cook slowly at a low temperature until the mixture is clear. Put into jelly glasses and seal. Use like any marmalade.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

Several Art Shows Are Based Upon Chicagoans' Works

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A number of exhibitions are opening this week. One of the most important is that at the Chicago Woman's club, where there is a combined exhibit of work by the artist members of the South Side Art association, the Oak Park and West Suburban, and the North Shore Art leagues.

At the Stevens hotel the autumn exhibition of paintings and sculpture by members of the Chicago Society of Artists is current. The prize awards have just been made. A still life by Frances Foy was given the gold medal; a still life by George Josimovich was awarded the silver medal; a piece of sculpture, "Cambodian Dancers," by Olga Cassing, carried off the bronze medal.

An exhibition of wax portraits, delicate, charming and colorful, by Ethel Frances Mundy, may be seen in the Ackermann galleries, where there also is a group of original drawings by Thomas Rowlandson.

In the Illinois Woman's Athletic club there may be found an interesting exhibit of paintings by Jessie Day Cooke and C. H. Cooke, both Chicago artists of decided talent. The Hoosier Art gallery opened an exhibit Monday of Brown county landscapes by Dale Besire, and of Brown county types by Edward K. Williams. The paintings are both from Nashville, Ind., and Brown county is, of course, the Indiana happy hunting ground of artists.

The American Friends of the Austrian Werkbund are opening tomorrow at the Kroch galleries and in the Art Institute a comprehensive exhibit of work from the Austrian Werkbund. The exhibit comprises many and various handicrafts and is one of the most delightful that has been arranged here. There will be a reception tomorrow in the Kroch galleries to honor Miss Marianne Willach, the Viennese woman really responsible for the Werkbund.

The exhibitions will run through the month.

Scientists Tell How Glaciers Carved Out Harbor, Built Hills

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The records of 1,000 thin layers of clay, made by the great glacier that blanketed the northern United States 30,000 years ago, were figuratively peeled apart today by the pages of a book and their story read to the National Academy of Sciences at Princeton university today.

The glacier's story was told by Dr. Chester A. Reeds and Dr. Ernst Antevy, of the American Museum of Natural History. The glacier's southern boundary stretched from Cape Cod across middle Long Island, New York City, northern New Jersey and Pennsylvania, Columbus, O., St. Louis and then followed the course of the Missouri river and cut the Pacific coast near Seattle. It built the famous narrow of New York harbor and left a line of hills across the continent.

Each year, Dr. Reeds said, it laid down two deposits of clay, thin in winter, thicker in summer averaging one and three-quarters inches deep. In quarries of Haverstraw, N. Y., he measured layer by layer 136 of these years. Antevy at New Haven measured 345.

The clay leaves revealed that the weather 30,000 years ago ran in three year to five year cycles of cool years and warm, with occasional 11 year peaks of warmth. The same weather cycles appear today, he said, citing recent meteorological records.

Dr. W. J. V. Osterhout of Rockefeller Institute, New York, described living plant cells several inches long, that transmit electrical effects almost exactly the same as nerves are believed to act. He has been studying the cells to explain how nerves may produce feeling. He concluded that possibly an electrical effect passes quickly along the nerve surface and that when those effects succeed each other rapidly they produce sensation.

Tying Tight Sleeves Change Their Tactics

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—For the woman who "can't" put on a pound of flesh, no matter what she eats—yes, for the special benefit of this minority—the French designers have put on new sleeves. It is a blessing, for one can imagine no greater affront to the angular arm than the long, narrow fitted sleeves which have been minted by thousands throughout the past seasons.

Yes, infinitely more becoming are the new types, for not only have most of them widened perceptibly, but many are endowed with softening feminine touches. Cuffs, both plain and mousetail are sponsored on both coat and dress sleeves. Bell shaped types have rung other changes. Inset bands in geometric effects break that long line so disastrous to the thin arm. Above all, long gathered pieces attached to the forearm are here to relieve the situation. Regarding the latter, one feels that the presence of these sleeve folds had much to do with the success of one of Patou's most famous models—we mean, of course, "Lily."

You find this type of sleeve treatment again demonstrated in today's imported model of dahlia colored maroon crepe. These graceful folds away from the arm seek collaboration, too, in the inset bands of self material forming an angle on the forearm. For the rest we encounter here again the natural waist line, the seamings over the hip which result in side fullness, and the slightly bloused corsage.

Nor can that draped collar abetted by its scarf go without notice. The fashion of draping the neck line ranks almost as high in the humanitarian field as does that of softening the fitted sleeve. For nothing was ever more becoming to the not-plump-enough throat and neck than the unrelieved neck line.

Took a Taxi Ride.

Every one, no doubt, has his embarrassing moments, but only one he will always remember. Mine came one Saturday when I invited a girl to a game in Pittsburgh. We were late leaving town and all the way to the stadium I asked the driver to go faster while we told each other we would not miss this game for anything.

Imagine if you can the red hue on my face when I stepped out of the taxi and found that both tickets and money had been left behind. As the game was well under way and traffic conditions were terrible, it was impossible for me to get back to the game before late in the final period. She told me she liked to travel almost 200 miles to pay a taxi bill.

One Saturday morning when little Buddy, 4, was out on the sidewalk with his dog, Skippy, his kindergarten teacher came along and said, "Good morning, Buddy, how are you this morning?"

"We're both quite well, thank you," he replied.

Small Joan, aged 4, whose mother had been gone on three consecutive afternoons attending bridge parties, remarked after mother had entertained her bridge club on the fourth day, "Mother, I'll bet there were lots of little girls and boys lonesome while their mothers were at your party."

Descendants of Forty-niners Busy Gold Digging in '29

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Are the descendants of the old forty-niners showing up hereditary gold digging traits? If you would believe Arden, the male is becoming a perfect whiz at laying out stakes where automobiles and rich papas abound. But you don't have to believe Arden—only listen to her:

"The other day I ran across an old acquaintance I had not seen in three years. We were on friendly terms three years ago, but he never dated me or anything like that. Just friends. I did not tell him I had a car, but he found it out. Now he calls me almost every day. The light began to dawn several days ago when he happened to meet me on the avenue.

"Can't you go home and get your car and take me for a ride? It would be a wonderful day to go out in the country." That almost burned me up, for I did rather like the fellow. The other night he called me up again and asked me if I wouldn't come and take him for a ride.

"Well, I've made inquiries around among the girls and find there wasn't anything so original about the request. They're all in the same boat. If they have a car. Two of them tell me that boys have asked them to borrow the family car for the dancing or theater date. I can't help but feel it is terribly bad form. Do you suppose the men don't know any better?"

Bad form—yes. But there's another side to the picture. There are a number of fair young auto owners who volunteer the lift, who ask boys if they don't want to take a run into the country and if they wouldn't like them to borrow Dad's car for the dance.

Also, there is this angle. Girls do expect to be toted to and from places of entertainment in anything but street car, "L," or subway, which leaves nothing much but a taxi if the young man hasn't a car of his own or a girl with a car available. And taxi fares do mount up in the evening's outlay.

Nevertheless, it is bad form to ask any one for the use of his or her car, or for the pleasure of a ride therein.
